Kennedy Picks Negro To Head Homes Agency

Republican Gets Nation Security Affairs Position

PALM BEACH (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today selected the first Negro to a high-ranking position in the new administration.

He named Robert C. Weaver, nationally known housing expert and current chairman of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People to be administrator of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Standing in the sun-baked patio of Kennedy's oceanfront villa, Weaver, now a member of the Housing and Redevelopment Board of New York City, said he was a firm advocate of "open occupancy and non-discrimination" in all types of housing.

TELLS STAND

This was his answer when asked whether he favored a requirement that homes should be available for sale to Negroes before being eligible for federal mortgages.

The appointment of Republican McGeorge Bundy, brilliant Harvard scholar and dean, as Kennedy's special assistant in the field of national security affairs, also was announced.

The appointment ran into storm clouds from Kennedy's home state, however. Gov. Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts criticized the appointment and said the 41-year-old Harvard dean was "lacking in qualifications" for the post.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

At a news conference where Kennedy made the formal announcement of Weaver's appointment, there were these other new highlights:

Kennedy has asked Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the late president, to take a position in the new administration. The president-elect said, however, that Roosevelt has other obligations and will give Kennedy his answer in about a week.

He declined to comment on the report that Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver is under consideration of Secretary of the Army.

Laos Reports Red Invasion By North Viet Nam Troops

7 Units Reported Crossing Border

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Radio Vientiane reported today that Communist North Viet Nam troops had crossed into Laos in force, creating a situation so dangerous to peace that President Eisenhower called in state and defense department officials to discuss the crisis.

The Communist North Vietnamese news agency denied the invasion reports but boasted that two columns of Red Laotian forces under paratroop Capt. Kong Le were driving on the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang in heavy fighting.

ATTACK ON BORDER

Radio Vientiane, in the administrative capital of Laos, said seven battalions of Vietminh troops—upwards of 7,000 men—had attacked the border towns of Nong Het and Ban Ban in a region 115 miles southeast of Luang Prabang. It called it an "invasion."

Fragmentary diplomatic reports reaching Washington tended to support the invasion reports but American authorities warned that it was too early to say whether the operations across the border were of the magnitude reported by the pro-Western Laotian government.

NO OFFICIAL REPORTS

A Laotian government spokesman in New York said there was no immediate plan for Ambassador Sisouk Na Champassak to confer with United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold or to convene the Security Council. He indicated no official reports had been received.

North Viet Nam appeared to be setting the stage for a possible invasion despite its denials. It said troops from free South Viet Nam and Thailand had entered Laos and were fighting under command of American, Filipino and Thai officers.

Ike, Advisers Meet On Asia Invasion Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower met today for more than an hour with top government, civilian and military chiefs to discuss reports of a Communist invasion of Laos.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the president conferred for one hour and 15 minutes with acting secretary of state Livingston T. Merchant, deputy defense secretary James H. Douglas, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, and CIA chief Allen Dulles.

Hagerty, who sat in on the meeting, said there would be no announcement as a result of the session.

"The president has stayed and is continuing to stay in close touch" with the Laos situation, he said.

Asked if the president and his advisers had chosen a course of action during the meeting, Hagerty replied "I can't say one way or the other."

$15,000 Blaze Hits Firm In Larkspur

The second fire within a week struck the three-business building in the 1100 block of Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur this morning.

The Paint Pot Decorating Studio, which is connected to Gaye-Larks Restaurant and Decorative Draperies, suffered damages estimated at $15,000. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

A $13,000 fire of undetermined origin ripped through the storeroom in back of the entire building Christmas Day.

The Larkspur Fire Department received the call this morning at 5:30 and had the blaze under control in fifteen minutes. Twenty men from the Larkspur Fire Department responded and the Kentfield Fire Department was on alert for possible help.

The flames damaged only the paint store, but the other two business concerns suffered water and smoke damage.

More than 1,500 feet of fire hose was used by the firemen in quelching the blaze. Five units responded from the Larkspur department.

Liquor Store Robber Takes Off With $305

A revolver-toting robber walked off with $305 last night from the Kirby and Yates Liquor Store at 457 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

John Guendner, 44, the clerk on duty, said a slender young man pointed the revolver at him, handed him a paper sack, and said, "Put all the folding money from the till in the bag."

After taking $252 which was in the cash register, the robber told Guendner to turn around and empty his pockets on the counter. When the clerk did this, the man snatched his wallet containing $53 and his keys.

When the paper bag was loaded with the money, Guendner, who lives at 424 Williams Street, Larkspur, was told to lie down in back of the store and "not to move for five minutes."

Guendner said he heard the gunman walk out the door, quietly shutting it behind him.

The robber was described as a man about 30, approximately 5 feet 10, slender with a medium complexion. He was wearing a dark sport coat and slacks and had on a pair of dark glasses.

The robbery resembles the Christmas Eve holdup of Sam and Eddie's Liquor Store in San Rafael. The robber's description was 5 feet 4. The details of the crimes were approximately the same.

Headstone Theft Admitted By Boys

Two teen-age boys last night admitted taking a headstone from the Fernwood Cemetery on Tennessee Valley Road and dumping it in front of C's Drive In at 510 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

No charges have been filed against the youths, who said they did it "on a whim." They were picked up by sheriff's deputies after their car was recognized as they left the drive-in.

They admitted taking the stone but said it was lying on the ground and not on a grave.

De Gaulle Hint

PARIS (AP) —President Charles de Gaulle tonight implied that if his Algerian policies are not solidly approved in next month's referendum he will resign. In a nationwide radio and television address, de Gaulle appealed for an overwhelming approval of his plans to grant home rule to the territory.

Child-Stealing Warrant Issued

A felony warrant for child-stealing was issued yesterday for Orin Wayne Spangler, divorced husband of Christel Louise Argujio of 930 George Street, Novato.

Spangler was charged with taking their child, 2-year-old Richard Wayne Spangler, over whom Mrs. Argujio has custody.

She told sheriff's deputies yesterday that Spangler, a resident of Covina (Los Angeles County), asked to take the child for a ride Thursday. He has not returned.

W. R. Hansen Resigning Corte Madera Council

William R. Hansen, Corte Madera town councilman for three years and mayor one year, will resign from the council Jan. 31.

Hansen, an engineer with Standard Oil Co. of California in San Francisco, is being transferred to Anaheim to a position with California Chemical Co.

Hansen will submit his resignation to the council Tuesday.

Hansen was appointed to the council in 1957 to fill the unexpired term of William Ball. He was elected to a four-year term in April, 1958, and served as mayor then to April, 1959.

He also is resigning from the Marin County Flood Control Commission.

A native of Fresno, Hansen was reared in Oakland. He lived in Whittier and San Francisco before moving to Corte Madera in 1955.

Hansen, his wife, Barbara, daughter, Margaret, 9, and son, Robert, 4, live at 4 Birch Avenue.

Mrs. Hansen has been active in the Sunny Hills Guild. Hansen is a member of the Sausalito Yacht Club.

The councilman said he was leaving the area and his town office with regrets and thanks for the cooperation of fellow councilmen and the people of Corte Madera.

Sausalito Picks New Librarian

The Sausalito Library Board selected a new librarian at its meeting yesterday, but will withhold the name of the person until she has had time to notify her present employer.

City Manager Charles A. Brown said it is expected that the new librarian, replacing Mabel Wosser, who retired Nov. 1, will take over the position by Jan. 15.

Cuba's Press Again Sees U.S. Invasion

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The government press in Cuba today published a new charge that U.S. Marines will invade Cuba soon.

Two newspapers said Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime has been informed the Marines will land before Jan. 18 on orders of the outgoing Eisenhower administration.

In similar stories, the semi-official Revolucion and the government controlled El Mundo said the Marines would be committed by President Eisenhower.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa was reported to have left Havana to denounce the alleged invasion plot before the United Nations in New York.

In Washington, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty replied "Nuts." He said the invasion stories were a "typical smokescreen. There isn't a word of truth in it."

Coinciding with the reports, the Cuban Cabinet decided the foreign ministry will determine in the future what tourists from the U.S. may enter the country without visas.

Three Injuries Lead Off Marin Traffic Mishaps

Three injury accidents last night — two involving drunk drivers, one a hit and run and the third a speeder—led off Marin County's New Year's weekend traffic mishaps.

Throughout the nation, traffic fatalities were mounting slowly today, lending hope that the final death count during the long weekend would be lower than expected.

At noon the nationwide count of traffic deaths stood at 49. In addition, there were 14 fatalities from fires and six from other miscellaneous accidents.

Cited for drunken driving was Arthur Lee Shipman, 20, a U.S. Navy radioman from New Mexico, who fled the scene of an accident at the entrance to Hamilton Air Force Base and was captured after a high speed chase along Highway 101; and Lyland P. Mills, 35, a San Francisco psychiatrist employed by the State Dept. of Mental Health.

Involved in a one-car accident and cited for speeding was Ludlow John Daniels, 18, of 435 Marin Avenue, who crashed into a PG&E power pole when he lost control of his car in a turn at Almonte Avenue and Wisteria Way in Mill Valley.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Shipman drove into two cars which were stopped for a turn into Hamilton, sending the driver and passenger in one of the cars to the hospital.

Treated at the base hospital for minor bruises were Warrant Officer Chauncy Perry, 53, of 213 Bolling Road, HAFB, and his wife Vera, 53.

Mills crashed into the rear of a southbound car driven by Robert L. Fassio, 24, of Petaluma as the latter was slowing down to turn into Entrada Drive at Ignacio.

Mills was treated for minor injuries at a San Francisco hospital.

Daniels reportedly went to Letterman Hospital in San Francisco.

ENGAGEMENT of Donna Jean Dietrich and Allen Emerson Thomas (above) was announced at a party last night given by her parents, Capt. and Mrs. Irving C. Dietrich of Novato. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll E. Thomas of San Rafael are parents of the future benedict. (Photo by Luther Greer)

Dona Dietrich's Betrothal To Allen Thomas Announced

Capt. and Mrs. Irving C. Dietrich of Novato announced the engagement of their only daughter, Donna Jean Dietrich, and Allen Emerson Thomas at a party at their home last night. Attending were 50 guests, relatives and close friends. Donna has three brothers, Darrel, Edward and Don Dietrich, all of Novato. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Schoeder and Mrs. Gladys Dietrich of Dixon. Donna, a graduate of San Rafael High School, attended San Jose State College majoring in public relations. She is a business representative for the Pacific Telephone Co. in San Rafael.

Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll E. Thomas of San Rafael, has one brother, Trevor Thomas of San Rafael. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Thomas of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Paul Haze of Los Angeles.

The future benedict is a graduate of San Rafael High School and attended San Francisco State College where he majored in business administration. He is with Thomas Swan Co. Inc. of San Francisco. He is a member of the National Guard, completing training at Fort Ord.

No definite wedding plans have been made.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED AT DINNER

The bride-to-be was graduated from Tamalpais High School and attended College of Marin. Leah has a sister, Ruth, who attends Redwood High and her brother, Mark, student at Henry C. Hall School. Her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lindsey of Fairfax.

The future bridegroom has two sisters, Marcia and Doreen, both of Napa. Al completed his high school education in Napa and is serving in the Army in Yuma, Arizona.

The wedding has been set for Feb. 4. After Al has completed his Army service in July, the young couple will live in Sunnyvale.

Mr. and Mrs. Lesly Daveler of Larkspur at a family Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey in Walnut Creek announced the engagement of their daughter, Leah to Albert Anderson, son of Mrs. John Harris of Napa.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Gala New Year's Eve Celebrations

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Young 1961 will be given a royal welcome tonight at countless parties in homes and clubs. One of the largest and gayest parties will be the dinner dance at the Meadow Club. It begins with a 7:30 p. m. cocktail hour and will continue long after midnight when brilliantly colored balloons will be released to float over the heads of the dancers.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Grady, chairmen of the event, are being assisted by Messrs. and Mesdames Arthur V. Fay, Merton Hipsley, Rinaldo Sciaroni, Henry Skinner and J. William Zimmerman. Many of the members are hosting large tables. Frank Paganini, president of the club, and his wife are entertaining, so are Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Furlong, Senator and Mrs. John McCarthy, Dr. and Mrs. John Cann, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Campion, the Albert Arnolds, Edwin Christies, John O'Connells, William McDevitts, Horace Seamans, Edgar Lindners and Russell Westovers.

PROBABLY the largest affair in Mill Valley will be the annual Lions Club new year's party at the Mill Valley Golf Clubhouse as this year couples from the Homestead Valley and Almonte Improvement Clubs will join them rather than have their own neighborhood celebrations.

Festivities will start at 8 with cocktails. There will be dancing to orchestra music until midnight, when a buffet supper will be served.

Assisting General Chairman Jack Brabo are Messrs. and Mesdames Bill Gilmore, Fred Bitgood and Max Staley, Mrs. Joe Eastburn and Ed Roberts.

The other big party is the annual dinner dance of Marin's Merry-go-rounders Social Club for young married couples at the Outdoor Art Clubhouse. About 65 couples are attending.

SAUSALITO Woman's Club's gala New Year's eve dinner dance is setting the party mood in that city. Among those attending with guests will be:

The Knaebels and Thompsons are entertaining at cocktail parties at their homes before the dinner dance, which is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Davis.

FOLLOWING a pleasant custom for several years Mrs. Robert O'Mara and Mrs. Benedict Giusto are entertaining at a New Year's Eve party at the Mrs. O'Mara's San Rafael home tonight. They are inviting friends "to drop in for some New Year's cheer at anytime after 8 p.m."

THE ROSS HOME of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Hinsman will be opened for a New Year's eve party. They've invited a number of their friends and those of their three daughters, Mary, Katherine and Carolyn, and their dates to a buffet supper. Carolyn attends Katherine Branson School, Kathy goes to UC and Mary, UC at Davis. Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jeffries and their daughter, Susan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Boatner Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. V. Balfour James. Incidentally Mr. and Mrs. James entertained about 25 of their friends at their home last night.

WELCOMING the new year at a midnight supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Mitchell of Mill Valley will be Messrs. and Mesdames William Donaldson and Sidney Rhodes, Mrs. F. J. Connelly and her daughter, Carol, Mesdames de Witt Clark and Edwin C. Wood and Miss Erhman Morton.

SEEING the old year out and the new one in together at the Mill Valley home of Kent Seymours will be Messrs and Mesdames William Marcus, T. C. Wellman, William Hamilton, L. C. Beringer, Lucien Marsh and Mesdames E. M. Shelton and Delmar Clinton. Also present will be Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Franklin of New Jersey, who with the Seymour's daughter and her husband, the Frederick Franklins Jr. of Morristown, N. J. who have been spending the holidays in the Bay area.

THE EDWARD JOHNSONS of Mill Valley have invited as their guests for a New Year's Eve dinner Messrs. and Mesdames Robert Andresen, Clifford Worth, Timothy Hall, A. M. Donnan, John V. Buckley, Dr. and Mrs. Orville Grimes.

A DANCE and midnight supper will be hosted tonight by Bill Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, at the San Rafael home of his godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Chambers. He's invited 40 classmates at Sir Francis Drake High School to welcome the New Year with him.

GUESTS of Dr. and Mrs. James J. Daly at their home at Marin Golf and Country Club this week have been Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kuharick and their sons Larry and Billy. Mr. Kuharick is head football coach at Notre Dame University and is assistant coach for the East in the annual Shrine East West game being played today at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco. Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Kuharick with their sons will leave for Honolulu where Joe will coach at the Hula Bowl. Wednesday Dr. and Mrs. Daly and Mr. and Mrs. Kuharick attended the Notre Dame alumni dinner at Rickey's in Palo Alto. Joe spent most of the time autographing his just published book "Football for Boys." Dr. Daly is head of all athletics at University of San Francisco and he and Joe have been close friends ever since the latter was coach of the football team there.

FRIENDS of long standing as well as newer acquaintances attended the twentieth wedding anniversary party of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Mosden of Berkeley given Wednesday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Adolphus Graupner on Walnut Street in San Francisco.

A number of guests had also been present at the fashionable wedding of Eleanor Graupner and Frederick Mosden at Trinity Episcopal Church in San Francisco on Dec. 29, 1940.

For the anniversary party Mrs. Mosden wore black and white lace and Mrs. Graupner was gowned in a mauve and black organza with sequins. Mrs. Graupner's sister, Mrs. William Shea, widow of Adm. Shea, flew from Long Beach for the party and presided at the coffee urn.

In the family group were the Mosden's son, Kit, Eleanor's brother, Adolphus E. Graupner Jr., and his son, Karl E. (Ted) Graupner and his wife, Suzanne, who live in San Rafael.

Among Marin friends present were Miss Amy Edwards, over from Bolinas, the Frank Wilkins,, Allan Sprouls, Ned Griffiths, Robert Ingrams, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baumgartens, and the Robert Carys and also the John Ziels who spend much time at their ranch in Nicasio.

The Ziels are entertaining at a New Year's Eve party tonight at their San Francisco home.

EXCLUSIVELY entertained during their visit here were Mr. and Mrs. Alan Laidlaw, formerly of Marin, who left on Thursday morning for Washington, D.C., where Alan, who is connected with the State Department, will attend an International Cooperation Administration School for four months. He will then be assigned a new post, probably in Africa. He was just previously at a post in Formosa and has been at the University of Boston, Oxford, London, Brussels and Paris. Mrs. Laidlaw was in Palma, Mallorca building a house on the famous Son Vida Estates where Prince and Princess Rainier have also bought property. The Laidlaw house is now finished and furnished. Mrs. Laidlaw joined her husband in Paris and they flew to New York and from there to Washington where Alan's tour of duty ended. Unfortunately when they arrived in San Francisco, Mrs. Laidlaw was taken immediately to Franklin Hospital for surgery. However, she recovered soon and could enjoy the large cocktail and buffet dinner party her sister, Mrs. Donald C. Perry (Alice Gilogly) and her husband gave on Dec. 22. Several small dinners were given for the visitors. Mrs. Laidlaw, the former Marie Gilogly, was reared in San Rafael and attended Dominican. Alan is a member of the well known Sausalito family and went to Hitchcock Military Academy in San Rafael.

A BEAUTIFUL memory lingers of the Cotillion on Tuesday night at the Sheraton-Palace in San Francisco when 32 young women were introduced formally to Society. The Garden Court was transformed into a lovely Old World garden. The debs came through a French arbor to make their curtsies and were introduced by Percy King, and presented with mementos, golden calendar charms with the name of the deb engraved and rubies marking the date. The girls walked through the Rose Room and the Concert Room where they were introduced again by Thomas Carr Howe. The presentations over, the debs and their escorts assembled in the court for the cotillion figure.

Marin girls presented were Anne Macey, daughter of Mrs. Marion Bridgman Macey of Kentfield, Sara Malone, whose parents are the Adrian Malones of San Anselmo, and Anne Stine, daughter of the Oliver Stines of Ross. Also introduced was Evelyn Thacher Bossange of the pioneer Kent clan of Marin, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Bossange Jr. came from their home in Syosset Long Island for the cotillion and attendant festivities.

College Set Entertained At Party

Ross Parlette, son of the Ralph Parlettes of Mill Valley, who is attending the Massachusetts Institute of Technonogy in Cambridge on a scholarship, entertained a group of young people at a party at his parents' home Wednesday evening.

Most of the guests, many also scholarship students, were friends home from college for the holidays. They included Ed Bedeccarrax, who attends University of California at Berkeley; David Cavagnaro and Bob Little, University of California at Davis; Vickie Emerson, Skidmore College, New York; Bill Emerson, University of California at Santa Barbara; Konnie Klenk and Elizabeth Risley, San Francisco State College; Spring Kraeger, Whitman College, Washington; Stephen Taylor, Brown College in Rhode Island; Lisa Mibach, Mills College in Oakland; and Kenneth Schultz and Candy McDonnell, Stanford University.

The Tam High students attending were Sam Reed, David Hoag, Nicky McDonnell and Elaine Kiechie.

After an Asian Indian dinner the young people danced and discussed college experiences.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Resignations Accepted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield and John Hay Whitney, U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain. Both resignations will take effect on Jan. 20, when the Eisenhower administration goes out of office.

Hospital Fire

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., (UPI) — Fire started in the maternity ward of Park Place Hospital today and destroyed almost half of the hospital, but not before nurses, firemen and police had rescued 63 patients, including eight newborn babies. The explosion of a sterilizer probably started the fire.

Discoverer Dies

BEDFORD (UPI) — The Discoverer XVII satellite, launched Nov. 12 at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., has burned up in the earth's atmosphere, according to the national space surveillance control center here.

Officials said yesterday the satellite was last observed early Thursday as it made a 719th revolution. It apparently disintegrated soon after, officials said.

There are still 34 man-made objects including 16 U.S. satellites and one Soviet satellite in orbit. The other objects are "space junk," rocket bodies and other items which went into orbit during lauchings.

Brown Escapes Briefs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown escaped injury in a minor auto accident in downtown Sacramento yesterday. A car driven by Aury Canson of Sacramento pulled out of an alley and hit Brown's limousine, driven by Highway Patrolman Louis Cotter.

Tent City Gunfire

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Armed Negroes guarding a tent village of displaced Negro sharecroppers said four shots were fired at the village from a passing automobile early today but that nobody was hurt.

The guards returned the fire.

It was the second shooting incident at the village since Thursday.

Shot By Dog

WEBSTER, Mass. (AP) — Neil Larini, 15, was shot by a dog yesterday.

The youth's 12-gauge shotgun was leaning against a tree. His hand was above the muzzle. The dog's paw hit the trigger and the gun discharged.

Meg, Tony In Ireland

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI) — Princess Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, arrived by plane today for a visit with Tony's mother in Ireland. They were greeted by thousands of young Irishmen and women who defied police barriers at the airport.

It was the first visit to Ireland by a member of the British royal family in 32 years. Irish authorities, fearing protest demonstrations by anti-British Irish republicans, took strict security measures to protect the couple.

There was no official welcome for the princess and her husband, but they were greeted by crowds that had streamed to the airport since early morning by bicycle, bus and car.

Peru Breaks With Cuba

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Peru broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba in a move that diplomats say may trigger off a mass move by Latin American governments to isolate the Fidel Castro regime.

Growing anger among leaders of hemispheric neighbors was evident over the activities of Cuban agents charged with spreading revolutionary propaganda among the masses.

Uruguayan President Benito Marrone told an interviewer last night that his government may expel the Cuban ambassador in Montevideo and cut all ties with Havana.

Business Slump

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Although state experts agree that California—like the rest of the nation—is in a business recession, they don't agree on how deep it may go or how long it may last.

In interviews yesterday, officials evaluated the slump in terms ranging from "comparatively light" to "the second worst in 20 years."

But severe or slight, it's clear the recession will effect the legislature when it convenes Monday, faced with Gov. Brown's pledge to seek no new taxes, yet make the state live within its income.

Brown's top budget planner, Finance Director John Carr, predicted the slump will continue worsening for several months, but that the economy later will stage a fairly brisk recovery.

Platinum Theft

ASHTON, R.I. (UPI) — FBI agents today sought the informant believed to have set up an inside job theft of $200,000 worth of platinum from the Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. yesterday. Authorities said thieves who apparently knew just how to avoid a supposedly burglar-proof alarm system cut a hole in a roof to carry off 120 to 150 pounds of the precious metal.

Novato High Lists Honor Students

Katherine Debrecht and Carl Morse topped the honor roll at Novato High School with straight A averages for the second grading period.

Miss Debrecht is a freshman; Morse is a junior.

Jean Fagnani, Janice Liswood, David Pual, Dennelle Smith each had 25 points. Colleen Power, Karen Duncan, Jackie Holt, Susan Obee and Robert Paine garnered 24 points.

Ted Bloyd, Sylvia Cassil, Robert Debrecht, Linda McElroy, Roy Otis, Douglas Rosenberg, Alice Unrath and Richard Van Buskirk each had 23 points.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 31, the 366th day of the year with no more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1869, French painter Henri Matisse was born .

In 1880, General George Marshall—onetime United States chief of staff, secretary of state, and secretary of defense—was born.

In 1890, Ellis Island in New York Harbor became the receiving station for all immigrants entering the United States on the Atlantic Coast.

In 1923, Eddie Cantor opened in "Kid Boots" — a smash musical hit at the Earl Carroll theater in New York City.

In 1946, President Truman officially proclaimed the end of World War II.

A thought for today: American Gen. George Marshall said: "If man does find the solution for world peace it will be the most revolutionary reversal of his record we have ever known."

49ers Reload Shotgun With Signing Of UCLA's Kilmer

Rearming their "shotgun" offense for 1961, the San Francisco 49ers signed UCLA star Bill Kilmer, grabbing him before the Los Angeles Chargers did.

Kilmer put his name to a contract yesterday in the office of Coach Red Hickey who sized him up as a great potential gunner for the 49ers' new spread.

The UCLA tailback led the nation in total offense last fall with 1,889 yards. He was drafted by the 49ers as a first-round pick.

In the American Football League draft, he had been tapped by the Chargers.

Kilmer rushed for 803 yards and passed for 1,086 for the UCLAn's.

In the shotgun offense, the quarterback stands about 7 yards behind center and takes a direct snap. Then he can either pass, run or hand off to a fullback or halfback.

John Brodie, not noted as a runner, made the offense click as its quarterback in the final four 49ers games as San Francisco won three of them.

Kilmer was in the stands watching the finale when the 49ers beat Baltimore 34-10.

"I really liked that formation and was impressed by it," he commented.

He was also one of three players picked by the 49ers during the first round of this week's drafting at Philadelphia. The other two, UCLA's Jim Johnson and Bowling Green's Bernie Casey, also have signed with the Forty Niners.

San Francisco next announced it had signed its second round choice, Ronald Lakes. He is a 6-foot-4-inch Wichita center.

Also signed up yesterday by the prospectors were Bob McCreary, a 250-pound Wake Forest tackle, and Tom Jewell, a 245-pound Idaho State lineman. They were fifth and 17th round choices.

Mariners Outshoot Santa Rosa, 71-70

College of Marin Tars outshot the Santa Rosa College Bear Cubs last night at Santa Rosa by closest possible margin—71-70—in a pre-season basketball contest.

The sharp-shooting of Ron Blum and two clutch free throws by Ernie Bray in the final minute of play enabled Marin to win its fifth game of the season against seven setbacks.

Blum, hitting 10 of 20 field goal attempts and 7 of 9 free throws, led the scoring with 27 points.

But it was the cool Bray, former Redwood High star, who iced the game with two foul shots with 35 seconds remaining. That put Marin five points ahead and rendered useless Santa Rosa's two quick buckets in the remaining time.

It was a see-saw battle in the first half that ended in a 38-38 stalemate. Marin led throughout the entire second half as the Tars clicked on 38 per cent of their floor shots for the night compared to Santa Rosa's 32 per cent.

Only five Tars figured in the scoring. Following Blum were Lyn Livie with 20, John Blomquist 11, Bray 10 and Mike Rawitser 3.

Marin rests for a week and then dives into its Golden Valley Conference schedule next Friday against Yuba College at Marysville and Saturday night against Shasta at Redding.

Vallejo Nips Tamites By 42-40 Count

Vallejo High School's Apaches rallied in the fourth quarter to nip the Tamalpais Indians 42-40 in a practice basketball game at Vallejo last night.

The see-saw duel saw Tam lead 8-5 at the end of the first quarter, Vallejo take a 17-15 halftime edge and Tam move out 28-27 at the end of the third stanza.

Norm Kreuter led Tam's shooters with 12 points while Pete Dornbach followed with 8. Dornbach also played a stellar game under the boards by hauling down 15 rebounds.

Vallejo's Class B team also outgunned the Little Injuns by a 35-25 measure.

Drake Walloped By Lincoln Five

Sir Francis Drake High basketballers felt the inner-city skids yesterday under the impact of highly rated Lincoln High in San Francisco.

The Pirates, who coach Carl Brown said played their worst game of the season, were heavily out-pointed in all but the first quarter. That period ended 8 to 6 for Lincoln and all of Marin's points were on free throws. The half-time score was dominated by the city dwellers, 27 to 10. The final score was a whopping 57-26.

Student body president Mike Bresnan was high point man with 10 digits; he scored three field goals and four free throws. Bresnan was followed by Bob Ingram, Sam Johnson and Dave Manuel with four points each.

The Drake B club also went under, 42-21.

Buck Shaw Feted By San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Coach Buck Shaw of the Philadelphia Eagles, once fired by the San Francisco 49ers, was honored by the city yesterday.

Mayor George Christopher presented Shaw with a pair of cuff links with the city's official seal engraved on them at a reception in City Hall.

Shaw, who resides in the San Francisco Bay Area, was honored for coaching the Eagles to the National Football League championship. The veteran coach announced his retirement following the game.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

High Scoring Tamites Threat For MCAL Title

(This is second in a series on prospects of teams in the Marin County Athletic League's 1961 basketball schedule.)

In spite of a won-four, lost-six pre-league record, the Tamalpais High basketball team is predicted by some local experts to win its second straight MCAL title this season.

This is reasonable in light of the fact that Tam has only fallen to one county club—Marin Catholic High in the MCAL Christmas Basketball Tournament. The Indians were runners-up.

Indian Coach Ed Chavez commented during that tournament that his boys were going to have to run up higher scores than the 28 they tallied against Marin Catholic, if they wanted to keep the county title.

It looked as if they were on their way when, after losing to Sacred Heart, Jefferson and Galileo, the Indians routed Montgomery High of Santa Rosa, 59 to 31. And even though they lost to St. Mary's High at Berkeley Tuesday, the Indians kept that point total up. Score was 59 to 41.

While the Bay Area clubs have demonstrated that they can not only handle, but better, a high-point team, Marin clubs this season have not shown this. If Indian shooters Norm Kreuter, Connie Hoetger and Pete Dornbach keep zeroed in, Marin clubs will have a rough time outpointing Tam. Dornbach is the top rebounder and Charles Bullock is a classy ball handler. The Indians' league opener is with the San Rafael Bulldogs at Tam next Friday at 8:30 p.m.

The Indian's schedule of games after Tuesday is as follows:

Jan. 6, San Rafael, home, 8:30 p.m.; Jan. 10, Montgomery, away, 4 p.m.; Jan. 13, Marin Catholic, away, 8:30 p.m.; Jan. 20, Sir Francis Drake, away, 8:30 p.m.; Jan. 24, Redwood, home, 4 p.m.; Jan. 27, Novato, away, 8:30 p.m.; Jan. 31, George Washington, home, 4 p.m.; Feb. 3 San Rafael, away, 8:30 p.m.; Feb. 7, Palo Alto, away, 3:15 p.m.; Feb. 10, Marin Catholic, home, 8:30 p.m.; Feb. 14, San Francisco State JVs, away, 4 p.m.; Feb. 17, Sir Francis Drake, home, 8:30 p.m.; Feb. 21, Redwood, away, 4 p.m.; and Feb. 24, Novato, home, 8:30 p.m.

Big Weekend Under Way For TV Fans

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

College football's split bowl schedule (to go with all those splitting new year's headaches) began with seven games today and winds up with "The Big Four" on Monday.

An estimated 500,000 fans will see the action on the various scenes with many more spinning their dials to keep abreast of the doings. Three of today's games and all four of Monday's will be nationally televised.

Today's action was featured by the Gator Bowl meeting between Baylor and Florida at Jacksonville, the Blue-Gray Game and the East-West Game. In addition, Prairie View played Arkansas A.M.&N. in the Prairie View Bowl, Utah State faced New Mexico State in the Sun Bowl, Texas A&I met Arkansas Tech in the Great Southwest Bowl and the National All-Stars played the Southwest All-Stars in the Copper Bowl.

Missouri plays Navy in the Orange Bowl, Mississippi meets Rice in the Sugar Bowl, Arkansas opposes Duke in the Cotton Bowl and Minnesota takes on Washington in the Rose Bowl when the three-day weekend reaches a grand climax on Monday.

TV COVERAGE

NBC will televise the Sugar Bowl game between Mississippi and Rice at New Orleans (11 a.m., PST) and the Rose Bowl game between Minnesota and Washington at Pasadena (2 p.m., PST) while CBS will televise the Orange Bowl game between Missouri and Navy at Miami (10 a.m., PST) and the Cotton Bowl game between Arkansas and Duke at Dallas (12:30 p.m. PST).

Missouri, Minnesota and Arkansas are favored by seven points and Mississippi is a 10-point choice in Monday's games.

No bowl game will revolve around one man as much as the Orange Bowl where Missouri's powerful Big Eight squad wrestles with the problem of stopping all-everything Joe Bellino of Navy. This one was spiced during the week by a feud between the rival coaches, Wayne Hardin of Navy and Dan Devine of Missouri.

Minnesota will be out to reverse the licking which Wisconsin took at the hands of Washington last New Year's Day while Arkansas carries the honor of the Southwest Conference against rough, rugged Duke. Mississippi, burning to demonstrate that it should have been recognized as the national champion, appears to have just too many guns for Rice.

TITLE GAME ON TV

Chargers Underdogs In Playoff Tomorrow

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Los Angeles Chargers, losers in Houston's first American Football League game, worked out today with hopes of closing the season with an upset victory.

The Chargers and the Houston Oilers meet in the AFL's first championship game tomorrow before an expected 25,000 persons and a national television audience — ABC, 12:30 p.m., PST. Houston is a 6½-point favorite.

The Chargers lost to Houston, 38-28, in the Oilers' first league home game in September, and won, 24-21, on a muddy field in Los Angeles later.

The Chargers, with 10-4 record, won the league's Western Division. Houston, also 10-4, won the Eastern Division.

Sid Gillman, Los Angeles coach, brings the best-balanced team in the AFL into the game.

The Chargers weren't tops in any of the league's six-team statistical categories, but they never were worse than fourth in any department.

The Los Angeles hopes depend on the passing of Jack Kemp, the AFL's top passer, the running of Paul Lowe, Ben Agajanian's kicking, and defensive work of Ron Botchan, Emil Karas, Ronnie Loudd, Dick Harris and Jim Sears.

But Agajanian, as a kicker, may be the Chargers' best defensive weapon against Houston.

If Agajanian sails his kickoffs out of the end zone, he can single-handedly stop the threat of the league's top kickoff return specialist, Ken Hall of Houston who has a 31.8 average on 19 kickoff returns.

Bill Cannon, another Houston back, returned only eight kickoffs during the season, but he averaged 33.3 yards on each one.

Hall went 103 yards for a touchdown against New York, and Cannon returned a Boston kickoff 88 yards for a touchdown.

Kicking, in fact, could be the big factor in the game.

Agajanian, called out of retirement by Gillman, kicked 13 field goals and 46 extra points for the Chargers this season. George Blanda kicked 15 field goals and 42 extra points. Agajanian scored 85 points by kicking, Blanda 87.

Novato Bows To Vikings

Outside shooter Bill Tuel bombarded Montgomery of Santa Rosa with mortar lobs totaling 18 points yesterday in an effort to give Novato high a basketball victory.

But there were not enough Tuels on the Hornet club and Novato lost a 58 to 50 decision.

Novato opened up the second period with a new game (12-12), but the Santa Rosa clan dominated that period for a 10-point lead. Santa Rosa lost ground to hard-fighting Novato by halftime when the Marinites were behind by a 37-to-36 squeek.

During the second half Novato put a hard press on Montgomery and matched the Santa Rosa crew point for point.

The Hornets could not keep up the push, however, and fell back in the final minutes.

Tuel's companion in points was Jim Sewell with 13. But it took both these high point Marinites together to out-point Santa Rosa's John Watson's sizzling 29 ducats.

The Novato B team followed the varsity in defeat, 29 to 20. B player Doug Erickson was high was seven points for Novato.

RAIDERS MOVE TO HAWAII? NO! SAYS SODA

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders are not likely to become the Honolulu Raiders, according to General Manager Chet Soda.

He emphatically denied yesterday that he had ever been contacted by Bill Pacheco of Honolulu about shifting the club. Pacheco had been quoted as saying he would "give a million dollars" to get an AFL franchise if he got control of Honolulu Stadium.

"I've never been contacted by this man," Soda said. "But if he is offering a million dollars for a franchise, give him my name and phone number, will you?"

Soda recalled that he had once talked to some people "some time back" about the possibility of moving the Raider franchise to the islands.

"But we never gave it a serious thought," he added.

Dons Capture WCAC Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The University of San Francisco's young and erratic basketball team reigned today as the new champions in the second annual West Coast Athletic Conference Tournament.

The Dons edged a determined St. Mary's quintet 51-48 in overtime last night. And for awhile it appeared that the favored Gaels would snatch the title in the final frantic moments.

Santa Clara held San Jose State 48-42 for third place in the other final. In afternoon consolation rounds, Loyola of Los Angeles whipped Pepperdine 71-62 for the fifth spot and College of the Pacific won seventh place with a 56-54 decision over Fordham.

In the see-saw overtime, the Dons iced the contest on two straight free throws by Henry Johnson and Ed Thomas.

S.F. Yacht Club Officers Named

San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere today announced its officers and directors for 1961 following the recent election.

Leonard E. von Schultheis will serve as commodore, Paul S. Marcucci as vice-commodore and Dr. Emmet L. Rixford as rear commodore.

David D. Imrie is the 1961 secretary and John R. Moore the treasurer.

Directors named are Dr. Lawrence R. Custer, Garry Gast, Joseph Purkey, Dr. Raymund J. Millzner, William E. Fisher and Colin Mason.

Schloredt Key Man In The Rose Bowl; Gophers Favored

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The uncertain role of 1959 All-America Bob Schloredt of Washington raised a tall question mark today over the Huskies' Rose Bowl struggle with Minnesota.

Unless Coach Jim Owens switches at the last minute, the quarterback in Washington's 44-8 conquest of Wisconsin last New Year's Day will be on the bench Monday when the Huskies start against the national champions.

But Schloredt, inactive since he broke his collarbone against UCLA two months ago, is certain to be in action soon thereafter.

"He's healed, but he hasn't hit the conditioning and timing he had in midseason," said Owens. "He'll play at least half the time, though."

Westerners who watched Schloredt transform Washington into a team of dash and daring last year are sure the 197-pound 6-footer will be in the thick of it.

Washington and Minnesota coaching staffs agree that the starter, Bob Hivner, is a quarterback of high ability. He demonstrated it by leading the Huskies through one tight scrape after another in the late season.

Yet, assuming Schloredt is in close to top form, this is a man with greater game-breaking potential.

GOOD PASSER

The one-eyed star is a hard-socking runner on rollout plays, a good passer with a habit of delivering in the tight spots and one of the better college kickers.

Minnesota remained a 6½-point favorite 48 hours before its first Rose Bowl appearance in history. Sunny skies, with temperatures in the 70s, are forecast for Monday.

Both teams scheduled final one-hour drills today. They walk through the Rose Bowl and get in a last limbering-up.

Washington made one shift in its starting lineup, promoting 6-foot-6, 240-pound end John Meyers to the first team in place of Jim Skaggs. Meyers, a starter in the bowl last season as a sophomore, is considered a better pass receiver, and he will give the Huskies more weight to counter the bulky Gopher line.

Minnesota will be in its best physical shape of the year.

Giants Lose Heartbreaker

Redwood High, as they had the day before with Mission of San Francisco, came close to cutting off Washington High's wind yesterday but again couldn't quite snuff out the city club.

The Giants loosened their grip in the last 20 seconds of play to lose 41 to 39. The Marin club led by Mike Kavanaugh had labored its way from a 25-to-17 half-time deficit to a 39-to-39 tie in the last minute of the game. The Giants missed three consecutive free throws during that crucial last minute and Washington scored one fat field goal to make the difference.

Kavanaugh tallied a team record for individual scoring with 18 points and did his share defensively with nine rebounds. Point runner-up for Marin was backcourt player John Whitney with seven. Rich Brear was held scoreless for the first time in his three years of varsity competition.

Redwood's B team, even though suffering a heavy 48-to-20 defeat, stood up well to Washington which lost its first game in 53 attempts on Thursday. The Marin man with the points was Grant Stephenson with six.

WILDCATS COP CAGE VICTORY OVER ST. JOE

Marin Catholic was the only high school in the county to come home from yesterday's basketball hunt with a bird instead of buckshot.

The Wildcats smoothered over their St. Joseph's brothers, 41 to 35.

After a dead effort against low-rated Analy Thursday, the Cats again began to click and hit. The game did not start this way, but a 19 point third period splurge by the Marinites made the game end in their favor.

Coach Bernie Schneider's two front runners, captain Ed O'Connell scoring 17, and Jim Soden racking 11, lead the attack on St. Joseph's. Cat Chris Ahern harassed the opponents by ball stealing, and John Enos came off the bench to show himself skilled in defensive action.

Iowa Upsets UCLA In L.A. Cage Finals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Iowa's Hawkeyes, boasting a big front line and two fast guards, stopped the high-scoring UCLA Bruins last night and won the Los Angeles Basketball Classic.

UCLA had averaged 96 points a game until it encountered Iowa, which fought an uphill battle and won 71-65.

Don Nelson, 6-6 forward, led the way for the Hawks with 26 points. John Berberich, the Bruins' 6-8 center, was closely guarded by Iowa and held to 10 points.

The Iowa victory snapped a seven-game UCLA winning streak.

A crowd of 14,589 saw last night's tournament, in which Southern California finished third by beating Indiana 90-71.

Writers covering the tournament named John Rudometkin, Southern California center, as the outstanding player. Iowa landed three players on the all-tournament team. Other members are Nelson of Iowa at forward; Bill McClintock, California, forward; John Green, UCLA, guard, and a tie between Ron Zagar and Dave Maher, both Iowa, as guards.

California beat Stanford 40-36 to capture fifth place, and Minnesota downed Michigan State 83-77 for seventh place.

Versatile Man Pastors Mission In Fairfax

By PAUL MILLER

On a hot, humid day in February, 1942, a husky, dark-haired executive of a British banking firm stood at the rail of a crowded tanker as it steamed from the harbor of a terror-struck port city on an island off the Malayan coast.

Singapore had been invaded by the Japanese and Richard D. Beaumont who had been with the overseas banking firm for 14 years, serving in Thailand, China, India, Burma, Malay States, and finally in Singapore, was gratefully aboard one of these last few ships to escape the fallen city and head through the smoke-filled harbor to the clear, safe air over the South China Sea.

Today Rev. Beaumont is the vicar of the two-year-old St. Augustine's Episcopal Mission in Fairfax. He and his wife, Belinda Peters Beaumont, never dreamed they would be serving where and as they are today when they fell in love in Labore, India some 24 years ago. The lovely and charming visitor to India from Richmond, Va., and the British banker were married in Labore in 1937.

During the Singapore invasion, Mrs. Beaumont had been safely in Australia. Beaumont joined her there and the couple came immediately to San Francisco where Beaumont entered the U.S. Army. He was sent to the South Pacific Theater in counter intelligence for the duration of the war, and became a U.S. citizen in 1943.

After two hectic and hard-pressed decades, he and his wife settled in 1947 on a quiet ranch outside of Paso Robles. Born, reared, and educated in England, Beaumont took the knowledge he learned as a farm youth in Devonshire and together with advanced agricultural study maintained his cattle and barley ranch, as well as taught agriculture to veterans in a federal program through local secondary schools.

In addition to ranching he later established his own insurance agency, yet became more and more involved in service as a layman at the St. James' Episcopal Church in Paso Robles. Last Easter Sunday, Beaumont was ordained Deacon in the church by Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop of California.

With the "whole-hearted cooperation" of his wife, Beaumont decided so much of his time was being given the church that he might as well become a clergyman. This fall the couple moved to Berkeley where Beaumont enrolled at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific. The same month, September, Beaumont was appointed pastor of St. Augustine's in Fairfax.

Rev. Beaumont took over the pastorate of the Fairfax church from Rev. Charles Carroll who was dividing his time between the Marin congregation and the Episcopal Downtown Mission in San Francisco.

St. Augustine's was formed in the fall of 1958. Until this month when the Seventh Day Adventist offered the use of its sanctuary at 75 Park Road, the mission congregation worshiped at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Mrs. Fred West, member and director of public relations for the mission, reports 65 members are now enrolled at St. Augustine's, a 30 percent increase from the 1958 membership, she said.

"Missions (as contrasted to parishes) are churches which . . . receive financial help from the diocese in which they are located." The vicar, assisted by a bishop's committee of local laymen responsible for running the affairs of the mission, is the appointed pastor, Mrs. West explained.

All St. Augustine's services start at 11 a.m. with Holy Communion being celebrated every third Sunday. An adult discussion group for members and inquirers will be formed early next year, and a sanctuary will be bought or built "as soon as suitable premises can be found," she reported.

Rev. Beaumont looks at the mission as "a struggling infant that I hope will prove to be a healthy youngster, grow rapidly, and have a job to do in the community. And I hope it will do a good one."

Both Rev. and Mrs. Beaumont said they feel that the members of St. Augustine's and the people in Fairfax are among the most "gracious and wonderful" they have ever met.

"We are very happy in Marin," said the new Fairfax vicar, former banker, world-traveler, Britisher, teacher, insurance agent, rancher, teacher, and soldier.

Lutheran Merger Affects Three Marin Churches

Three Marin churches, along with certain Lutheran Churches throughout the nation in worship services tomorrow will recognize New Year's Day, 1961, as the day of official merger of three Lutheran churches into one.

At the Good Shepherd Church in Novato, Christ the Victor Church in Fairfax, and Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera, congregations tomorrow will officially become members of The American Lutheran Church.

For the past decade the Evangelical Lutheran Church, the American Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church have been working to accomplish tomorrow's official action.

DELEGATE PASTORS

Most of the details of the merger were ironed out at a constituting convention of the three Lutheran bodies last April in Minneapolis, Minn. The conference was attended by delegate pastors Ole Winter of Good Shepherd in Novato; George O. Loftness of Marin Lutheran in Corte Madera and John Rotto of Christ the Victor in Fairfax. Layman Oliver Berven of Christ the Victor also attending the meeting.

Good Shepherd Lutheran will hold a special "watch-nite" service at 11:30 p.m. tonight to bring in the new year and celebrate the birth of a new church, said Pastor Winter.

The merge will bring 3,520,010 members, four seminaries, 10 colleges, two junior colleges, and four academies into one church.

Pastor Winter said that on a local congregational level he felt the merger would have little affect as far as any changes were concerned.

BIBLICAL TRADITION

"We still hold the traditional evangelical creeds and confessions as an interpretation of the Bible. Each congregation still remains the basic unit in the synod and is independent in handling of congregational affairs," said the pastor.

Rev. Winter explained that on the national and international level the merger would mean a stronger witness for evangelical Lutheranism.

"The only thing that had kept these church bodies apart were the language and tradition barriers of the first few years of migration. These barriers are now largely gone and we could see no reason for not joining to make a more effective witness to the Lord of the Church," said Rev. Winter.

CHURCH BACKGROUND

The Evangelical Lutheran Church began as the Norwegian Synod in 1853; (the) American Lutheran Church with members from Germany began as the Ohio Synod in 1818; and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church is related to Denmark began as the Blair Church in 1884.

Many members hope that by 1962 all Lutheran churches will be members of one of three bodies: The American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America, and the Synodical Conference. Except for the ALC, the names of the unified bodies are only proposals, said Rev. Winter.

Faith Lutheran Church in Mill Valley in the proposed 1962 merger would become a member of the Lutheran Church in America. The Mill Valley church is now in the United Lutheran Church of America which would merge as the LCA. The other four Lutheran Churches in Marin are in the Missouri Synod.

Grace Evangelical Lutheran in Novato; Peace Lutheran in Mill Valley; Resurrection Lutheran in Terra Linda and Trinity Lutheran in San Rafael would become members of the Synodical Conference if recent proposals are accepted.

Professor To Preach To Marin Baptists

Dr. Robert B. Hannan, Professor of Christian Theology at the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School, will be guest preacher tomorrow at the First Baptist Church of Corte Madera.

Dr. Hannan will speak at the 11 a.m. service. At 7:30 p.m. a service sponsored by the Baptist Jubilee Advance committee will be held. Mrs. Warren Holmes and Charles Lytle will be the leaders in the service to "launch a program of evangelism for the new year," announced Pastor Gerald S. Moyer.

New Year's Eve

A midnight service of Holy Communion will be celebrated tonight at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street, San Rafael.

The New Year's Eve service will begin at 11:30 p.m., announced Rev. John Riley, rector.

Guest Preacher

The First Missionary Baptist Church of Marin City will have as guest speaker for the New Year's weekend, Rev. M. L. Louis, recently arrived from Alaska. Evangelist Louis will speak at 11 a.m. tomorrow and serve Holy Communion at a 7:30 p.m. service.

Schedule Change

The Sausalito Presbyterian Church announced it will start at 10 a.m. with Sunday school for younger pupils to begin at 10:30 a.m.

Sermon Title

Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael will tomorrow at 9:30 and 11 a.m. services preach a sermon "Who Dealt This Mess?"

Alcohol Study Set

NEW YORK (AP) —A church-wide study on the problem of alcoholism is scheduled for the coming year by the Methodist Church. The textbook for it is a new book, "Stumbling Block: A Study of Alcohol and Christian Responsibility," by Dr. Douglas Jackson, a professor of sociology at Perkins Theological School, Dallas, Tex.

NO HOLIDAY FOR DEATH

This is the way the New York News is warning its readers of the danger of death on the highways this New Year's weekend. The picture, published on page one of the News yesterday, was taken on the Long Island Expressway, a heavily traveled suburban highway. (AP Wirephoto)

BELGIAN RIOTING CONTINUES

As mounted troopers brandish sabers against demonstrating strikers in Brussels, Premier Gaston Eyskens warned that the country's national life is threatened by the unrest. He said he would never bow to violence. In addition to rioting, hundreds of strikers marched in the streets today in "mourning" for the first casualty in the two-week protest against a government austerity program over loss of revenues from the Congo. 28 YEARS IN SERVICE

San Rafael Colonel Retires From Army

John R. Stickle of 42 Oakmont Avenue, San Rafael, was retired from the Army today with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

An Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service was awarded to him yesterday by the Army Air Defense Sixth Region deputy commander, Col. M. M. Irvine, in ceremonies at Fort Baker.

Prior to his retirement Stickle had served with the Sixth Region Air Defense Command liaison staff in the directorate of plans and programs of headquarters, 28th NORAD Region, Hamilton Air Force Base.

His retirement is after 20 years of active duty and 28 years of association with the army as a reserve officer.

Ten of Stickle's 20 years of active duty were spent overseas, with 44 months in the South Pacific during World War II, three years in Hawaii, and three years in Japan and Korea. He participated in campaigns in the Netherlands East Indies, New Guinea, Luzon, and the southern Philippines during the war, and in Korea during 1952-53.

His awards and decorations include the Purple Heart, the Bronze Star with oak leaf cluster and campaign medals and ribbons for the Asiatic-Pacific campaign, American defense service, Asia campaign, Korean service, United Nations service and Philippine defense and a presidential unit citation.

Belvedere Architect Is Sued For Divorce

Belvedere architect Mario F. Corbett was sued for divorce yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

His fourth wife, Mary Gloria Corbett of 316 Golden Gate Avenue, charges extreme cruelty. Married in 1951, they have one son, aged 4. She says he had agreed to pay $400 per month alimony and child support.

Fairfax Planners Complete Work On Zoning Law

The Fairfax Planning Commission Thursday night completed recommendations on the city's comprehensive zoning ordinance and sent it to the city council for final approval.

According to Chairman D. N. Miller, several changes were made in the original ordinance. "Some of our recommendations were made to correct errors of our own in drawing up the original ordinance," Miller said. "Other changes were recommended on the strength of petitions from residents."

The council sent the ordinance to the planners for recommended changes about three months ago, Miller said. He estimated it would be at least three months before the council approved it for public hearings.

Trustees To Hear Report On Parleys

A report on the recent conventions of the California Assn. of School Board Members and the California Assn. of School Administrators will be given the Lagunitas School District board at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Lagunitas School.

Reporting on the convention, which were held in Long Beach during the first week of December, will be Georgette H. Vilas, clerk of the board.

Also under discussion by the trustees will be a report by the curriculum committee and a progress report on the district building program.

S.F. Woman 200th Victim Of Gate Span

The Golden Gate Bridge, a favorite of suicide leapers since it was finished more than 20 years ago, has claimed its 200th known victim.

A woman identified as Iva Mazurek, about 40, jumped from the span yesterday as two teen-age boys watched.

The boys, Richard Stephens, 14, and John Pau, 13, both of San Francisco.

"We didn't know what she was doing," Richard said. "All of a sudden she let loose and went over backwards."

Her body dropped 225 feet into San Francisco Bay and disappeared in the wash of a passing ship.

Housewife Asks $25,000; Auto, Cattle Collided

A Petaluma housewife, whose car met stampeding cattle head-on on Highway 101 north of Novato last February, is suing for $25,000 damages for injuries suffered in the collision with the runaway cattle.

Mrs. Aloyse Ann Hibbs, 37, filed the suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court against the owner of the cattle, Lester E. Corda of Petaluma.

Two other motorists, in addition to Mrs. Hibbs, were involved in the smashup on the early morning of Feb. 5, when cattle broke out of a corral near the Sonoma-Marin line and over-ran the highway southbound. The havoc left three cars wrecked, at least two motorists hurt, and a half dozen cows killed or injured.

Flames Damage Home In Bolinas

An oil stove in the home of M. A. Dowdall on Wharf Road, Bolinas, set fire to the kitchen at 11:30 a.m. yesterday and burned through a wall into the adjacent bedroom.

Damage was estimated by firemen at $1,300, mainly in the bedroom.

A brush fire in a eucalyptus grove behind the Bolinas school Thursday burned over an acre and a half, with no property damage.

Vacaville Aide's Hearing Planned

The Department of Corrections will hear the appeal of a Tiburon man who was fired as clinical psychologist at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville about a month ago.

Leon Tabory, 35, of 2441 Paradise Drive, will present his case to the board at 10 a.m. at Vacaville. Hhe was transferred to Vacaville from San Quentin in July.

'Candlelight' Concert Draws High Praise

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Successful beyond the highest hopes of the sponsoring Homestead Valley Improvement Club was last night's first of the series of "Candlelight Concerts" at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley.

Fifteen minutes before the chamber group began its all-Mozart program, the 150 seats at candlelighted tables and 50 along the sidelines were filled, and Mrs. Kurt Schlesinger, club president, regretfully announced many persons were turned away.

Significance of the large turnout was that the Homestead Valley people were right in believing that there is a large potential audience in Marin for high-quality music performed in a relaxed, informal atmosphere.

Presenting the first program in a series of three were five of the 15 musicians making up the "Bach to Mozart" group.

They were oboist Raymond Duste, violinist Everett O'Bannon, violist Mary James, cellist Ellen Dessler, fultist Raymond Fabrizio and his wife Margaret, harpsichordist.

Both from the standpoint of ensemble playing and featured instrument, high point of the program was the quartet for oboe and strings, with Duste's playing of the oboe notable for mellow tone and dextrous technique.

Especially interesting because of its novelty was the last number, the Adagio and Rondo for the Glass Harmonica. The only authentic glass harmonica —glasses filled with water and struck with leather mallets—is in Vienna, so it was not possible to determine whether the harpsichord approximated the intended sound. But there was no question that it was musically effective, accomplished performance by Mrs. Fabrizio.

Thoroughly deserved was the applause received by Mary James and Everett O'Bannon for the G Major duo for violin and viola, which demonstrated technical facility and musical intelligence.

Adding much to the enjoyment were the simple but tasteful decorations in a Japanese theme, and refreshments available before and after the program and during intermission.

The next two concerts will be Jan. 27 and Feb. 24.

CARD OF THANKS

TO ALL MY DEAR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS—may I take this means of expressing to you my heartfelt gratitude for all the kind, wonderful, deeds, messages of sympathy and spiritual help extended to me in my darkest hour. May God bless each and everyone of you.

Young Convicts Found In Manhole

Two young convicts trying to escape from San Quentin Prison wound up in a cell far less comfortable than the ones they were trying to flee.

Joseph Stenaker and David Harold Robinson, both 21 and from Los Angeles, were found yesterday in a damp, cramped manhole behind the prison laundry.

Guards said the prisoners apparently didn't know the manhole is one of the first places checked in event of an attempted break.

Belvedere Case Reaches Court

Belvedere's running battle with Belvedere Land Co. for possession of 500 feet on the cove side of Beach Road has reached the courts in the form of condemnation proceedings.

The suit was filed in Marin Superior Court Thursday by attorney William H. MacKay. The city wants to acquire the undeveloped beach front land, a little more than an acre, for public recreational use. The land company, which owns the property, wants to put in apartments.

The suit asks the court to condemn the property for public use and to set an equitable price for the property.

The first woman ever elected to the U. S. Senate was Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway of Jonesboro, Ark., in 1932.

250,000TH I-J CLASSIFIED AD

Cary A. Barford Jr. of Fairfax, who yesterday bought the 250,000th Independent-Journal classified advertisement placed in 1960, is being shown the special proof of his prize-winning ad by Mary Muzinich, classified ad clerk. Barford, who is advertising for a job as chauffeur, was given a check for $50 and a dinner (for him and his wife) at Ondine's Restaurant in Sausalito as an award for being No. 250,000. The sale of the ad marks the first time in the history of the paper that classified ads have hit the quarter-million mark. Last year's classified ads totaled 228,679.

Four Pastors To Ready Merger Declaration

Tomorrow four San Rafael pastors will read from their pulpits a joint declaration formulated by them affirming the recent proposal at the assembly of the National Council of Churches in San Francisco that the Episcopalian, Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian Churches merge.

The four ministers and their churches are Rev. Donald H. Baldwin of the First Methodist Church; Rev. John D. Riley of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; Rev. Wesley C. Baker of the First Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Paul C. R. Peterson of the First Congregational Church.

A first draft of the declaration was read from the pulpit of the Methodist Church by Rev. Baldwin Dec. 18, but a jointly approved and final draft was not released to the Independent-Journal until yesterday.

The joint declaration is as follows:

"As the pastors of four of San Rafael's traditional Protestant parishes, we have met to acknowledge the recent widely-publicized suggestions concerning merger of our four denominations. We feel that although there may be only a small possibility this union can be effected within the next decade, much good can be brought about by conversations among us in this community. We agree with Bishop James Pike in his stand that now is the time for real acts of cooperation to begin on the local level. Since the church-wide denominational negotiations are largely out of our hands, we prefer to focus the attention of our people on the possibilities of a more united spirit in our own town.

"Therefore, we affirm the principle that Christ's disciples are One Body. We believe in the Holy Catholic Church. Our separated sects are 'families' of the Church, incomplete fragments that need, humbly, to remember the whole. We may quite possibly serve certain values and make necessary unique contributions, as denominations, but our total witness is inadequate without each other.

"We commend the high spirit of cooperation and constructive work already seen in the Marin Council of Churches. We propose more vital communications among the churches of San Rafael, mutual support and concern, unity of action on our common problems, respect and honor for our different customs and politics. We invite our parishioners to join us in prayer and work for a relevant Christian service. We want to offer our community a church that proclaims 'One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all'."

Here's Why Children Are Taught To Print Before They Can Write

S.R. "You said children learned to write in the first grade. My girl is in the second grade. All she can do is print. She won't use real handwriting for another year. Why the printing?"

Reply. One reason is that the letters are easier to form. Fine muscle coordination is not needed. The other reason is that the letters in printing are like the letters the children see in books. They don't have to learn two sets of symbols. Cursive writing usually is taught in the second or the third grade. Children make the transition easily.

J.S.N. "We had a program of sex instruction in the sixth grade of our school. Last spring the teacher made several mistakes. She was new and young. She gave some very bad advice to the children. Now school has withdrawn the program How can we get it reinstated?"

Reply. The best place for sex instruction is at home. Schools should undertake the job only when a majority of parents shirk their duty. The instruction should be entrusted solely to experienced, responsible, especially trained teachers. It was wrong to have a new teacher do it. Were the boys and girls separated for the teaching? They should have been. I suggest you form a committee of responsible community leaders. Have the members talk with the school board. Propose that the old program be studied and something better devised.

R.J.M. "Is it true that girls average out as being brighter than boys?"

Reply. No. By our present tests they average out as equal. We have more male than female geniuses. But also there are more males who are mentally retarded. Girls often make superior students because they are better fitted for school temperamentally than boys. But on the average they are no brighter.

Span Director Asks Action On Lateral

Marin Golden Gate Bridge Director Leland S. Murphy urged yesterday that the bridge's building and operating committee "act in the very near future" on a proposal by the Sausalito City Council that an access road be built from the Sausalito lateral to Vista Point.

The city council requested that the Division of Highways make immediate study of such a project and sent a copy of the letter to the bridge board.

Murphy said the bridge board's consideration of such a plan should be done now when plans are being drawn for widening the Marin end of the span.

In other actions yesterday, the bridge directors:

1. Received a letter from the Division of Highways rejecting a bridge request that the state provide sanitary facilities on the Vista Point.

2. Instructed the auditor to make a long-range study of funds which the bridge will need to reinvest. The bridge attorney will report to the board on how 20 million dollars in existing reserves can be preserved for exclusive use on Golden Gate Bridge matters, even if the bridge district were absorbed by an authority or some other state agency.

3. Awarded a contract for 500 gallons of "international orange" top coat paint to De Soto Chemical Coatings Co. of San Francisco, at $2.29 per gallon, three cents less than the preceding purchase two months ago.

Ruling On Culverts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk has ruled that a county is responsible for maintaining bridges or culverts over a canal that crosses a county road, even though the canal may be owned by somebody else. His opinion came in answer to a question from John G. Hauck, district attorney of Sutter County.

'New Board' Will Organize On Monday

First 1961 meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors will be one day ahead of usual schedule, but brief and without agenda—a noon gathering of the "new board" to organize Monday.

Two new members will be sworn in, J. Walter Blair of Mill Valley and George Ludy of Inverness. They replace Mrs. Vera Schultz and James Marshall and will represent South and West Marin respectively.

Election of a new chairman is expected to follow. Probabilities favor replacement of Walter R. Castro of San Rafael, who has held the position for the past six years, by William D. Fusselman of San Anselmo. Fusselman has been on the board since the fall of 1942 and served as chairman in 1953 and 1954.

A routine agenda has been prepared for the regular weekly Tuesday sessions at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. with correspondence occupying much of the morning portion except that unexpected matters have a habit of bobbing up when the chairman invites the public to be heard.

One of the letters to be read is from U. S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel to County Clerk George R. Jones, advising that the General Services Administration has decided to make a total of 299 acres of Marin County fort property available to the state to relieve a situation of "badly-needed additional recreation and park facilities in the vicinity of the Golden Gate."

Kuchel says that the release affects 138 acres at Fort Baker and 161 acres at Fort Cronkhite for 50 per cent of a fair value of $615,000.

Continued matters will occupy much of the afternoon including consideration of the Planning Commission's project for creating planned residential 1 and 2 categories.

NOVATO GOOD SAMARITAN

Mrs. D. M. Brownlee of Novato drove by yesterday to find Samuel Teller, 62, lying on Highway 101 at DeLong Avenue in Novato. She stopped her car, threw her coat over him and comforted him until ambulances arrived. Teller was riding his motorcycle north on Highway 101 about 3 p.m. when it hit the rear of a car. He suffered a fractured left leg and was taken to San Rafael General Hospital. Driver of the car was Michael A. Grahams, of the 78th Air Police, Hamilton Air Force Base.

Transient Loses His Probation

Leo Joseph Johnson, 56-year-old transient who was arrested for drunkenness on the day after Christmas, lost his probation for failing to support his family and was sentenced to serve a month in the county jail by a Marin Municipal court judge yesterday.

Judge Harold J. Haley revoked Johnson's probation which had been in effect since he was convicted for failure to provide in 1956. He had already served five months in jail.

Johnson pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was sentenced to five days in jail to run concurrently with the other sentence.

Corte Madera Council To Meet On Land Sale

The state Division of Highways will sell a parcel of "excess" vacant land at the Corte Madera interchange at auction at 11 a.m. Jan. 26 on the property.

Corte Madera Council will receive notification of the upcoming sale on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The property—slightly more than one acre in size—is in the southeast quadrant of the interchange, between Paradise Drive and the highway.

The state indicated it will start the bidding at $12,500.

The property was the center of a dispute last spring when the state fenced it, preventing commuters from parking there before boarding buses for San Francisco.

The town expressd interest in buying the land, but changed its mind after the state put a $28,000 price tag on it.

The town zoned the property as a low density one family residential district.

Other items on the agenda for the council session: recommendations for an ordinance regulating traffic north of the free standing curb on Tamalpais Drive; report on sanitary facilities in the park sanitary building; resignations of the superintendent of public works, Robert Bartram, and park and recreation commissioner Mort Simon.

Also, public hearing at 8 p.m. on rezoning of a lot in Fifer Industrial Park from industrial to highway commercial (the planning commission recommended denial); report on the Mariners Cove playground project; bids on the new police car.

Car License Fee Is Due, Payable

Your automobile's 1961 license fee is due and payable from Tuesday through Feb. 4.

And it would be a fine idea to pay on time, said manager Olin Hughes of the Marin County office of the Department of Motor Vehicles. If you've not paid by Feb. 4 you will be delinquent and subject to a penalty of up to 100 per cent of the renewal fee.

There will be three places for payment in Marin County, Hughes said. Ofefering all services will be the San Rafael office at 1926 Fourth Street, open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

A special window there will be open most of each day for fast servicing of pre-punched cards renewing last year's registrations.

This office will also deal with transfers, out-of-state registration changes and other situation where the applicant doesn't have a pre-punched card such as that he had one but lost it.

Winter Playground Program Opens In San Rafael Tuesday

The San Rafael Recreation Department will open its winter playground program Tuesday with intermural basketball and a special yo-yo tournament.

Playgrounds will be supervised from 3 to 5 p.m. on the following schedule: Monday—Coleman, Sun Valley; Tuesday—Hartzell, Short; Wednesday—McPhail, E Street School; Thursday—West End, San Pedro and Friday — McPhail and Laurel Dell. Albert Park will be supervised during the week from 4 to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Preliminary yo-yo competition will begin during the second week in January. Tournament winners will compete in regional championships.

Saturday physical fitness program featuring trampoline and tumbling for boys and modern dance for girls will be held at San Rafael High School from 9 a.m. to noon. Meeting times will be 9 a.m., 11 and 12 year olds; 10 a.m., nine and 10 year olds, and 11 a.m., seven and eight year olds.

Basketball leagues of boys between 12 and 18 years old will start competition Jan. 9 at the Davidson School gymnasium. A program of basketball practice for teen-age boys will begin Jan. 7 from 1 to 4 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

Three adult basketball leagues including an open league for teams from outside the county will play on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

A program of badminton for adults will be held Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Davidson School gymnasium.

Tiburon Pilot Freed Of Charge

A Tiburon bar pilot, accused of hitting his woman companion in the jaw last Monday night in Tiburon, was freed Thursday in Marin Municipal court without a formal charge.

Judge Harold J. Haley freed Capt. Willis Jennings Fowler, 60, of 2125 Paradise Drive on the recommendation of the district attorney.

Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarino said the woman, Mrs. Betty Lois Nichols, 31, who arrested him on a citizen's warrant that night, does not want to sign a formal complaint.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Farewell To Old, Welcome To Two New Supervisors

Monday at noon, two old supervisors will step down from posts they have held for years. And two new ones will be sworn in, along with "the old pro" himself, Bill Fusselman.

Being a county supervisor is no easy task. Even those of us who closely follow the activities of the board, don't really appreciate the constant service, continual demands, and regular abuse to which a supervisor is subjected.

It is our observation that being a supervisor is the most difficult of all political positions. You are making decisions of countywide importance and you are right on hand to take the brunt of any displeasure in John Public. You meet him on the street or in the restaurant; he's waiting for you outside the supervisor's chambers or lurking on your telephone. There is no escape to a quiet office in Washington or Sacramento. There is no hiding behind the fact you are only one of 40 state senators, 80 state assemblymen or 437 congressmen. You are one of five supervisors and your voice and influence have great influence in the county and practically every decision makes someone unhappy.

Mrs. Vera Schultz and James Marshall, who step out of their jobs Monday, have faithfully and conscientiously carried out their duties as supervisors. They have devoted unlimited time and effort to the task, far beyond that which would normally be expected.

We have not always agreed with them nor they with us. But we believe they have honestly and thoughtfully voted their convictions based on their understanding of the good of the people of Marin. They have our hearty thanks for their hard and dedicated work.

And to our two new supervisors, J. Walter Blair and George Ludy, we offer a warm welcome and our full cooperation. We do not always expect to agree with them either. And we are certain they will not always agree with us.

But if we can understand that each in his own way wants only the best for Marin County and its residents, we're sure that we all can work together to that end.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the Old Year, which brought us neither war nor want, And BOUQUETS to the New Year, which we pray will bring peace and happiness.

BOUQUETS to two Mill Valley men who are stepping out of public life after devoting many months and years to their city: Robert W. Graver, traffic expert of the planning commission, responsible for the North Miller Avenue and many other useful studies, and Charles Guichard of the parks and recreation commission, called the "father" of the pending Mill Valley small crafts harbor.

BRICKBATS to parents who have children with new bb-guns and who have not taught the children how to use them or, more important, how not to use them. Broken street lights, car windows, and other shattering objects suffer the most.

A BOUQUET to Joel Y. Rickman, able publicity director of the Redwood Empire Assn. since 1954, who retires from the job tonight.

A BOUQUET, too, for Albert Carpenter of Terra Linda, whose quick thinking and action efficiently removed a Kent Woodlands girl from the shattered windshield of her car.

And a BOUQUET to Santa Claus—he did good.

A BOUQUET to honest Gerald Drew of San Rafael who found $482.32 on the street and took it into the police station for return to its rightful owner, bar operator Wayne Brooks.

A BOUQUET to KTIM radioman Ollie Freeman for his successful campaign to raise $3,000—he got $4,300—to furnish proper medical care for a 3-year-old girl with a serious internal malfunction.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

NO TIME TO SPARE

"Do not squander time, for that is the stuff of which life is made," is an old saying of Benjamin Franklin that deserves to be placarded on every billboard in the country.

Persons who look for ways to "kill time" are seldom found among the alert, the forward-looking or the happy. Those who are busy fulfilling the responsibilities of their homes, jobs, classwork, organizations and of public affairs experience the true joy of living.

You live only once. God gives you only one appearance on the stage of life to prove that you love Him and others as yourself. Make every minute and hour count therefore, and pack as much good as you can into the short span alloted you before eternity.

Reflect often on those lines, "I shall pass through this life but once. And good, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now. Let me not defer it nor neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

"All things have their season, and in their times all things pass under heaven."
(Ecclesiastes 3:1)

Grant me the vision and wisdom, O Holy Spirit, to use all my time in a way that will count for all eternity.

School Integration Edges Upward In '60

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Public school integration in 17 Southern states and the District of Columbia edged upward in the fall of 1960, but the gains were mostly in border states rather than the "deep South."

Statistics published this month by the non-partisan Southern School News showed that of 3,097,534 Negro school children enrolled in originally all-segregated school districts, 195,625, or 6.3 per cent, were attending classes with white children when the fall term opened in 1960.

The previous school year ended with a total Negro enrollment of 3,020,727, with 181,020 or 6 per cent, in integrated classes.

ACCORDING TO the survey, 191,349, or nearly all, of the integrated Negro students are concentrated in the District of Columbia and six border states. The District of Columbia has the highest rate of integration, with all schools desegregated and 84.1 per cent of the Negro pupils actually attending classes with white pupils.

Others are West Virginia, with 66.6 per cent of the Negro students attending racially mixed classes; Delaware, 44.7 per cent; Missouri, 41.7 per cent; Kentucky, 38.9 per cent; Oklahoma, 24 per cent; and Maryland, 20.9 per cent.

However, these states account for only 14 per cent of the total Southern Negro enrollment.

IN THE REMAINING Southern states, integration remains non-existent or mainly token.

Texas, with 3,500, or 1.2 per cent of its Negro students attending desegregated classes, leads the group. Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina, with 36 per cent of the Southern Negro enrollment, as yet have integrated none of their schools. Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia together have 776 Negroes attending integrated classes out of a total Negro enrollment of 2,663,520.

Following are some recent developments in states affected by the school desegregation question:

ARKANSAS — Voters Nov. 8 turned down by a three-to-one vote a state constitutional amendment, supported by Gov. Orval E. Faubus (D), which would have allowed schools to be closed to avoid integration.

DELAWARE — The Third Circuit Court of Appeals Aug. 29 struck down the state's "grade - a - year" integration plan as not meeting the requirement of "all deliberate speed" laid down by the Supreme Court in its historic 1954 desegregation decision. An appeal of the Aug. 29 action was pending before the Supreme Court.

FLORIDA — The number of Negroes in "desegregated" classes dropped from 512 in the 1959-60 school year to 27 this year when the lone white student dropped out of the Orchard Villa School, Miami. This left the state with only one desegregated school, also in Miami.

GEORGIA—A U.S. District Court has ordered Atlanta's schools integrated by May 1, 1961, but state authorities were doubtful the necessary administrative actions would be completed before September.

MISSISSIPPI—Voters Nov. 8 ratified a constitutional amendment making it discretionary rather than mandatory for the state legislature to provide free public schools.

LOUISIANA—In the first desegregation of schools in the deep South, four Negro girls are attending two New Orleans elementary schools in the face of mob violence, a white boycott and efforts by the state legislature to block the integration program. The Negro pupils entered the classes Nov. 14 as the first step in a "grade-a-year" program.

TENNESSEE—The Chattanooga Board of Education was ordered by a U. S. District Court to produce a desegregation plan by Dec. 20. Tennessee now has 342 of its 19,644 Negro students attending integrated classes.

Two Men Move To Capital For 6 Months

By CHAPIN A. DAY

CHIP DAY

This weekend we lose two prominent Marin County residents for six months —lose them, that is, except on weekends.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman-elect William T. Bagley move to Sacramento for the 1961 session of the State Legislature.

On Monday, a legal holiday, they will be sworn in, McCarthy for four more years, Bagley for two. The Senate and the Assembly will organize for the year and then report to the governor that they are ready to do the business of the state.

RIGHT HERE THEY run into trouble. Big question is, will Gov. Edmund G. Brown be on hand to be so notified. He must be in Los Angeles that morning to open the Rose Festival. We'd bet a wet soda cracker he'd rather remain in Los Angeles to see the Rose Bowl game than to fly back to Sacramento to receive the committees which will tell him the legislature is organized.

One thing is sure, he won't give his opening day address to the legislature until Tuesday. After all, the legislators would like to watch the game on television if they can't be there. And it is expected there will be a number of legislative seats vacant opening day, especially from the Southern California solons.

THIS DILEMMA doesn't face many governors. It only happens every 22 years; last in 1939, next in 1983. The legislature, by constitutional law, must open on the first Monday after the first Sunday in January in the odd numbered years. In the even numbered years, only a budget session is held, opening in February.

California law provides the different types of sessions because not too many years ago California operated on a two-year state budget and the legislature had to meet only once every two years.

Now, since 1948, the state has operated on a one-year budget, forcing the legislature to meet annually to pass it. However, in a budget session, in even numbered years, no other matters but budgetary matters can be considered.

THIS REGULATION has been by-passed slightly by calling special sessions to run concurrently with the budget session. This year there were two such specials at the same time as the budget session. In special sessions only topics put on the special cali by the governor can be considered.

But in general sessions, such as now face the solons, the sky is the limit; anything can be considered. In its second year, 1957, the lawmakers introduced more than 7,000 measures, although less than half of them were passed. Last year 4,805 measures were introduced in the two houses of the legislature and Governor Brown signed 2,195 of them into new law.

BAGLEY, TAKING over a seat occupied for 20 years by Richard H. McCollister, now a lobbyist, will have to wait and see what committee assignments he draws. He's asked for six and hopes to be appointed to three or four of them.

McCarthy, Republican leader in the Senate, seems reassured of reappointment to the powerful, five-man Senate Rules committee, of which he is now vice chairman, and to most of the same committees on which he served last year, Business and Professions, Finance, Governmental Efficiency, Natural Resources and Transportation.

Both of them are going to be mighty busy boys for the next few months.

ONE THING the people of Stinson Beach should watch closely is the new five-year plan of the State Division of Beaches and Parks. The division, which for years has opposed beach camping of any kind, and has time and again indicated Stinson Beach sho indicated Stinson Beach should have no such camping, apparently is changing its mind.

We're told the new plan especially stresses beach camping and that the division will urge placement of camping facilities on upland areas of beach parks.

This should be ideal for Stinson Beach-Tamalpais State Park, which now are connected along the coast and up Steep Ravine.

The Country Parson

"A man's evil habits, like his bald spot, develop so gradually it's hard to say when he first had them."

REMEMBER WHEN

10 YEARS AGO

H. A. Summers, advance planning engineeer for the State Division of Highways, said that by present financing arrangements it would take 15 to 17 years to complete a six-lane Highway 101 freeway from San Rafael to the Golden Gate Bridge as Marin's share of gas tax money has been amounting to about $800,000 a year and the work will take 14 to 15 million dollars.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

I-J Should Stick To Gardening News

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have just read your Dec. 28 editorial urging that lay people be placed on state boards in the State Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, and I am fully convinced that you have not bothered to think the matter through or were just trying to fill up paper space on a tiresome day following holiday activities.

Your argument that the public is stuck with what a state board, such as the pharmacy board, decides is totally void since these boards do not have the power to pass laws. They may make recommendations, but only the legislature can change these recommendations into law; and even you must concede that the legislature is chosen by the people.

Secondly, if you will inquire into the functions of these boards, you will find the principal function of these boards is to examine and pass on the qualifications of the men and women serving in the professions. Do you honestly believe a lay person would be qualified to give a surgeon an examination on—for example—the proper method of suturing a heart valve, or question a lawyer on interpretation of contract law, or query a pharmacist on organic medicinal chemistry? Would you have our teachers examined by our trash collectors?

'Twould be better to fill your editorial space with level headed gardening news such as when to plant a calla lily in Marin—you're less apt to go astray there.

GEORGE J. GRUBER
Santa Venetia

(NOTE: Such boards do not pass laws, but they pass rules and regulations and codes which have the effect of law.)

Special Election Wasting Money

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

As a resident of Terra Linda, and, more particularly, as a taxpayer of Marin County, I am writing to protest the proposed special election to be held on the issue of recreation.

The proponents of recreation have advised that the bonding attorneys have stated that recreation bonds are unsaleable as long as annexation proceedings are pending. To hold a special election in view of this situation would be an unjustiified waste of taxpayers' money.

As more fully appeared in the Dec. 17 edition of the Journal, San Rafael has already scheduled a comprehensive recreation program for Terra Linda which would appear to refute the "dire necessity" for immediate recreation so vehemently urged by recreation's proponents.

The records of the proceedings of the City Council of San Rafael clearly show that a substantial number of Terra Linda residents indicated a desire to be annexed some time ago. It now appears that the efforts of a "dedicated" few have been directed to the sole end of depriving these people of exercising their right of franchise.

If thisis not correct, then why are the proponents of recreation afraid to put the matter to a vote?

Let the people, not the "boys in the back room" decide!

EDWARD L. BRUNETTI
Terra Linda.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

Holidays Make Even A Columnist Mellow, Joyous, Full Of Good Cheer

This is the season of the year which makes men mellow, joyous and full of good cheer.

Even me.

It is the time of year during which we forget our pet hates and peeves. Such as book burners.

Strangely, I feel myself becoming so mellow I might even cast my lot with those who would rid the worlds' selves of objectionable books. That is, if they will promise to concentrate their torches on such nothing "literature" as Reader's Digest condensed versions of the classics. And Joyce Kilmer's "Trees."

I even find a warm spot in my heart for American car dealers, new and used. My feeling was especially toasty the other night during our foggy cold snap, when a friend suggested we ride to the city in his car instead of my somewhat draughty MG. I was, in fact, downright happy to ride in his over-sized, over-stuffed, over-powered, over-automatic, over-heated, over-priced station wagon.

My forgiveness even reaches to the predatory department stores, many of which were kind enough to extend me E-Z terms to help me over the Yule hurdle.

I forgive them their part, along with the help of the Madison Avenue brains, in making it immoral not to go in hock for the coming 12 months. After all, it was fun.

City councilmen and planning commissioners, often targets of my spleen, appear as fine fellows indeed during this season of good cheer.

I promise all of them that during the coming year I will feel no bitterness toward their sometimes idiotic sign ordinances—if they will only join me in my private campaign to rid the county of those gruesome phonetic-type signs which read: Kozy Kumfort Korp., etc. Not to mention that cryptic phrase stenciled in large white letters along the highways which say: "XING PED."

Nor can I work up any animosity toward those schoolteachers who still cling to that medieval form of discipline which leads them to force their misbehaving pupils to write, 1,000 times, "I will henceforth play in my own play area." I am sure the youngsters will learn in spite of them.

There even must be some good in those property owners and real estate dealers who would limit their property to white, Aryan, blue-eyed Anglo-Saxons.

From where I sit, it looks like a good new year, and to all of you I say, as Pogo might (see I-J comics): May your halls be decked with Boston Charlie from now until 1962 —and thenceforth.

And, in the words of the National Safety Council, have a happy, safe, sane New Year's Eve.

Personally, I intend to stay home and curl up with an objectionable book.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

If Swingin' Sam Snead ever loses his superb golfing touch, he can always make a good living out of telling stories on TV a la George Burns or Herb Shriner.

Snead swears he was matched against a gorilla one day. The gorilla wore plus fours, a fancy golf shirt and cap, and watched calmly while Snead boomed a drive 260 yards down the first fairway, approached, then took two putts for a regulation par. The gorilla's 380-yard drive, however, left him right on the apron of the green. He studied the lay of the green carefully, moistened finger to test the wind, then thoughtfully pulled a putter out of his bag.

"You know what that gorilla did then?" avers Snead. "He took a nice, smooth swing with that putter — and smacked his putt another 380 yards!"

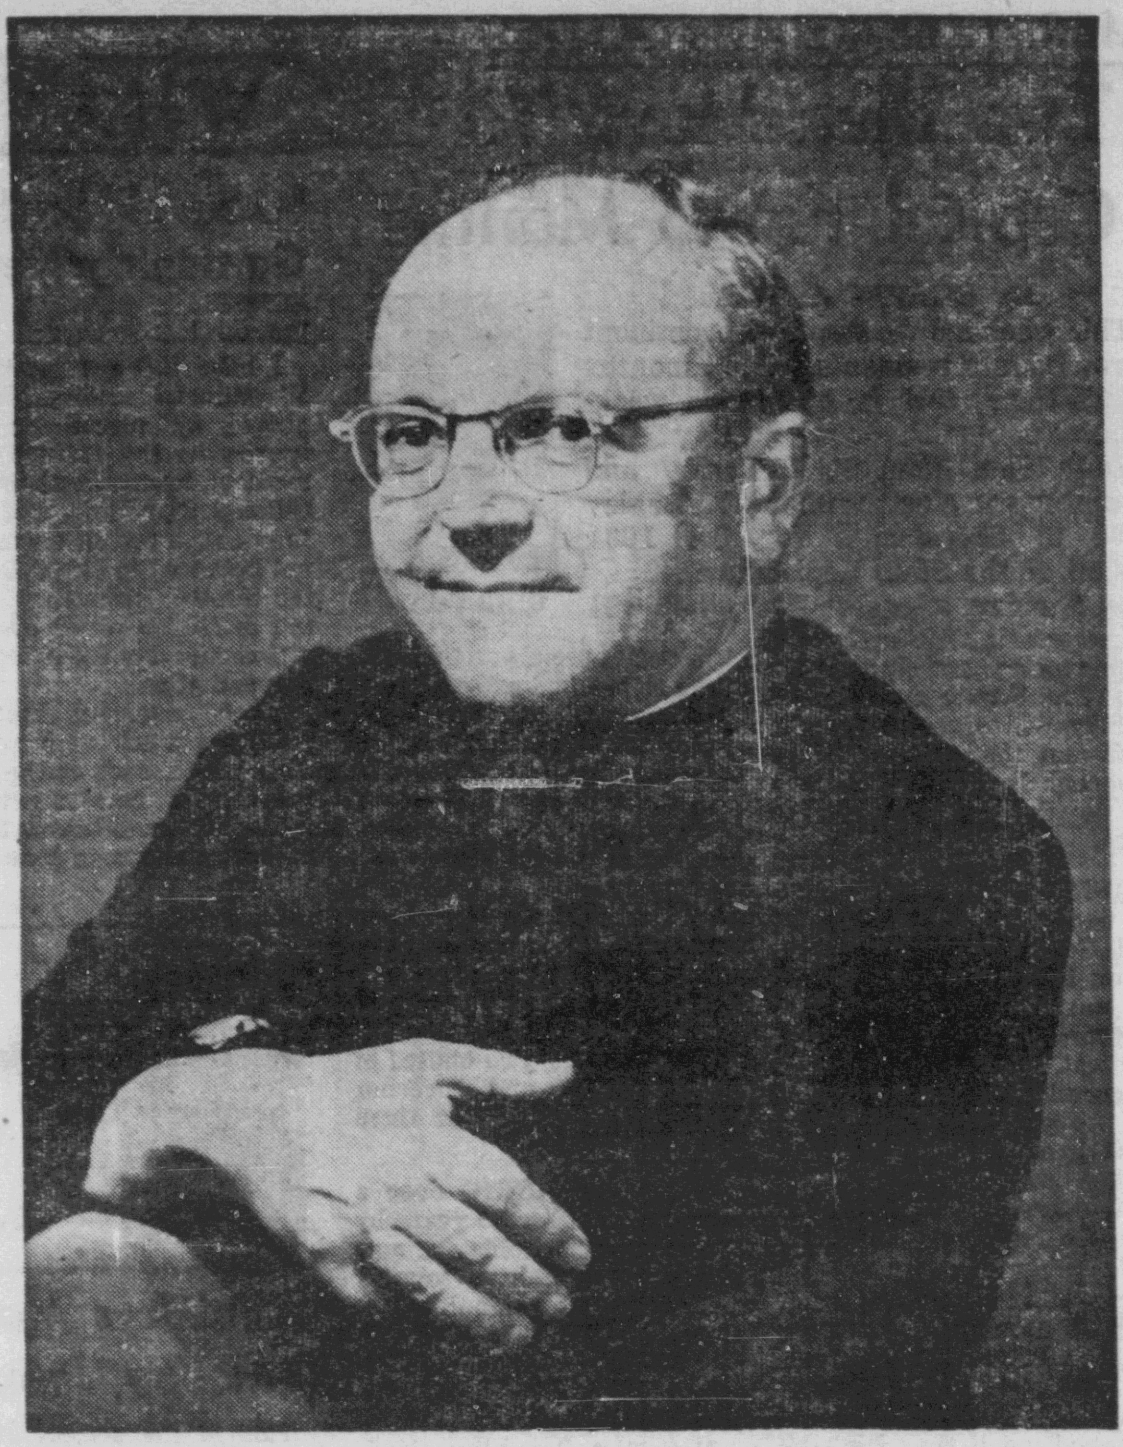
New Year's Eve Message To The People Of Marin

At midnight tonight the new year, 1961, arrives. Marinites, like others will greet its arrival in many ways.

Some will be comfortably in their beds asleep when the old year checks out. Others will be taking part in gala celebrations in nightclubs, theaters or private homes. Still others will attend more sedate but no less joyous watch parties in the churches of their choice. And many will be seated in the warmth of the fireplace of their own homes when 1961 arrives.

But Father Edward H. Donze tells us in the message appearing on this page, written for you at the request of the Marin Magazine, that no matter where or how we greet the arrival of the new year, there is one thing we can all do in common:

We can each and everyone of us vow to dedicate ourselves for 1961 to making this world a better, richer place in which to live for ourselves, our children, our fellow mankind, and for generations yet to come.



"WILL GOD'S WORLD be better off because of our lives in 1961?" That is the question which the Very Rev. Edward H. Donze, S. M., S. T. D., S. S. L., superior of the San Francisco Vice-Province of the Society of Mary, poses to the people of Marin County in his New Year's Eve message written from his office at the Marist Fathers' St. Peter Chanel Seminary in San Rafael. It is, Father Donze tells us on this page, the responsibility of each and every one of us during 1961 to see that the answer to his question is "Yes."

By the VERY REV.
EDWARD H. DONZE
Superior of the San Francisco Vice-Province of the Society of Mary

Is God giving us another year to live in His world? We cannot be sure, but most of us are probably taking this more or less for granted. This is an opportunity and a responsibility.

Will His world be better off because of our life in 1961? The whole world in some measure is affected by our daily living.

Atomic bombs are tested in desert regions or in some small island far off in the ocean. The effect for miles around is tremendous. It could start a tidal wave that would roll up on shores thousands of miles away. There might be a fallout that would reach millions of people who were never aware of the explosion.

In a smaller way every time I move my hand, every time I breathe I affect physically the whole universe. My movements disturb the air around me. This affects the areas contiguous to it. Since the universe is physically bound together, there is set up an endless chain of action and reaction. This would be infinitesimal even at a short distance, but it is real.

IN THE REALM of the spirit we cannot isolate ourselves. Of necessity our living is going to affect those who are now in the world and those who will come hereafter. In society we are all dependent upon one another. Our living in some way affects the whole society of men.

A man's life jostles those of countless other men and women in the course of his living, and with concrete results for good or for evil. No man comes to the end of his days devoid of influence on the lives of others; in this sense no man lives alone, no life is a purely private affair. The number of those we have pushed toward heaven or turned towards hell is known only to God; a secret whose very existence is for our caution and our comfort for it leaves us with never an excuse either for presumption or discouragement. The results in others are indirect effects from our lives; echoes of our living ring down the valleys of the lives of others like the voices of distant bells, quietly, impartially, implacably reaching out to the most secluded, almost forgotten hamlets of men.

Our lives sweep through the lives of other men and women like wind over the waters of the sea, whipping up waves that lash their ways to distant shores. Our kindness, a sympathetic word from our lips are seen and heard, imitated, and in turn are fresh breezes dissipating the selfishness in other lives. Our sins are seen, heard of, suffered; then spread like a corrupting plague.

All this is no small part in the fate of the human world. For all its indirectness, it is by no means ineffective. By it holy men have renewed whole cities, and the vicious have corrupted whole communities; of the two, the victims of vice have won more numerous imitators, for the roads they travel are so much easier in their beginnings.

THERE IS AN enticement, quite aside from mere example, that beckons from one life with a depth and extent of appeal beyond the realization of the man who so draws others to goodness. The perfume of a holy life, the wholesome happiness of innocence, the strong serenity carved in the face of the man who has dared to be good, the quiet happiness of an unselfish woman—all these are a parade of goodness, lovableness, of happiness before hearts hungry for just such things. Their allure awakens at least a nostalgia in the most hardened men, and often enough lights a roaring fire in the greenest wood.

Even secret thoughts of humility or hidden feelings of envy help form, for good or bad, the character that will be reflected in human relations.

The world of 1961 will be different because we have lived in it. May God be pleased with the difference.

Meet Marin's Mr. District Attorney

He's Champion Of Justice, And Of The Forty-Niners

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin's Dist. Atty. Roger Patrick Garety, 40, is known as a deliberate and thoroughly prepared prosecutor when he walks into court as the people's representative against crime.

In the courthouse, men look up to him as the champion of justice.

But outside court, he is perhaps just as well known as a man devoted to his family and church and genuinely interested in the welfare of neighbors, friends and the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Here is a typical American citizen, devoted to the important job he holds, who just as thoroughly enjoys mingling with the crowd to "oh" and "ah" the fortunes of his favorite team or boo the referee.

IN SHORT, here is a D.A. who is completely human, who feels he is no better and no worse than the man next door. He carries the people's case to the jury solemnly and with dignity. And on a weekend, he is not too proud to slip on a sport shirt, munch on a hotdog and yell himself hoarse at the stadium.

For Garety, mingling with the crowd is no effort. Born south of Market in San Francisco, he played football with the kids, rubbed elbows with stevedores and postal workers, fought in Europe and the Philippines with GI buddies, and met his girl while working as soda jerk at Camp Curry in Yosemite.

He can't begin to trace his ancestry back to the Mayflower, and even if he could, he is the type who would not try. He is not the big official who condescends to ingratiate himself with the masses. As soon as Garety steps out of his role as D.A., he is there among the masses. No handshaking and no backslapping is needed for that transition from prosecutor to the man-next-door.

Sure, he happens to know Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown personally. But this came quite by accident. Just out of law school, Garety was pounding the pavements of San Francisco looking for a job when a friend introduced him to a lawyer, a complete stranger, who in turn recommended him to Governor Brown, the then district attorney.

Garety has other friends too. One of them sends him a Christmas card every year—from behind the walls of Folsom Prison where Garety sent him. He is James Silva, a convict from Los Angeles who was prosecuted in Marin for stabbing a fellow inmate several years ago.

GARETY, THEN deputy D.A., teamed up with former Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich to convict Silva and send him to Condemned Row. But when the governor commuted the death sentence of another man, Garety and Weissich went to Sacramento and convinced the governor that Silva was even more entitled to clemency.

Silva now lives behind walls without possibility of parole, but he still remembers the men who fought hard to convict him, then fought just as hard to save him from the gas chamber.

Most of Garety's ancestors came from Ireland, and one from Australia. Both his mother and father were native San Franciscans. His father, Leo J. Garety, passed away a year ago, after working for 30 years in the purchasing department and commissary at Lagunda Honda Home in San Francisco.

Roger Garety attended St. Ignatius High where he played football and served as student body president. His first football game, by coincidence, was played against a Marin team at San Rafael.

"The coach put me in at center," he recalls. "The first ball I centered sailed over the head of the receiver."

"The coach then decided to put me in where I wouldn't have to handle the ball as often," he chuckles. Thereafter, he played guard for three years.

At University of Santa Clara, Garety did some boxing, but he did even better academically. He graduated as valedictorian of his class in 1942.

It was during his college years that he jerked sodas at Camp Curry. Working next door at the curio shop was a University of California coed, Bonnie J. Smith of Oakland.

In August of 1942 he married Bonnie.

THEY NOW have three children: Denise Elizabeth, 12; Roger Leo, 10; and Richard Patrick, 2½. They live at 24 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael.

Shortly after his marriage and while waiting for the Army to grab him, Garety went to work on the docks, pushing freight. He joined the Army as private in 1942 and came out a captain after serving in Europe and the Philippines.

He won his law degree from University of San Francisco in 1948. Then came his first big break when he joined the district attorney's staff under Pat Brown in San Francisco, followed by private practice.

The Marin D.A. in 1951 was Richard M. Sims, now judge of Marin Superior Court. Sims had been one of Garety's instructors at USF. Sims asked Garety if he wanted a job in Marin as a deputy D.A. That was in January of 1951, and the Garetys have adopted Marin as their home ever since.

In 10 years, Garety has piled up a long list of accomplishments, both as lawyer and as layman. He is the one who prosecuted and convicted four auto salesmen in 1957 for fraud and misrepresentation in the county's longest trial ever. Never before, and never since, has a Marin County jury been locked up overnight. That jury was locked for two nights during deliberations.

In 1956, Garety was elected president of the California Junior Bar Assn., and this year the Marin County Bar Assn. named him president for 1961.

In 1959, Garety, a Democrat, was prominently mentioned as a candidate for municipal court judge. But he withdrew his name from contention in favor of succeeding Weissich as district attorney. This he did last Aug. 1.

WHY DID HE give up what appeared to be a good chance for judgeship? "Having served in the district attorney's office for such a long time, it was a challenge to find out if I could take over the top job," Garety explains.

At the moment, Garety has no political ambitions. "My present aim is to do a good job as district attorney, and what the future would hold otherwise, I wouldn't attempt to predict."

Outside the courthouse, his other interests are wide and varied, and the list too long to mention in detail.

In church circles, he is known as a layman leader in such activities as the St. Raphael's Fund Drive, Catholic Youth Organization, and the Serra Club.

He was Easter Seal Campaign chairman for 1960, has been active in the American Red Cross and United Crusade, and is on the board of directors of the Hanna Center for Boys.

He belongs to the Marin County Peace Officers Assn., Kiwanis Club, and is one of the enthusiastic group which turns out en masse as the loudest, if not the best organized, cheering group for the Firty-Niners.

Garety goes in for water skiing, but his wife is the snow ski enthusiast of the family.

Their youngest son Richard arrived during the heyday of 49er backfield star Dicky Moegle. Before the baby's arrival, close friends would kiddingly ask Bonnie how Dicky was doing. And when the stork did arrive, the nurse asked Bonnie what she would name the boy.

THERE WAS NO hesitation as Bonnie replied: "Why Dicky of course." And the name stuck.

A tragedy in the lives of the Garetys was the sudden loss of their eldest daughter, Sheila Katherine. In 1958, at the age of 14, Sheila succumbed to brain tumor.

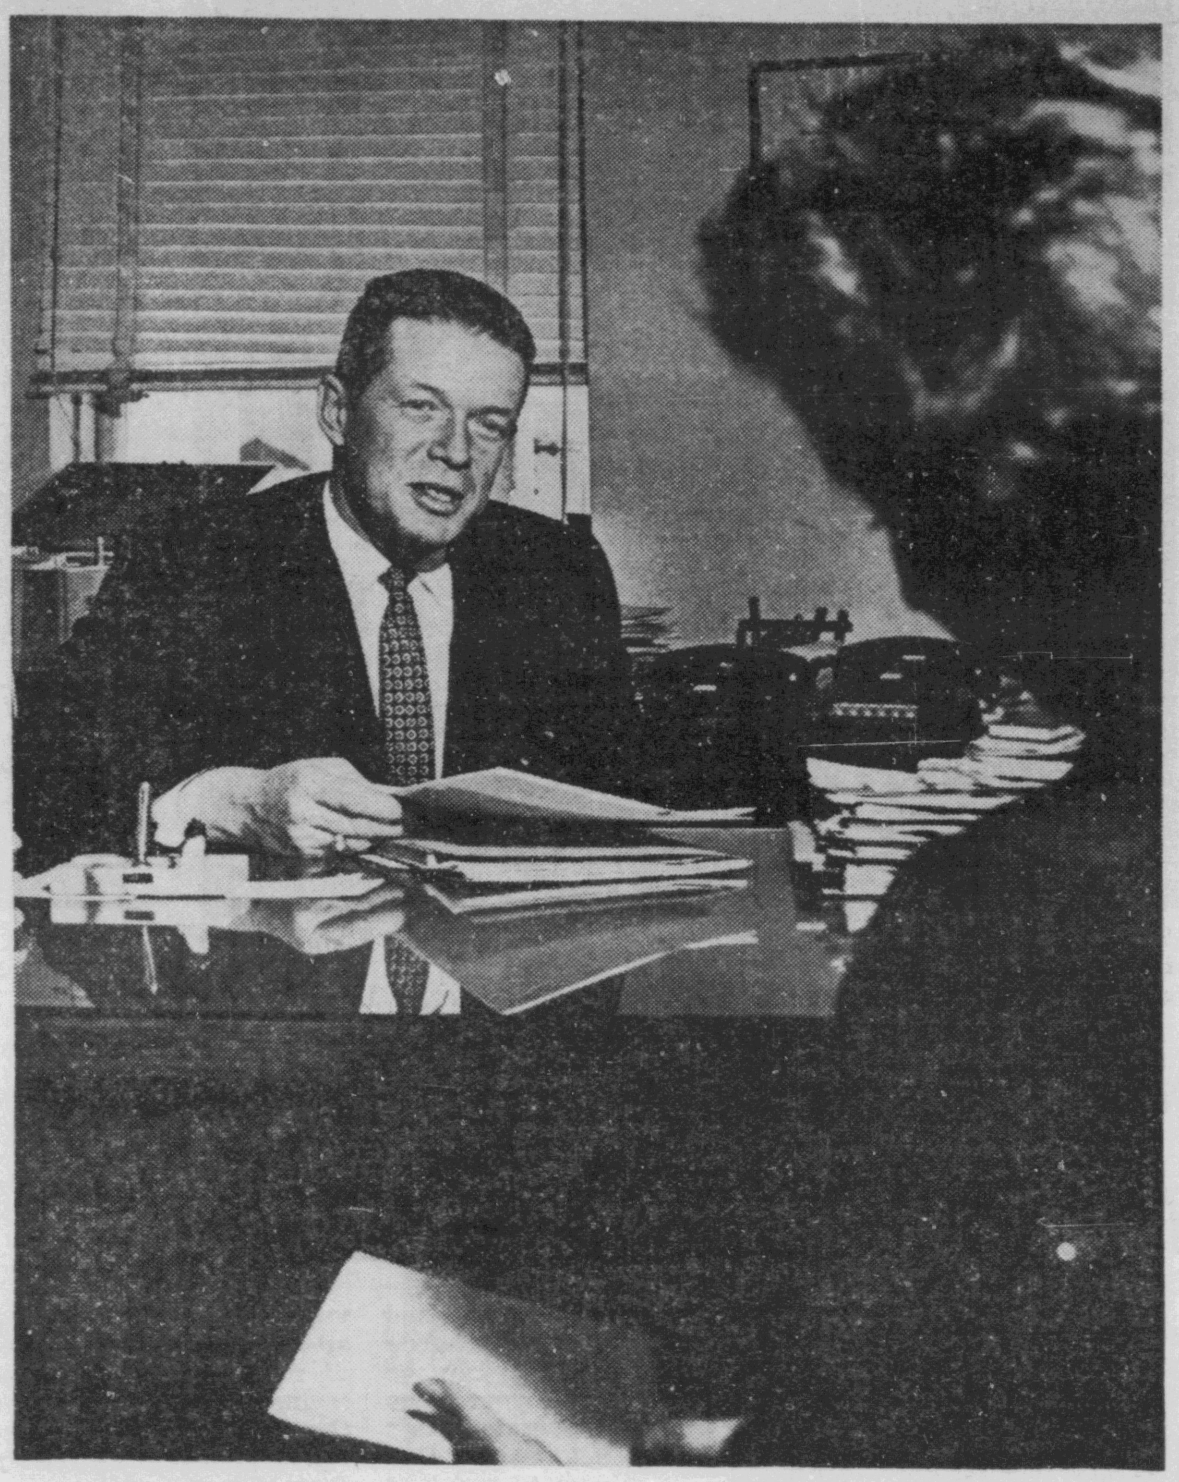
Otherwise, life in their adopted county has been a pleasant one for the Garetys.

In almost every jury trial, several jurors excuse themselves because they know Roger as a friend, neighbor, or through association in civic or fraternal groups.

In the courtroom, Garety is always a gentleman, who argues with a warmth of feeling. When his temper flares, as it sometimes does, you see no display of histronics, but a man of strong conviction boiling in righteous anger.

When the battle is over, win, lose or draw, the defendant knows he has felt the wrath of an earnest man who is out to do justice to both him and to society.

Both he and society respond to the warmth of the man. In courthourse corridors, streets, and from behind the walls of Folsom, they wish "Roger" and his family a happy new year.



FROM HIS DESK in his office in the Marin County Courthouse, Dist. Atty. Roger Patrick Garety dictates to a secretary as he goes about the performance of the duties of one of Marin's most important public offices. Garety has been the Marin D. A. since last Aug. 1. (Independent-Journal photo)

Now There's Even A Machine That Will Pack Your Dishes

Add one more task to the growing list of once arduous hand jobs which can now be done by machine.

You—or rather, your mover—can now pack your dishes, glassware, silverware and bric-a-brac by machine.

It's all done with a portable machine, about the size and weight of an apartment-sized refrigerator, which can be brought right into your home and which will operate on any 110 or 120 volt circuit. One man can operate it, and it is mobile enough to be moved from room to room.

It employs heat and vacuum to enclose the dishes or other articles in a thermoplastic film.

The tight-fitting and tough plastic skin will protect even the most delicate items after they are then sealed to a corrugated backing board and placed in the packing box.

Advantages include the elimination of the paper mess associated with packing and unpacking, cleanliness for the articles shipped, elimination of silverware tarnish, and a saving in space and cost for the shipper since more items can be packed in a given-sized container.

Packaged items remain visible to the housewife.

And, it is claimed, there is less possibility of breakage, or of loss of small items.

Crockett Van and Storage Inc. of San Rafael was the first to introduce the new machine and service to Marin. Since then, at least one other moving firm has also acquired such a machine. And the time may not be too distant when most or all movers will be performing what was once a time-consuming, laborious hand task faster and more efficiently by machine.

A PLAYFUL Beasley teases Mrs. Endicott a bit with the prospect that her dishware might be smashed. But the pieces are held securely by the tough transparent covering and in no danger of falling to the floor.

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

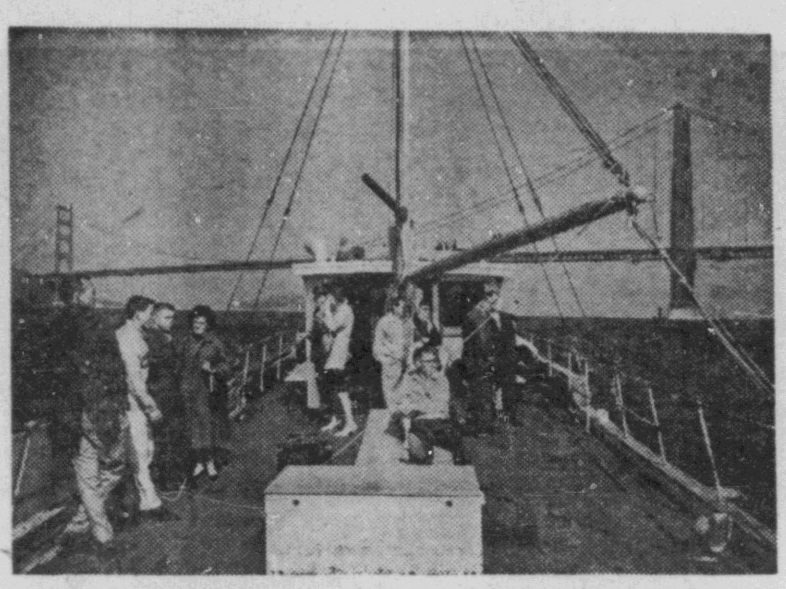
"Can Christmas Bubble Light Stains Be Removed?"

You are in for disappointment if you have fluid from a bubble-light on a fabric, especially if that fabric contains acetate. Occasionally these ornaments will break and stain upholstery, a dress, a rug or other fabric. They contain methylene chloride which is colored with an oil-soluble type of dye. It is a very volatile solvent for acetate. Consequently, when this liquid contacts any fabric containing acetate, it damages the fabric and removes the dyestuff. No matter how much of a miracle-man your drycleaner may be, there is nothing he can do about such damage.

Your best action is prevention. Be careful that these gay lights are not broken. If they do break, make every effort to contain the fluid in a receptacle or cloth which you will throw away.

Another stain impossible to remove from acetate fabrics is liquid lipstick. This type of lipstick appears like finger-nail polish stains and is most difficult to remove from any fabric and impossible from acetates.

Look out for children's plastic ballons, too. When a gaily-colored balloon of plastic bursts, and they do, a gummy mass results. Your cleaner must use oleic acid and benzol to remove this stain. Ordinary solvents won't do. Christmas is a gay and exciting season, but it can result in heartbreak when the festivities soil a prized garment. Take the soiled fabric to your professional drycleaner at once. Tell him what happened. He'll do his best to save it for you.



IN NEXT WEEK'S MAGAZINE—

CERTAINLY ONE of the best known craft to frequent the waters of the Bay is the Blue Spirit. Legally, she is the property of the Russ Lewis family of Sausalito. But actually every person, including hundreds of Marinites, who have made a "voyage" aboard the trim excursion boat feels a sense of ownership. The Blue Spirit is the boat which carries them when they wish to show visiting guests the bridges and other sights of the Bay. Or which takes them on weekend outings to Angel Island. Your Marin Magazine will tell you about the Blue Spirit—and the Russ Lewises—next week.

'ROUND MARIN

by Don Keown

Looking Back Upon Past Year As Editor Of Your Marin Magazine

THIS ISSUE marks the completion of our first full year as editor of your Independent-Journal Marin Magazine. And, if you will pardon us for getting a bit personal, it's been one of the most pleasant, most rewarding, and busiest years of our life.

We've been a general reporter, a police reporter, a makeup editor, a wire editor, a sports editor, a courthouse reporter, a city editor, a copy editor, and a small daily managing editor. And we've always enjoyed newspaper work of any kind.

But editing a weekend newspaper supplement such as your Marin Magazine is easily the most interesting assignment we have yet undertaken.

Probably it is the diversity of activities that makes it so.

There are, of course, the feature stories covering a wide assortment and variety of activities, people and things in Marin. Some we write ourselves. Others come in from a number of sources for copy editing. But in every case, before the story reaches print, we have developed a feeling of kinship with the subjects. And so every week we grow more and more a Marinite, proud of our county and its people, interested in acquiring more and more information about it and passing it on to you.

Then there are our auxiliary duties: The reading and reviewing of books. Our contacts with the people who are responsible for Marin's vigorous cultural life — the little theater groups, the concert series programs, etc.

We are privileged to visit and bring to you in pictures some of Marin's finest gardens and homes.

We compile the Marin Datebook, which we hope will be used more and more by you in selecting your entertainment. We hope the wide variety of activities it lists will at least drive home the point that you do not have to drive across the bridge to attend a play or hear music or folk or square dance. Marin itself is home base for some very fine entertainment.

We've been faced with the necessity of editing a number of special editions on subjects upon which we were not always even a little bit informed. But in so doing, we have gained an insight and appreciation of those fields, and next time around we will be in a better position to do them justice.

But best of all, our job has brought us into contact with scores of other Marin residents, many of them now personal friends. Some we've met in the course of putting together stories for the magazine. Others have been kind enough to call personally or by telephone to offer constructive criticism of or commendation for the Marin Magazine and the course it has taken during the past year. That interest is most appreciated.

The Marin Magazine has grown in size during the past year. We hope it has also improved in quality. That is as it should be, for Marin deserves a better and better product.

Certainly it is our pledge to you that in 1961 we will strive to give you a more interesting, more entertaining, more enlightening magazine.

To do that, of course, we will need the continued assistance of those who have helped us so much in 1960. Writers like Dorothy Slattery and Elizabeth Johnston who spend their own off-work hours putting together feature stories simply because they like to write. And photographers like I-J staffers Dick Steinheimer and Bob Hax, free-lancer Jim Kean and commercial photog Ken Molino whose imaginative pictures often tell more than pages of type.

We thank all those who have been so helpful in 1960. We wish them and you a happy New Year. And we hope that during 1961 we will be meeting with and talking to a great many more readers.

The Bosses Teach, And Tam Students Earn As They Learn

Work Experience Program Part Of Education Of Some 50 Pupils

By ED NEUMEIER

Just for fun, and because cute initial names are back in vogue, they call it WEEP.

But most of the kids in the Tamalpais Union High School District Work Experience Education Program jump for joy. Well, not literally. But they like it.

The happy part about it is that employers seem to like it too. Not only are they glad to get good help and to participate in a worthwhile program, but they like their experience as teachers. For under the work experience program, the employers or their supervisors are, literally, teachers.

WORK EXPERIENCE, as part of a student's high school education is not new. It's not new in the Tam district either, but it has been re-instituted. After the program was in operation for five years under Philo W. McCulley, work experience was dropped during an austerity period in the Tam district.

Now, under coordinator Robert J. Maher of San Anselmo, former Drake High teacher and counselor, the program is again full blown. Maher has almost 50 students working in a variety of part-time jobs. Before long he expects the total to reach 75.

These students are learning and earning in a variety of ways. They're in banks, bakeries, professional offices, retail stores, hospitals, schools, governmental offices—they're pumping gas, working on cars and other equipment, learning trades, exploring vocations; most of all, they're learning responsibility, work habits, how to get along with people, how to take orders, and other real life lessons.

Students may work as many as 28 hours a week and may receive as much as an employer will pay, but they cannot be paid less than the state minimum wage. Most of them average 20 hours per week on the job, Maher says, except the teachers in elementary classes who work 7½ hours plus time for class preparation.

These, incidentally are an interesting facet of the many sided program. At present there are six of them assisting the Isabel Cook School in San Anselmo. Their work is carried on through the Drake High future teachers club.

ALL OF THESE on-the-job students are on the job only partially. They must still take all school requirements. For their supervised work experience, they receive up to 10 semester credits per semester, five for each hour of work per day. They can earn a maximum of 40 high school credits in their high school career. The program is open only to juniors and seniors.

The students, Maher said, take their work experience time from what would be a study hall or an elective course.

"In fact," he pointed out, "work experience is simply another elective offered to some students."

Students who apply for the program are screened by guidance personnel. Their motives, especially, are screened. Students with heavy academic loads are usually counseled out of the program.

"Naturally," Maher says, "some of these students are interested in supplementing their incomes. These cases are legitimate. But in all cases, it's the general overall educational development of the individual that is foremost in selection."

It is this screening and this selection which especially appeals to employers. Mrs. Lyle Meyers of the Top Drawer clothing store in Sausalito stressed this aspect.

"We've long hired students from Tam High and have been extremely pleased," she said. "Now under this program we are given further guarantee that they're the right ones. We get a good caliber of help.

"Besides," she added with a twinkle, "I get a kick out of helping them with problems like personal grooming and how to meet people."

Another enthusiastic employer is August Kientz of the Kientz Bakery in San Anselmo. "We've been hiring high school students for 20 years. We're a pioneer in this. Sometimes we keep them all through high school and into college. Occasionally one will stay in the business.

"Sure, they're all good kids from Drake, the ones we get. And we get to be teachers too."

AT THE FIRST National Bank of San Rafael, cashier and secretary Henry F. Luehring expressed similar reactions. At the moment he has three students under the program—a messenger boy who doubles in brass on the ad-

And he wants more. Students, he said, are put through the bank's normal training program to learn the different aspects of the operation. After two weeks, department heads "take them under their wings" and then they are assigned to work with a specific employee. After that, they move at their own pace.

"There's important mutual benefit in this program," Luehring said, "for the bank, for the school, and for the students. These students often plug the gaps in our staff. They keep the supervisors on their toes because training others is one of the best ways to do that. And the possibilities of keeping them as permanent, trained personnel are increased."

There are presently six student employees from the Tam district in county offices. One is in the district attorney's office, two in the county assessor's, and one each with the auditor, personnel, and the county administrator.

It was former County Administrator D. A. Jensen who presented the program to the board of supervisors, Maher said. Both the county and the school district are pleased with the arrangement.

In all, Maher lists 23 separate occupations in which his students are presently placed.

From Tibet's Monasteries To Marin

The Lhasa Apso Has Won The Esteem Of Dog Breeders Of The Western World

By DON KEOWN

Mrs. Doris Solmonson of 1616 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, is a woman who has always been interested in travel — the kind, she says, that calls upon me for fresh judgments unrelated to anything in my past experience."

Because of that she has been an admirer of world traveler Lowell Thomas and an avid reader and viewer of his books and television programs.

And because of that, she is Marin's leading breeder of and enthusiast for what is one of the rarest among breeds of dogs found in this country—the Lhasa Apsos from Tibet.

TO FILL IN the details of that chain of interests:

A few years back Mrs. Solmonson had no interest whatsoever in dogs.

"I was fond of cats and birds," she recalls. "But I had never been interested in dogs."

Then she read the Lowell Thomas book, "Out of This World."

She says of Thomas: "He has always represented my concept of true manhood with his many activities of really useful service to his country and to mankind."

His appraisal of Tibet, where he had been received by the little country's religious leader, the Dalai Lama, as a representative of the Western world, fascinated Mrs. Solmonson.

And among the passages which particularly interested her was Thomas' account of how the Dalai Lama had given him, as a farewell gift, a pair of the charming little Lhasa Apso dogs which he brought back with him to this country.

Five years ago she saw those dogs in a television program based on Thomas' travels. And she fell in love with them.

It was then that she determined that she, too, would own some of the rare dogs. But finding them was another matter.

Then in the magazine, "Dog World," she finally came upon the information as to where she could obtain pure Lhasa Apsos. She learned that there were but three such kennels in the entire United States, one of them in California. And from Mrs. Albertram McFadden of Palo Alto she got her first pair of Lhasas, three generations out of Tibet.

SAYS MRS. SOLMONSON of the dogs, borrowing from the title of the Lowell Thomas book which first turned her interest in their direction:

"As friends, companions and ambassadors of love and dignity, they are truly 'Out of This World'."

The Lhasas Apsos are one of four breeds of dogs native to Tibet. There are also the Tibetan Terrier, a dog of true terrier type raised more or less all over the country; the Tibetan Spaniel, a toy dog; and the fierce and powerful Tibetan Mastiff.

Common characteristics of all these dogs are a heavy coat of hair, to provide protection against the rigors of the climate, and the carrying of the tail up over the back.

The huge mastiff is often chained by its owner to a post outside the front door as a guard to prevent intruders from entering. And he performs that job well.

Inside the Lhasa Apsos performs much the same sentry duty. Intelligent, with acute hearing and finely developed instincts to pick between intimates and strangers, the dog shows the result of long years of training in this work.

In Tibet itself these dogs are often called the Abso Keng Kye or "bark sentinel lion dog."

The breed can be traced back as far as eight centuries in Tibet. The name Apsos comes from a certain valley in that mountainous country. And this has led to the belief among many that the dogs hail from that area. But actually, they are natives of Tibet's fabled capital city of Lhasa where they were found almost exclusively in the monasteries and in homes of the mighty —so much so that early travelers to Tibet seldom saw them. The name Apsos is the result of the resemblance of its long hair to that of the coat of a goat which was to be found in the Apsos Valley.

There have been suggestions that the dogs have a place in the religion of Tibet. The experts say, however, that evidence to support this belief appears to be lacking.

There, is however, ample evidence of the high esteem the Tibetans have long held for the dogs.

THE LHASA APSO was known in England for many years before it was introduced into this country. An English explorer in 1904 sent home to England from Tibet a Lhasa Apso to a Mrs. Frank Wormal. She showed her dog at the Crystal Palace in 1909 and it won first prize in the foreign dog class.

Shortly thereafter the Kennel Club of England honored the Lhasa Apso with challenge certificates.

Lhasa Apsos first came to the United States in 1931 when Charles Sydam Cutting, who had visited Tibet, brought back with him what was the original stock for the breed in this country. He continued a friendship with the Dalai Lama by correspondence, and by additional trips to Tibet, and as a result additional breeding stock was sent to him from time to time at his Hamilton Farm in New Jersey.

The Lhasa Apso is a controversial dog in this country.

Purists, including Mrs. Solmonson, insist that the true purebred Lhasa Apso in this country must trace its lineage back to Hamilton Farm stock as can her dogs. And they are concerned with the practice in this country of lumping together with the Lhasa Apso another dog, the Shih Tzu from China, as a single breed.

These experts agree that very likely the two breeds did have a common ancestor once. But they insist that they are now two distinct and separate breeds, and decry the failure of American dog shows to make the distinction that is made in England.

Mrs. Solmonson says the "mixup" all came about this way:

WHEREAS IN England the Lhasa Apsos and the Shih Tzus were both recognized and registered as separate breeds, in this country only the Lhasa Apsos were recognized. And then the first Shih Tzus were brought to this country. The owners of these dogs faced a problem in registering their animals with the American Kennel Club, since the organization did not at the time recognize the Shih Tzu breed. The owners solved their problem, according to Mrs. Solmonson, by representing their dogs as Lhasa Apsos and registering them as such with the AKC.

"The error made at that time has never been corrected," she adds.

The result is that the same dog is sometimes registered in this country as a Lhasa Apso and in England as a Shih Tzu.

The situation was further complicated when the Shih Tzus brought to this country were bred with other Shih Tzus and with Lhasas, and the get registered as Lhasas and sold on that basis.

A cancellation of registrations to clear up the matter, AKC officials have maintained, would be unfair to the people who have acquired these registered dogs in good faith.

The Lhasa Apso and the Shih Tzu have similar long coats. But the Lhasa Apso is narrower of skull and longer of nose than the flatter-faced Shih Tzu, and on the whole has a more terrier-like appearance.

The Lhasa Apso enthusiasts are still battling for separate designation and judging of the two dogs.

The Chinese, incidentally, call the Shih Tzu the "Tibetan Lion Dog" and often clipped them to look like a lion. They were bred in the Imperial Palace at Peking along with the Pekingese or true Chinese Lion Dog.

Lhasa Apso bitches also differ from the Shih Tzu in that they have smaller litters, these experts say. Mrs. Solmonson's Gozel—Tibetan for "Loveliest"—has had two litters, the first a single puppy, the second three lively youngsters. Two of the new pups were sold to proud new out-of-county owners.

CHRISTMAS DAY the third puppy left the Solmonson home, purchased by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barry Jr. of Kent Woodlands as a pet for their three children, leaving Mrs. Solmonson with only Gozel and her male dog, Yak-Son, for the present.

Mrs. Solmonson estimates that there are "less than 10" of the "true Lhasa Apsos" in all of Marin County.

They remain one of the most difficult dogs to obtain. But Mrs. Solmonson is convinced that they are well worth the effort.

"They have made of me not only an admirer of the breed, but also a lover of and worker for all animals," she says. She is active in the work of the Marin County Humane Society, and it is at her Grand Avenue home that the society will hold its 1961 spring fund-raising event — a silent auction.

Mrs. Solmonson says the dogs are "very clean" and quick to show appreciation when petted.

"To get the most from these dogs one must make a lot of them, and they will respond well," she says. "To anyone they trust, they are most obedient. And their beautiful dark eyes look so appealing as they wait for some show of thanks for their efforts."

The crude manner by which the dogs are bred by the Tibetans is probably responsible for the fact that colors are not fixed. Thus, if a black and white dog is bred with a honey colored bitch, the result may be a brown or a brown and white pup.

The two original dogs brought to this country by Cutting were a black and white male, Taikoo, and a female "the color of raw silk," Dinkie. Both were beautiful specimens of the breed. And from them have come offspring in these colors: black and white, grizzle and white, honey colored, golden, and brown and white.

Experts say that under the influence of more scientific western breeding, the colors will become more certain.

THE DOGS, however, have not lost their special abilities as watch dogs, nor their hardy natures.

Owners, Mrs. Solmonson says, are wise if they continue to develop these points of special merit in their pets.

Mrs. Solmonson's husband, Julian K., an executive who recently sold his business in San Francisco, is an admirer of the Lhasa Apso. But the dogs are the property and the responsibility of his wife. And, she says, it is a most pleasant responsibility.

"They have such personalities that they seem almost like people," she explains. "They have every attribute you would want and expect in a good friend."

The Lhasa Apso may not be sacred in their native Tibet. But at 1616 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, they are regarded as something pretty special.

THE LAST OF a litter of three puppies, this youngster was still making his home with his parents and their mistress, Mrs. Doris Solmonson, when this photo was taken. But Christmas Day he moved to a new setting, and a happy life as a children's pet.

AND HERE THE puppy is in his new home with his new owners—the children of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barry Jr. of Kent Woodlands. The Barrys purchased the puppy as a Christmas gift for their three daughters, left to right, Jennifer, 8, Elizabeth, 12, and Victoria, 5. The children, disregarding the custom of giving Lhasa Apsos Far Eastern names, promptly named their new pet Buttons.

OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD testified before the Senate Military Affairs Committee in opposition to compulsory military education in 1940—just one of the many such causes in which he was interested. Photo is from the Syracuse University Press book, "Oswald Garrison Villard, Liberal of the 1920s."

BOOK REVIEWS

Story Of A Fighting Liberal During Period Of Conformity

OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD, LIBERAL OF THE 1920S by Joy Hume, Syracuse University Press, 276 pages, $4.50. Reviews by Don Keown.

Oswald Garrison Villard was one of our true giants of journalism, a man dedicated to principles and to public service.

A descendant of the famed abolitionist editor William Lloyd Garrison, he was equally articulate and just as uncompromising in his espousal of latter day causes of liberalism. Indeed it was a mere handful of men and women of Villard's courageous ilk that was responsible for keeping dissent alive in this country in the 1920s, a period when non-conformity was under even stronger assault than it is today.

Villard is best identified in the public mind as the editor for a number of years of that lively and outspoken liberal journal, The Nation.

He was also at one time the publisher of the New York Evening Post. And both in his publications and in his private life he threw himself wholeheartedly into causes in which he believed.

He hated war and was strongly anti-militaristic. He fought what he regarded to be social injustices whether they be the oppression of racial and religious minorities, or abuses of labor by its bosses. He was a vigorous exponent of liberty and independence for all peoples around the world.

Not even his fellow liberals saw eye to eye with Villard on all issues. Many, for instance, deplored his opposition to the League of Nations. But these liberals, and most conservatives as well, admired his courage and respected his foresight. And, though a member of a hard-pressed political minority, he was nevertheless an influential figure of his time.

D. Joy Hume, an assistant professor of history and government at Wells College, tells her story well. And the result is a most interesting, most enlightening book.

It is part of Syracuse University's "Men and Movements" series which also includes books on Henry A. Wallace, Gifford Pinchot and Norman Thomas. All led minority movements which were rejected in their day. But they also must be credited with causing major changes in the American political and social course. As such, they are deserving of the scholarly yet sympathetic treatment they are being accorded by the authors of these books.

NAVAL BATTLES AND HEROES by Wilbur Cross, American Heritage Publishing Co., 152 pages, $3.50.

In the tradition of its five predecessors, here is another beautifully done book in the American Heritage Junior Library series.

It covers the history of our Navy from the tiny fleet sent out by the Continental Congress in 1775 to the great Pacific fleets of World War II—and then takes a forward peek at the nuclear ships we will see in the 1960s. And it does its job well, with a lively, interesting and historically authentic text, and with marvelous color illustrations.

It is aimed at the child 10 and older. And we can think of no better way of stimulating an interest in American history among our youngsters than placing these Heritage series books in their hands.

THE UNCONSCIOUS by J. P. Chaplin, Ballantine Books, 194 pages, 50 cents.

This is an utterly fascinating little paperback by J. P. Chaplin, chairman of the department of psychology at the University of Vermont. In its probe into the irrational motivations in human behavior and into man's hidden fears and desires, it employs the scientific method and manner, but utilizes language easily understood by the layman.

Self-Taught Painter Shows At De Young

A current exhibition of primitive oils at the M. H. De Young Museum in San Francisco represents but one facet of versatile Peggy Tolk-Watkins of Sausalito.

Until quite recently her painting was only one of several hobbies that were sandwiched in between busy careers as a social worker, a teacher, a writer of children's books, a business woman, and a housewife.

But in recent years she has become more and more identified in California as a painter.

And the current show, which will continue at De Young through Jan. 29, her first public exhibition, is indicative of her steady gain in prestige in art circles.

HER PROGRESS has been all the more remarkable in that she is that rarity—a completely self-taught artist.

She was born and brought up in New York City where she studied photography with Arnold Eagle under a National Youth Administration project, winning a third prize for a health poster that was subsequently used by the City of New York.

Though she had no formal art training, she began working with underprivileged children as an arts and crafts supervisor, primarily in New York's Lower East Side settlement houses. There she directed the children in the construction of stage sets, various craft projects and painting. During World War II she taught children in all eight war housing projects in Richmond under the supervision of Hazel Salmi, former director of the Richmond Art Cented.

At the end of the war she received a year's work scholarship from Black Mountain College in North Carolina where she studied not art but literature, though she conducted painting classes for faculty members' children and organized a children's class at the Negro Baptist Church in Asheville, N. C.

In 1948 she returned to the Bay Area and opened The Tin Angel on Sausalito's waterfront. It soon became a gathering place for well-known jazz musicians and folk singers. She sold The Tin Angel in 1952 and spent a year traveling in Europe with her young son. In 1953 she returned to San Francisco and opened her second Tin Angel on the Embarcadero, and a year later The Fallen Angel. Both were successful nightclubs.

IN HER PAINTINGS she depicts animals and flowers—all highly imaginative. One entitled "Elephant and Orange Moon Walking" was reproduced as a cover of a record album of Paul Desmond, saxophonist with Dave Brubeck for Fantasy Records. The cover was described on the back as "representing the first serious attempt to fuse primitive art with modern jazz."

Since the sale of her third business undertaking, the Embarcadero Tin Angel to another Marinite, Kid Ory, who had often performed there, she has devoted her entire time to painting.

STEREO NOTES

Two Les McCann Albums In The Soul Music Trend

By JOHN SUNIER

LES McCANN PLAYS THE TRUTH—Pacific Jazz Stereo-2—The biggest trend in jazz today is toward a feeling called "soul." If you've got Soul, man you're in. One record company advertises, "We got more Soul Music than anybody else."

Basically, Soul is a renewed interest in the blues and gospel-music roots of jazz. The groups achieving the most pronounced gospel feeling might be dubbed "Saved Souls."

But enough preliminaries. Les McCann seems to be following in the footsteps of Bobby Timmons, another young Soul pianist, who, although good in small doses, hasn't enough just yet to adequately fill an entire album. The McCann blues and stomp keyboard soon get a little boring, although it must be said it really swings. One suspects all the swinging is not solely McCann's work, but the creation of that fine bassist, Leroy Vinnegar. Ron Jefferson on drums completes the group.

The "inspirational music" tenor of the album is reflected in "A Little ¾ for God and Co," and "Fish This Week But Next Week Chitlings."

On IT'S ABOUT TIME—Pacific Jazz Stereo 6—Les, Leroy and Ron are joined by the thoroughly experienced tenor man Teddy Edwards. Perhaps if I'd heard this disc a month after the first, I wouldn't feel bored by the whole thing. But frankly, "Blues Conjumations" was the only track I liked, and that proved nothing new. Teddy Edwards hasn't been recorded in solo much, but this isn't the best way to start.

Stereo engineering on both albums is excellent, with the performers remaining in the same places through all tracks, not switching positions with different numbers, as in some earlier stereo jazz.

ELLA IN BERLIN—MG VS-64041—Verve Records—

The Ella Fitzgerald disc is the LP from which the "Mack the Knife" single was taken. It's a subject of disagreement whether Ella really didn't know the lyrics and thus substituted her own, or whether she felt the lyrics, taken out of context from Weill's "Three-Penny Opera," were in poor taste and substituted her own satirical ones. Either way, it's a gasser.

The German audience of almost 12,000 loved Ella, as her audiences always do, and their reaction spurred her to new heights, as witness the fantastic scatting on "How High the Moon."

MARIN POETS' CORNER

RESOLUTIONS

My resolutions are but few;
I trust they are sincere.
I realize not one is new,
Yet I will list them here:
To always do to others
As I would they do to me;
To never say an unkind word
Of friend, or enemy;
To each day say a little prayer
That I may better grow;
To do my best at any task
In every way I know;
To freely give of charity,
Yet not my friends forsake.
—To try each day to keep these vows
I took the time to make!

The People Who Bring Good Theater To Children Of Marin

By NANCY WISE

Fifteen years ago professional theater was introduced to the children of Marin County.

It was the outgrowth of an afternoon teatime conversation at the Kentfield home of Mrs. Robert Hobart which had led to the organization of the "Children's Little Theater Group of Marin County."

A month later "Hansel and Gretel," produced by the San Francisco Opera Company, was presented for 3,500 children at Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael. This demonstration of interest encouraged a large and active group of women to continue the development of children's theater in Marin. Not only did Children's Theater, as the organization was then known, bring professional drama to the young people of the county, but it also organized workshops that served as many as a thousand youngsters at one time.

TWO HUNDRED volunteer women worked in the establishment of the workshop program.

When teen-agers showed an interest in joining, the name of the program was changed from Children's Theater to Junior Theater of Marin County. Today there are four units of Junior Theater—Ross-Kentfield-Greenbrae, Fairfax, Sleepy Hollow and Belvedere-Tiburon.

County-wide Junior Theater, whose president is Mrs. James Heynemann of Belvedere, sponsors the Ballet Aquacade, a June affair which raises funds to finance the summer workshops for the four units.

The winter program is also coordinated through the county-wide Junior Theater, with the individual units distributing season tickets through the schools.

This year's winter series opens next Saturday with "Cinderella," to be followed by "Magic" on Feb. 11, "Gretchen and the Lonely Goblin" on April 1, "Puss and Boots" on April 15, and "Pinocchio" on May 13.

The "Cinderella" productiton is by Mrs. Martha Bigelow Eliot's San Francisco Players Guild. A witty version of the fairy tale by Alice Duer Miller has been selected. Sets and costumes were suggested by Constantin Alajalov's illustrations of Mrs. Miller's poem.

The cast for next Saturday's performances will include Nancy DeFoe as Cinderella, Jacques Denbeaux as Prince Fortune and as the coachman, Alice Perry as the stepmother, Sally Sherman and Abby Wasserman as the step-sisters, John Brebner as the Duke of Belgrade, and Charmion St. John as the fairy godmother.

BREBNER IS the technical director, Sybil Siegel the scene designer. Ann Brebner planned the lighting and Beatrix Perry designed the costumes.

As are all the Junior Theater winter plays, "Cinderella" will be presented in the San Rafael High School auditorium. There will be two performances—the first at 10:30 a.m., the second at 2 p.m.

Junior Theater officers for 1960-61 in addition to Mrs. Heynemann are Mrs. Wallace C. Painter, vice-president; Mrs. Donald F. Berg, treasurer; Mrs. C. Van Vliet, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Walter Noll, recording secretary.

THE STEPMOTHER and the villainous step-sisters are all dressed up for the ball, but their finery doesn't seem to have helped them much. Left to right are Sally Sherman Taylor, Alice Perry and Abby Wasserman. There will be two presentations of "Cinderella" starting at 10:30 a.m. and at 2 p.m. (Du Charme Studio photos)

In a few hours the year 1960 will be part of history and we will be ushering in the New Year. During 1960 many of you have given us the privilege of adding a fine music system to your home. We, at Catania Sound, wish our Old Friends and our New Friends a year full of musical pleasure.

Progress in 1961 will continue to add to our listening pleasure. Possibly by spring or early summer, stereophonic broadcasts by FM multiplexing techniques will be an everyday reality. Undoubtedly the surfaces of records will be improved to lessen the surface noise and wear. Stereophonic records will approach more exactly the concert hall realism.

New stereophonic recording techniques may make loudspeaker placement in our homes less critical. And, of course, 1961 will bring its crop of Broadway musicals, new symphonies, and new vocalists and orchestras to increase our libraries of good music.

May all of your problems in the coming year be whisked away by music.

Caulking Can Cut Heat Cost

Caulking compounds are used to prevent rain and wind from entering your home through gaps that occur chiefly where two dissimilar materials meet.

Typical places were water seepage may be prevented by caulking are around doors and windows, roof joints between masonry blocks whether the building be frame, brick, or masonry. Other points where caulking should be used are floor-wall junctions and wood column-floor junctions.

A properly caulked home in winter will conserve heat by keeping out cold air thus helping to hold the heating bill down. Some points to check in insulating a home properly are gaps between rough attic floors and chimneys; around electric conduits passing through floor and walls; and around outlet boxes.

Caulking compound is a uniform blend of pigments, oils and thinners which result in a semisolid that remains plastic to the touch. They should not be thinned.

PROPER SURFACE preparation and application are essential to a good caulking job. Surfaces should be clean, dry, free of dust, moisture, grease and with sufficient space provided so that adequate caulking can be installed.

Caulking should not be applied when the temeprature is below 40 degrees. Joints deeper than five-eighths inch should be filled with oakum prior to caulking. While caulking does not need to be painted, paint industry research proves that its useful life can be extended by a normal painting maintenance program similar to that given the exteriors of an average building.

There are three types of caulking compound depending on use: Gun grade, Knife grade, Rope form. Gun grade, as its name implies, is designed for application by a "gun." Caulking of the gun type is packaged in cans and in cartridges or plastic bags which fit a caulking gun.

In estimating the quantity of compound needed for a job, a rough approximation would be 10 to 15 linear feet per cartridge (one-tenth gallon). The most common colors are white, natural, off white and grey.

In applying gun caulk, hold the gun at about a 45 degree angle to the surface. Also, hold the gun in the same plane as the crevice you are filling—not at right angles. All joints or beads of caulking should be at least three-eighths inch deep. A generous bead of caulking will last longer than a small bead.

TWO TYPES OF guns are available. In one type the cylinder is loaded with the bulk compound from its container. The second type which has more appeal to the occasional user, accepts a cartridge packed by the manufacturer. You just drop the cartridge in the gun and squeeze the trigger. Soiling and cleaning up are avoided.

Rope caulking, which is available in several dimensions, is best used for temporary or permanent protection against drafts, moisture and dust around windows, screens, louvres and miscellaneous points in the home; also around hatches, windshields, cabins and masts on a boat.

Rope caulking is ideal as a temporary seal because it can be easily removed. No tools are needed for its application. You take the caulking rope and press it firmly into the crack with the fingers.

The knife grade is applied by a putty knife or spatula. It is particularly adaptable to medium-sized cracks or crevices.

If you are using caulking for small boats, be sure to ask for Marine Caulking Compound.

These Helpful Hints Simplify Task Of Hanging Wallpaper

Hanging wallpaper is not difficult, and here are a few tips to make it even easier.

1. Be sure to apply a coat of primer-sealer to plasterboard walls before papering. Or you can use cut shellac to which you add an equal part of alcohol. This coating makes it possible to remove the paper in the future without damaging the plasterboard. After the primer-sealer or shellac a coat of glue size should be applied.

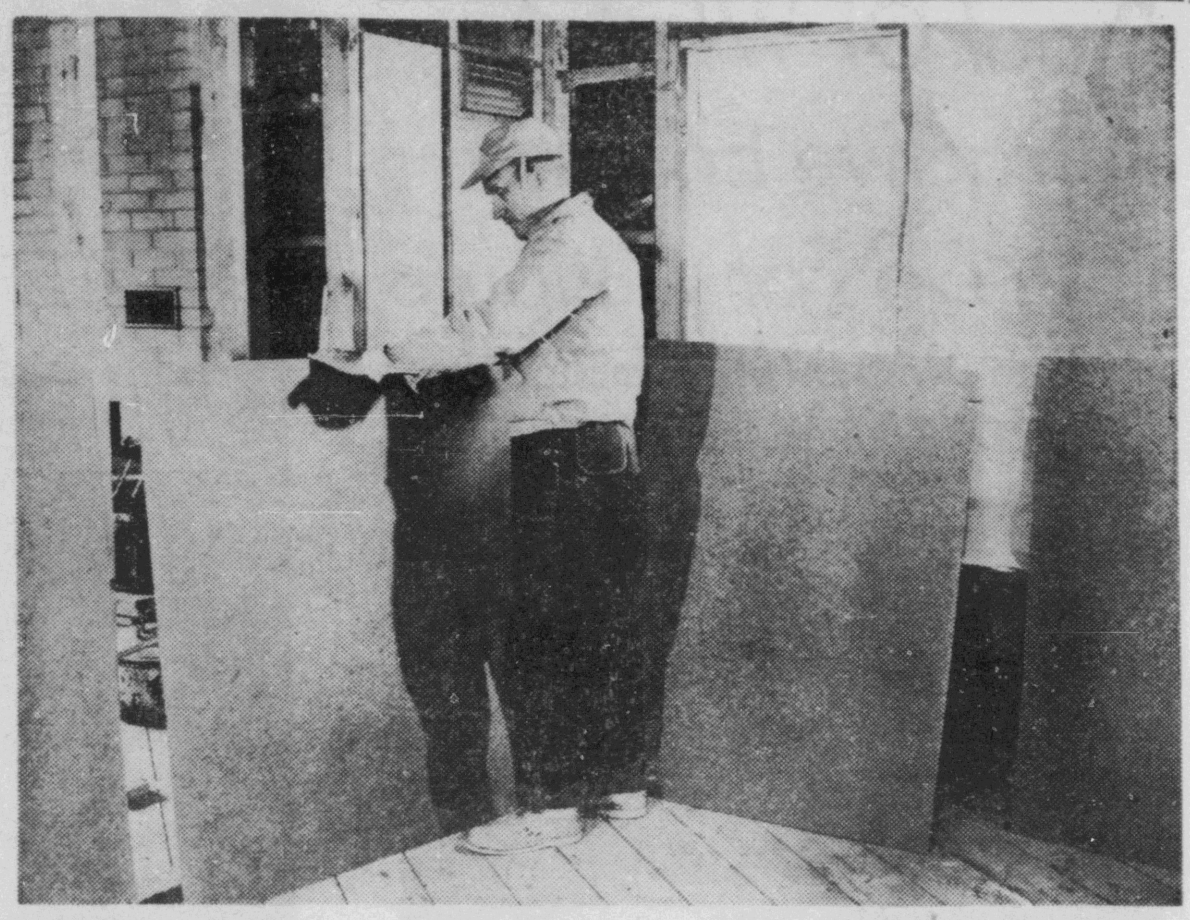
2. In papering over wall cloth, wash with a solution of either strong soap or ammonia and water in order to cut the gloss finish. Then apply glue size and allow to dry for an hour or two before hanging.

3. In papering over existing wallpaper, be sure that the old wallpaper is tight to the wall. If it is loose in spots, remove the old paper. It is also best to remove old wallpaper where the seams have been lapped since the old seams will show under the new wallpaper.

4. Most wallpapers sold today have had the selvage trimmed off at the factory. If not, the dealer will trim the papers for you at a nominal charge, thus eliminating the need for a cutting table and straightedge. A kitchen table or two card tables, covered with wrapping paper, will work well for matching and pasting strips.

5. Do not worry about getting paste on the pattern side when you buy trimmed wallpaper since it can be washed off after hanging.

BEFORE applying hardboard underlay panels to a floor, make sure that floor is clean. The panels will bridge small gaps and irregularities in the sub-floor. If there are irregularities over large areas, high spots should be sanded and sunken spots should be filled to provide a solid base. Be certain all nails holding sub-floors are driven flush.



HARDBOARD underlayment panels should be "conditioned" before application. If atmospheric conditions are close to normal, stand panels separately and on edge around the room for at least 24 hours before application. This permits panels to stabilize. If room is abnormally damp due to wet plaster, wet concrete, or some other temporary condition, wait for room to dry out before applying the panels.

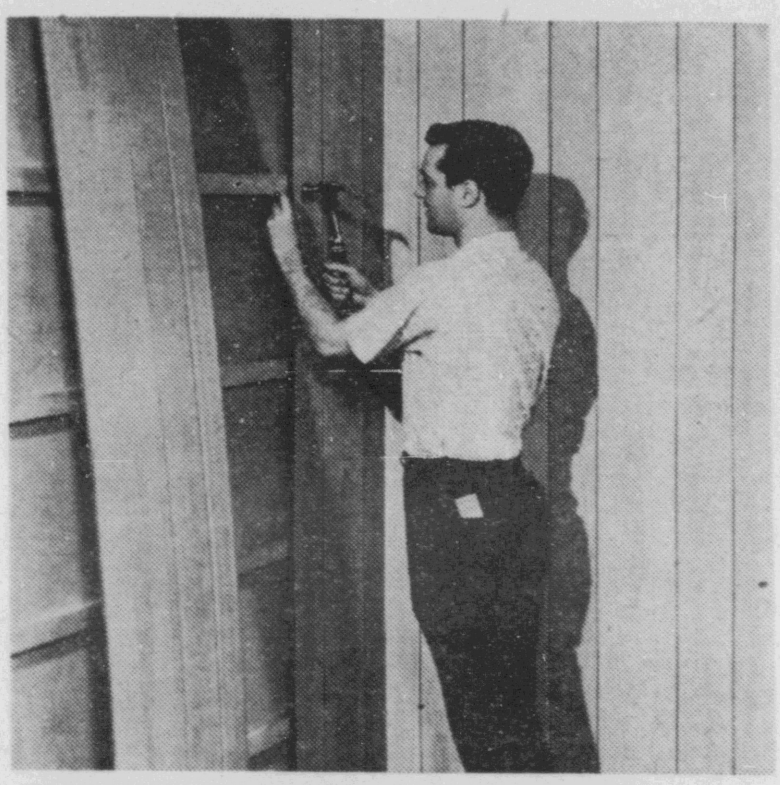
INSTALLATION of the underlayment starts at one corner of the room. Nail from the center of panel out to edges with nails not more than six inches apart. Nailheads should be flush with the floor surface.



AVAILABLE in conveniently-sized four-by-eight-foot panels, hardboard is easy to work with. The do-it-yourselfer needs only hammer, saw and a plane to do the job quickly and efficiently. Once up, hardboard is simple to maintain. A whisk of damp cloth wipes off dirt and smudges. Many hardboard panels are prefinished, needing no additional work once they are applied to the wall surface. Others require a coat of clear sealer, lacquer or wax to maintain a beautiful finish for years.

IN THE GARAGE

Hardboard Can Work Magic

The average suburban garage has an extremely cluttered appearance.

The biggest problem is where to park the family automobile once the lawn mower, seed spreader, rakes, hoes, shovels and other garden tools have used up garage storage space.

Actually, there is a solution to this perplexing problem: Panels of perforated hardboard. Easy to apply to any garage wall, the panels are strong enough to support even the heaviest of summer tools.

Hooks, which can be purchased at any hardware store or lumber dealer, are inserted into the perforations in the hardboard, thus getting the garden tools off the garage floor and out-of-the-way of the family car. Another advantage of perforated hardboard is that tools can be placed on the wall to adjust for the needs of the six foot man-of-the-house and his five-foot wife moving the holding hooks up or down a hole or two.

Perforated hardboard is available in a variety of thicknesses and surface finishes, including the new, luxurious-looking wood grains. To add a touch of color to an otherwise drab-looking area, economical hardboard can be purchased in its regular brownish color and painted in bright, colorful hues.

By using hardboard as decorative paneling along the walls in addition to its more useful purposes, home owners by simply opening the garage doors can stage all-weather, indoor-outdoor parties. Add a few decorative touches to set off the bright perforated hardboard panels and, like magic, a garage can be transformed into an exterior recreation room.

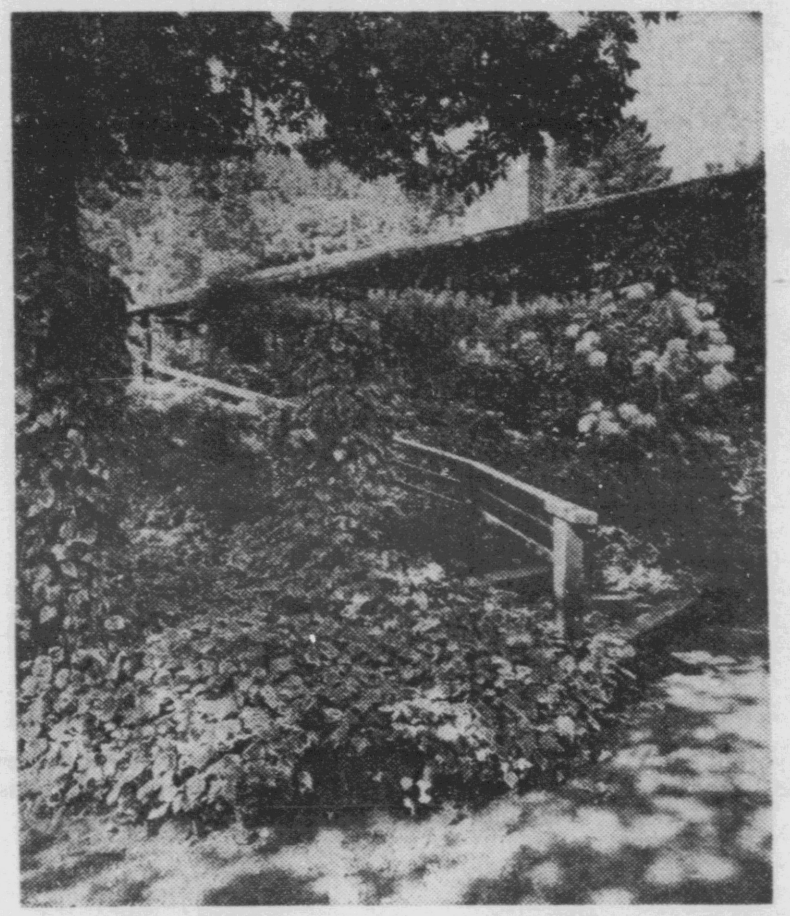
Proof Of What An Attractive Entrance Can Do For A Home

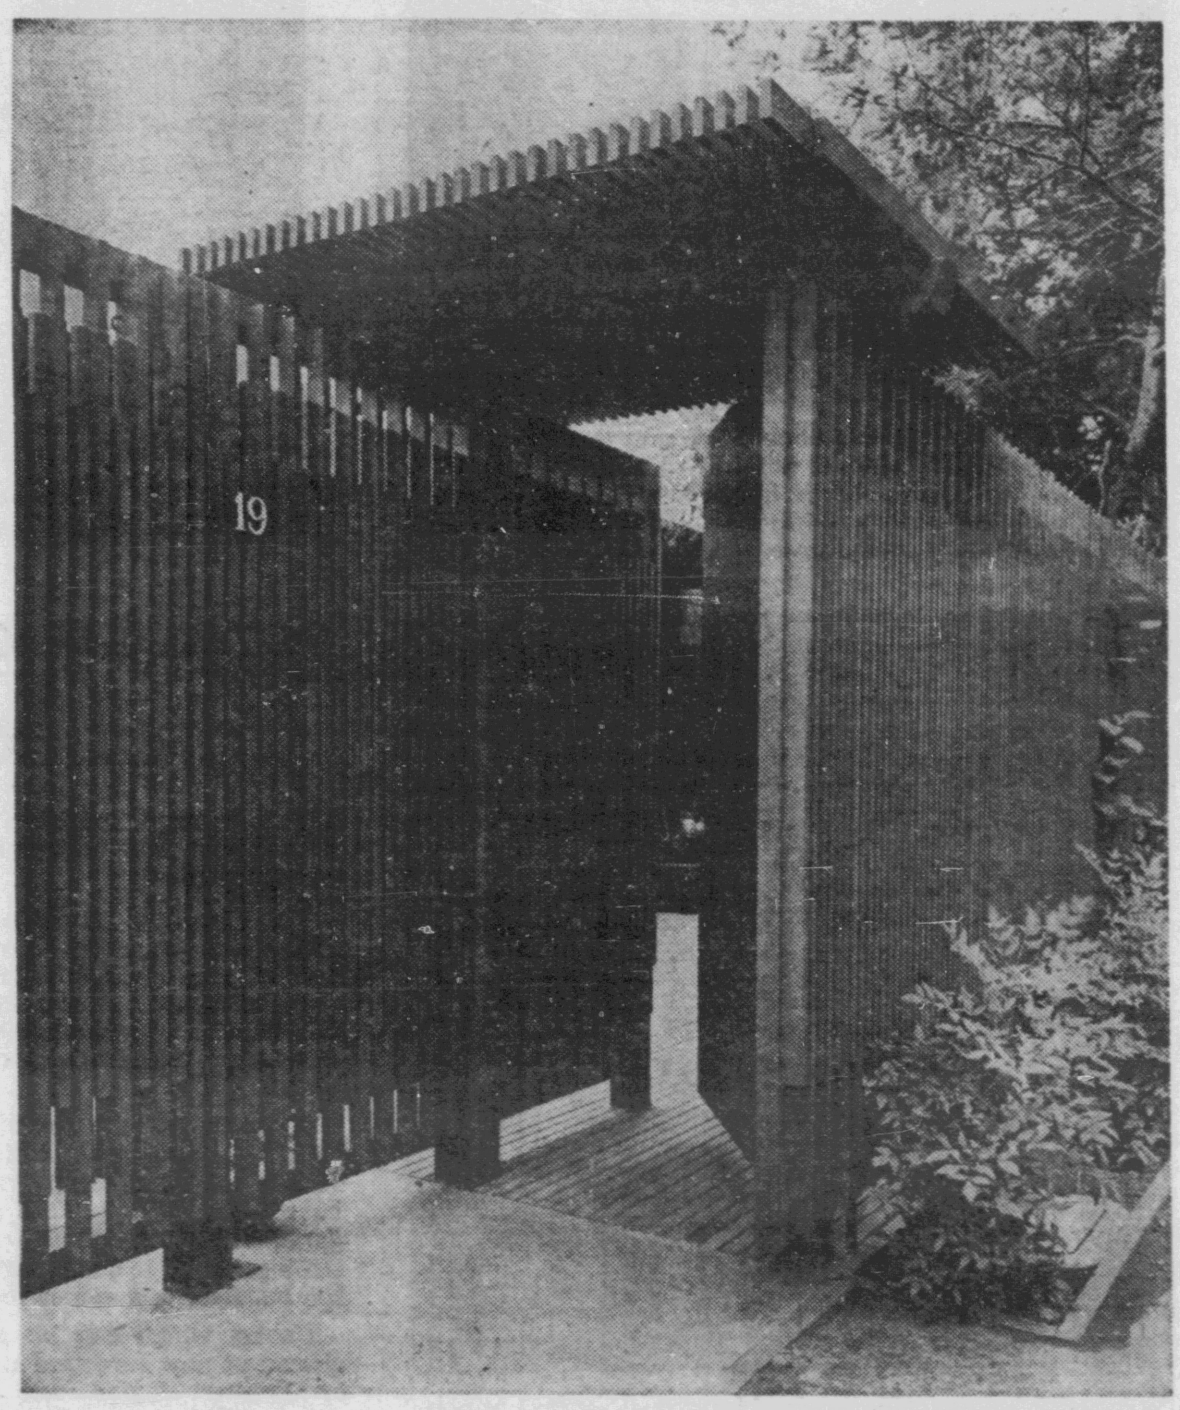
Three Different Approaches To This Challenge Are Shown Here

ANOTHER VIEW of the John Berryman home in the Reedlands shows how the garden, the walk, and the screening fence all serve to complement the house itself.



THE RUSTIC FRONT entrance to the Ralph Alden home in Ross features railroad tie steps and retaining walls. A profusion of Algerian Ivy, Juniper and Hydrangeas add to the charm.

THE ENTRANCE GARDEN to the John Berryman home in the Reedlands, Mill Valley, has been given an attractive oriental feeling by landscape architect Robert Graves and the contractors, Cagwin and Dorward. And the fence screens the entire area from the street to provide privacy.



THE WILLIAM TSUCHIDA home in Belvedere, built on a steep lot but placed at the same level and very close to the street, dictated a complete screening from the street. Landscape architects Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes and landscape contractors Cagwin and Dorward solved the problem with this screen which is not only highly effective, but also a thing of beauty. Now's The Time For Gardeners To Vow To Do Better In 1961

If for no other reason, we should welcome the end of a calendar year as a point in time from which to start anew. And this holds just as true for the gardener as for any other sinner.

While chalking up your year-end list of regrets and proposed resolutions, think back through your garden year and let your conscience be your guide. We bet there isn't one gardener in 10 who feels he couldn't have improved on things.

Let's look at our lawns, for instance:

Do they reflect the loving care of a head greenskeeper, or do they look more like the rough beyond a fairway? Make a note to indicate just what you think went wrong and resolve to do something about it in 1961.

Did your roses look as fresh and full in fall as they did in spring? Or did they reflect a certain neglect? Perhaps you forgot to follow your planned spray schedule or failed to feed them or mulch around them. Be objective and list your shortcomings as a rose gardener.

And that front parkway—did weeds get out of hand because you put off planting a ground cover that might have choked them out? Did the parking strip detract from an otherwise pleasant approach to your house?

One of the most important things you can do at year's end is to take your checklist in hand and sally forth into the garden. There, in the zealous spirit of reform, write down all you see that could be improved in 1961. This will include uprooting worn out or overgrown plant material, rearranging plant beds, moving shrubs and planning new plantings.

You may not accomplish half of what you firmly resolve to do. But you are at least setting yourself a goal, and gardening will be more exciting because of it.

HERE'S THE KIND of root system a home gardener should expect when buying rose plants. Note balance between size of root system and size of plant. Such a balance provides the plant with a "head start" toward a long life. The demonstrator is John A. Armstrong Jr. of Armstrong Nurseries Inc., Ontario.

The Many Camellia Varieties Keep Their Growers Happy

Barring roses, there's no garden favorite you can name that offers more faces to the public than a Camellia.

There are well over a thousand different varieties in the world. You can find them in every size and shape.

With such a selection, it's inevitable that the cult of Camellia fanciers is large. And it's further inevitable that new varieties are ever being introduced to keep the cultists happy. The result, of course, is a wonderful world of plenty for the home gardener.

In recent years, the seekers of Camellia perfection have established the All-America Camellia selections. And if you are looking for a favorite variety you would do well to start with them. California nurserymen are now offering two new All-America Camelias —King's Ransom and Bonnie Marie.

King's Ransom is a luscious big pink Camellia of the japonica class. Bonnie Marie is a silvery-pink new hybrid.

Looking backwards at other All-America selections, we find some good ones—Sparkling Burgundy, that effervescent wine-colored sasanqua with the japonica-sized blooms; Sweetheart, a lovely formal japonica in rich pink: Buddha, a rose-pink reticulata with all the size and grandeur of that species; and Cinderella, a large rosy-pink japonica with white shadings.

The gardener should not assume, however, that only All-America Camellias are worth growing. The list of other beautiful Camellias is longer than your arm.

The thing to do is to keep an eye on your nursery's selection during the coming few months. As the blooming season unfolds, one good Camellia after another will lure you. And while you can't grow them all, you'll want to, we guarantee.

SCARLET BEAUTY is a new W. Atlee Burpee Co. Aster with a new color—a sparkling cerise-scarlet. It's a large, American-beauty type, and is ideal for borders and for cutting.

ROSES

There's No Mystery To Planting

Ask six rosarians how to prune a rose and you might get half a dozen different answers. But ask them how to plant one and you'll find little disagreement.

Rose planting is an all-important step; but there is nothing mysterious about it, nothing at all.

The first and foremost thing to remember is that roses like a sunny spot and a good workable soil, rich in nutrients and properly drained. Where these are present when the rose is planted, it will thrive during its life. And where they are lacking, no amount of future care will ever make up for it.

IT BEHOOVES the gardener, therefore, to supply these ingredients in his proposed rose garden. The soil should be worked deeply — mixed with humus, steer manure and/or one of the planting mixes you find in a nurseryman's showroom. Deep cultivation can't be over-emphasized, and even a good garden soil should be turned deeply before planting a rose in it.

Addition of bonemeal will supply nutrients.

This done, you are ready to select bareroot stock from the local nursery. Here your effort should be directed toward moving a rose from nursery to permanent planting site without delay. The less time it is exposed to the air, the happier it will be.

INSPECT EACH rose shrub as you plant it. If one of the roots is broken use a sharp pair of shears and snip it off above the break. Next, assuming you have already dug your planting hole, mound a pyramid of loam in the bottom and set the rose on top of it. The pyramid should be tall enough to hold the rose's bud union (that swelling from which the canes grow) at least an inch above the final soil level.

Holding the bush steady, fill in around the roots with soil, water and add more soil, then firm it with your heel. A basin to hold water should be fashioned and filled to settle everything and after that you sit back, await results. You'll get them.

But remember — roses are heavy feeders and should be fed with a good rose fertilizer after growth begins in spring and regularly during the growing season.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Plant deciduous fruit trees in January. Also grapes, cane berries and strawberries.
- Plant flowering quince for some delightful early color. A hedge of quince makes a thorny and impassable boundary.
- Roses that are not planted the day they are purchased should have their roots covered with moist soil.
- Beware of collecting your own leaf mold. You may be collecting a sackful of trouble from oak root fungus at the same time.
- If you haven't already, prune roses in January. At the same time strip off any remaining leaves that have not fallen of their own accord. Clean up fallen leaves around roses.

Camellias Thrive Cramped In Tub

Camellias, like few flowering shrubs, will live happily for years with their roots cramped into a tub. They seem, if anything, happier for this discomfiture than not.

Therefore, it is wise for the gardener to choose a durable container when planting a camellia this way, figuring that he won't have to move it up to a size larger for a long time. There are reports of 100-year-old camellias still thriving in two-foot square planter boxes.

Prune Geraniums

Geraniums grow like weeds in California, but that doesn't mean the gardener should treat them as such. Leave them unpruned year after year and they will soon look like weeds. Prune them back drastically to two or three buds above the ground level. They will put forth lush new growth and look better than ever by summer.

An Event Which Cries For Color: The Tournament Of Roses Parade

EASTMAN KODAK reports that more color film is processed on the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade than on any other single event.

This is hardly surprising, since the parade is the kind of spectacle which is tailor-made for color—including the television coverage.

NBC-TV will oblige for the seventh straight year with a colorcast of Monday's parade beginning at 8:45 a. m. on KRON-TV (Channel 4). If your set forces you to settle for black and white, you may prefer the ABC-TV coverage which will also get under way at 8:45 over KGO-TV (Channel 7).

Both networks will carry parade previews beginning 15 minutes earlier.

Handling the commentary for the ABC will be the team of Bob Cummings and Bess Myerson. Betty White and Roy Neal will do the honors for NBC.

Regardless of whether you are able to take advantage of the NBC color coverage, it should be a spectacle well worth the viewing. Sixty flowered floats, 20 smart marching bands, 200 thoroughbred horses, more than 1,200 colorfully clad participants including a host of Hollywood celebrities, and, of course, the beautiful queen and her court will be included in the passing pageantry.

And climbing out of bed to watch the parade should be less of an ordeal this year. You'll have all of Sunday to recuperate from seeing the New Year in.

JUST AS closely associated with the New Year's holiday as the big parade are the bowl football games. This year all four of the big ones will be played on Monday.

CBS-TV will lead off with the Orange Bowl game from Miami (Missouri vs. Navy) beginning at 9:45 a. m. on KPIX-TV (Channel 5), and follow that with the Cotton Bowl tilt from Dallas which pits Arkansas against Duke.

NBC will cover the Sugar Bowl game from New Orleans (Mississippi vs. Rice) starting at 10:45 a. m. on KRON. And then at 1:45 p. m. the same network and the same station will bring you the biggest of them all — the Rose Bowl classic from Pasadena, Washington vs. Minnesota.

The weekend is going to be a tremendous one for sports filberts. Already today television has brought them three big football contests—the San Francisco East-West Shrine Game, the Blue-Gray Game, and the Gator Bowl game.

Tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. KGO will carry the American Football League pro championship game between the Houston Oilers and the Los Angeles Chargers from Houston.

Tonight at 7, in place of the usual Saturday night fights, KGO will be showing the second half of the title game in the annual Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament from Madison Square Garden.

And for a real change of pace, KPIX will feature boat racing including the Sid Street Memorial for 266-cubic-inch hydroplanes and the Grand Prix open for all limited racing hydroplanes when it brings you CBS's coverage of the Orange Bowl Regatta from Miami's Biscayne Bay tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Nor is the end in sight. There is yet another heavy schedule of sports coming up next weekend including two Saturday football games — a pro clash between the two National Football League divisional runners-up, Cleveland and Detroit, on KPIX, and the Senior Bowl game from Mobile on KRON; and, on KGO, the first of a series of Saturday afternoon college basketball games, this one between Kentucky and Georgia Tech.

AS FOR New Year's Eve on television, video isn't planning much in the way of special programming tonight. NBC is covering the always roaring welcome to the New Year from New York's Times Square, but KRON isn't going to carry the show.

So the only programs qualifying as New Year's Eve specials are:

A dance party for teenagers to be hosted by San Rafael's Dick Stewart on KPIX starting at 11:15 p. m. Originally it was planned to feature Stewart's band and vocalist Bobbie Norris, but the signals have been changed and the music will now be restricted to recordings. The "bash" will last until 1:15 a. m.

And an ABC network show to be seen on KGO at 10:30 p.m. entitled "Music for a New Year's Eve" and featuring Kitty Carlisle and a number of other singers and dancers.

ALSO WORTHY of your attention during the coming week:

Sunday: An hour-long March of Dimes campaign kickoff show entitled "What About Linda" and featuring a host of top entertainment names which will be seen during the day on all four Bay Area stations; the world premiere of a new American Opera, "Deseret," by Leonard Kastle on KRON at 3 p. m.; an "Omnibus" show previewing the new Lincoln Center of Performing Arts in New York on KRON at 5 p. m.; and "The Will to Victory," an hour-long documentary based on Winston Churchill's memoirs, at 9:30 p. m. on KGO.

Tuesday: A repeat showing on the "Project 20" documentary, "The Twisted Cross," at 10 p. m. on KRON. It tells of Adolph Hitler's rise and fall.

Wednesday: The Morton Wishengrad drama, "The Rope Dancers" as the "Play of the Week" on KTVU-TV (Channel 2) at 8 p. m., and a probe of the black market baby racket on "Armstrong Circle Theater, KPIX, 10 p. m.

Thursday: An analysis of the electoral college system on KPIX at 10 p. m.

Friday: KQED-TV (Channel 9) will show a BBC version of Henrik Ibsen's "The Master Builder" as its "Drama Festival" offering at 8:30 p. m.; KRON will begin a new situation comedy series starring Nanette Fabray at 8:30; and Jose Iturbi, Renata Tebaldi and Shirley Jones will be the headliners in a "Bell Telephone Hour" musical on KRON at 9 p. m.

Kennedy Picks Negro To Head Homes Agency

Republican Gets Nation Security Affairs Position

PALM BEACH (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today selected the first Negro to a high-ranking position in the new administration.

He named Robert C. Weaver, nationally known housing expert and current chairman of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People to be administrator of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Standing in the sun-baked patio of Kennedy's oceanfront villa, Weaver, now a member of the Housing and Redevelopment Board of New York City, said he was a firm advocate of "open occupancy and non-discrimination" in all types of housing.

TELLS STAND

This was his answer when asked whether he favored a requirement that homes should be available for sale to Negroes before being eligible for federal mortgages.

The appointment of Republican McGeorge Bundy, brilliant Harvard scholar and dean, as Kennedy's special assistant in the field of national security affairs, also was announced.

The appointment ran into storm clouds from Kennedy's home state, however. Gov. Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts criticized the appointment and said the 41-year-old Harvard dean was "lacking in qualifications" for the post.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

At a news conference where Kennedy made the formal announcement of Weaver's appointment, there were these other new highlights:

Kennedy has asked Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the late president, to take a position in the new administration. The president-elect said, however, that Roosevelt has other obligations and will give Kennedy his answer in about a week.

He declined to comment on the report that Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver is under consideration of Secretary of the Army.

Laos Reports Red Invasion By North Viet Nam Troops

7 Units Reported Crossing Border

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Radio Vientiane reported today that Communist North Viet Nam troops had crossed into Laos in force, creating a situation so dangerous to peace that President Eisenhower called in state and defense department officials to discuss the crisis.

The Communist North Vietnamese news agency denied the invasion reports but boasted that two columns of Red Laotian forces under paratroop Capt. Kong Le were driving on the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang in heavy fighting.

ATTACK ON BORDER

Radio Vientiane, in the administrative capital of Laos, said seven battalions of Vietminh troops—upwards of 7,000 men—had attacked the border towns of Nong Het and Ban Ban in a region 115 miles southeast of Luang Prabang. It called it an "invasion."

Fragmentary diplomatic reports reaching Washington tended to support the invasion reports but American authorities warned that it was too early to say whether the operations across the border were of the magnitude reported by the pro-Western Laotian government.

NO OFFICIAL REPORTS

A Laotian government spokesman in New York said there was no immediate plan for Ambassador Sisouk Na Champassak to confer with United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold or to convene the Security Council. He indicated no official reports had been received.

North Viet Nam appeared to be setting the stage for a possible invasion despite its denials. It said troops from free South Viet Nam and Thailand had entered Laos and were fighting under command of American, Filipino and Thai officers.

WHAT A WAY TO START THE NEW YEAR!

$15,000 Blaze Hits Firm In Larkspur

The second fire within a week struck the three-business building in the 1100 block of Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur this morning.

The Paint Pot Decorating Studio, which is connected to Gaye-Larks Restaurant and Decorative Draperies, suffered damages estimated at $15,000. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

A $13,000 fire of undetermined origin ripped through the storeroom in back of the entire building Christmas Day.

The Larkspur Fire Department received the call this morning at 5:30 and had the blaze under control in fifteen minutes. Twenty men from the Larkspur Fire Department responded and the Kentfield Fire Department was on alert for possible help.

The flames damaged only the paint store, but the other two business concerns suffered water and smoke damage.

More than 1,500 feet of fire hose was used by the firemen in quelching the blaze. Five units responded from the Larkspur department.

Liquor Store Robber Takes Off With $305

A revolver-toting robber walked off with $305 last night from the Kirby and Yates Liquor Store at 457 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

John Guendner, 44., the clerk on duty, said a slender young man pointed the revolver at him, handed him a paper sack, and said, "Put all the folding money from the till in the bag."

After taking $252 which was in the cash register, the robber told Guendner to turn around and empty his pockets on the counter. When the clerk did this, the man snatched his wallet containing $53 and his keys.

When the paper bag was loaded with the money, Guendner, who lives at 424 Williams Street, Larkspur, was told to lie down in back of the store and "not to move for five minutes."

Guendner said he heard the gunman walk out the door, quietly shutting it behind him.

The robber was described as a man about 30, approximately 5 feet 10, slender with a medium complexion. He was wearing a dark sport coat and slacks and had on a pair of dark glasses.

The robbery resembles the Christmas Eve holdup of Sam and Eddie's Liquor Store in San Rafael. The robber's description was 5 feet 4. The details of the crimes were approximately the same.

Headstone Theft Admitted By Boys

Two teen-age boys last night admitted taking a headstone from the Fernwood Cemetery on Tennessee Valley Road and dumping it in front of C's Drive In at 510 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

No charges have been filed against the youths, who said they did it "on a whim." They were picked up by sheriff's deputies after their car was recognized as they left the drive-in.

They admitted taking the stone but said it was lying on the ground and not on a grave.

De Gaulle Hint

PARIS (AP) —President Charles de Gaulle tonight implied that if his Algerian policies are not solidly approved in next month's referendum he will resign. In a nationwide radio and television address, de Gaulle appealed for an overwhelming approval of his plans to grant home rule to the territory.

Child-Stealing Warrant Issued

A felony warrant for child-stealing was issued yesterday for Orin Wayne Spangler, divorced husband of Christel Louise Argujio of 930 George Street, Novato.

Spangler was charged with taking their child, 2-year-old Richard Wayne Spangler, over whom Mrs. Argujio has custody.

She told sheriff's deputies yesterday that Spangler, a resident of Covina (Los Angeles County), asked to take the child for a ride Thursday. He has not returned.

Ike, Advisers Meet On Asia Invasion Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower met today for more than an hour with top government, civilian and military chiefs to discuss reports of a Communist invasion of Laos.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the president conferred for one hour and 15 minutes with acting secretary of state Livingston T. Merchant, deputy defense secretary James H. Douglas, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, and CIA chief Allen Dulles.

Hagerty, who sat in on the meeting, said there would be no announcement as a result of the session.

"The president has stayed and is continuing to stay in close touch" with the Laos situation, he said.

Asked if the president and his advisers had chosen a course of action during the meeting, Hagerty replied "I can't say one way or the other."

W. R. Hansen Resigning Corte Madera Council

William R. Hansen, Corte Madera town councilman for three years and mayor one year, will resign from the council Jan. 31.

Hansen, an engineer with Standard Oil Co. of California in San Francisco, is being transferred to Anaheim to a position with California Chemical Co.

Hansen will submit his resignation to the council Tuesday.

Hansen was appointed to the council in 1957 to fill the unexpired term of William Ball. He was elected to a four-year term in April, 1958, and served as mayor then to April, 1959.

He also is resigning from the Marin County Flood Control Commission.

A native of Fresno, Hansen was reared in Oakland. He lived in Whittier and San Francisco before moving to Corte Madera in 1955.

Hansen, his wife, Barbara, daughter, Margaret, 9, and son, Robert, 4, live at 4 Birch Avenue.

Mrs. Hansen has been active in the Sunny Hills Guild. Hansen is a member of the Sausalito Yacht Club.

The councilman said he was leaving the area and his town office with regrets and thanks for the cooperation of fellow councilmen and the people of Corte Madera.

Sausalito Picks New Librarian

The Sausalito Library Board selected a new librarian at its meeting yesterday, but will withhold the name of the person until she has had time to notify her present employer.

City Manager Charles A. Brown said it is expected that the new librarian, replacing Mabel Wosser, who retired Nov. 1, will take over the position by Jan. 15.

Cuba's Press Again Sees U.S. Invasion

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The government press in Cuba today published a new charge that U.S. Marines will invade Cuba soon.

Two newspapers said Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime has been informed the Marines will land before Jan. 18 on orders of the outgoing Eisenhower administration.

In similar stories, the semi-official Revolucion and the government controlled El Mundo said the Marines would be committed by President Eisenhower.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa was reported to have left Havana to denounce the alleged invasion plot before the United Nations in New York.

In Washington, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty replied "Nuts." He said the invasion stories were a "typical smokescreen. There isn't a word of truth in it."

Coinciding with the reports, the Cuban Cabinet decided the foreign ministry will determine in the future what tourists from the U.S. may enter the country without visas.

Three Injuries Lead Off Marin Traffic Mishaps

Three injury accidents last night — two involving drunk drivers, one a hit and run and the third a speeder—led off Marin County's New Year's weekend traffic mishaps.

Throughout the nation, traffic fatalities were mounting slowly today, lending hope that the final death count during the long weekend would be lower than expected.

At noon the nationwide count of traffic deaths stood at 49. In addition, there were 14 fatalities from fires and six from other miscellaneous accidents.

Cited for drunken driving was Arthur Lee Shipman, 20, a U.S. Navy radioman from New Mexico, who fled the scene of an accident at the entrance to Hamilton Air Force Base and was captured after a high speed chase along Highway 101; and Lyland P. Mills, 35, a San Francisco psychiatrist employed by the State Dept. of Mental Health.

Involved in a one-car accident and cited for speeding was Ludlow John Daniels, 18, of 435 Marin Avenue, who crashed into a PG&E power pole when he lost control of his car in a turn at Almonte Avenue and Wisteria Way in Mill Valley.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Shipman drove into two cars which were stopped for a turn into Hamilton, sending the driver and passenger in one of the cars to the hospital.

Treated at the base hospital for minor bruises were Warrant Officer Chauncy Perry, 53, of 213 Bolling Road, HAFB, and his wife Vera, 53.

Mills crashed into the rear of a southbound car driven by Robert L. Fassio, 24, of Petaluma as the latter was slowing down to turn into Entrada Drive at Ignacio.

Mills was treated for minor injuries at a San Francisco hospital.

Daniels reportedly went to Letterman Hospital in San Francisco.

ENGAGEMENT of Donna Jean Dietrich and Allen Emerson Thomas (above) was announced at a party last night given by her parents, Capt. and Mrs. Irving C. Dietrich of Novato. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll E. Thomas of San Rafael are parents of the future benedict. (Photo by Luther Greer)

Dona Dietrich's Betrothal To Allen Thomas Announced

Capt. and Mrs. Irving C. Dietrich of Novato announced the engagement of their only daughter, Donna Jean Dietrich, and Allen Emerson Thomas at a party at their home last night. Attending were 50 guests, relatives and close friends. Donna has three brothers, Darrel, Edward and Don Dietrich, all of Novato. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Schoeder and Mrs. Gladys Dietrich of Dixon. Donna, a graduate of San Rafael High School, attended San Jose State College majoring in public relations. She is a business representative for the Pacific Telephone Co. in San Rafael.

Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll E. Thomas of San Rafael, has one brother, Trevor Thomas of San Rafael. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Thomas of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Paul Haze of Los Angeles.

The future benedict is a graduate of San Rafael High School and attended San Francisco State College where he majored in business administration. He is with Thomas Swan Co. Inc. of San Francisco. He is a member of the National Guard, completing training at Fort Ord.

No definite wedding plans have been made.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED AT DINNER

The bride-to-be was graduated from Tamalpais High School and attended College of Marin. Leah has a sister, Ruth, who attends Redwood High and her brother, Mark, student at Henry C. Hall School. Her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lindsey of Fairfax.

The future bridegroom has two sisters, Marcia and Doreen, both of Napa. Al completed his high school education in Napa and is serving in the Army in Yuma, Arizona.

The wedding has been set for Feb. 4. After Al has completed his Army service in July, the young couple will live in Sunnyvale.

Mr. and Mrs. Lesly Daveler of Larkspur at a family Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey in Walnut Creek announced the engagement of their daughter, Leah to Albert Anderson, son of Mrs. John Harris of Napa.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Young 1961 will be given a royal welcome tonight at countless parties in homes and clubs. One of the largest and gayest parties will be the dinner dance at the Meadow Club. It begins with a 7:30 p. m. cocktail hour and will continue long after midnight when brilliantly colored balloons will be released to float over the heads of the dancers.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Grady, chairmen of the event, are being assisted by Messrs. and Mesdames Arthur V. Fay, Merton Hipsley, Rinaldo Sciaroni, Henry Skinner and J. William Zimmerman. Many of the members are hosting large tables. Frank Paganini, president of the club, and his wife are entertaining, so are Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Furlong, Senator and Mrs. John McCarthy, Dr. and Mrs. John Cann, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Campion, the Albert Arnolds, Edwin Christies, John O'Connells, William McDevitts, Horace Seamans, Edgar Lindners and Russell Westovers.

PROBABLY the largest affair in Mill Valley will be the annual Lions Club new year's party at the Mill Valley Golf Clubhouse as this year couples from the Homestead Valley and Almonte Improvement Clubs will join them rather than have their own neighborhood celebrations.

Festivities will start at 8 with cocktails. There will be dancing to orchestra music until midnight, when a buffet supper will be served.

Assisting General Chairman Jack Brabo are Messrs. and Mesdames Bill Gilmore, Fred Bitgood and Max Staley, Mrs. Joe Eastburn and Ed Roberts.

The other big party is the annual dinner dance of Marin's Merry-go-rounders Social Club for young married couples at the Outdoor Art Clubhouse. About 65 couples are attending.

SAUSALITO Woman's Club's gala New Year's eve dinner dance is setting the party mood in that city. Among those attending with guests will be:

Dr. and Mrs. Emmet L. Rixford; Messrs. and Mesdames William A. Austin, Robert Bergin, Everett Brown of Belvedere; George R. Chapman, Alan Conner, Stanley Cowen, Edward Davis, Justin M. Day, John B. Ehlen, Bernard J. Gratama, R. Jerrold Hooper, Charles P. Knaebel, George Kowski, Ralph P. Lyon, M. E. McAninch, George W. Quinn Jr., Howard Sievers, John C. Stickney, Earl G. Thompson, H. Bowen Wands and Mesdames S. C. Stapp, (club president) and Arnold Seymour.

The Knaebels and Thompsons are entertaining at cocktail parties at their homes before the dinner dance, which is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Davis.

FOLLOWING a pleasant custom for several years Mrs. Robert O'Mara and Mrs. Benedict Giusto are entertaining at a New Year's Eve party at the Mrs. O'Mara's San Rafael home tonight. They are inviting friends "to drop in for some New Year's cheer at anytime after 8 p.m."

THE ROSS HOME of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Hinsman will be opened for a New Year's eve party. They've invited a number of their friends and those of their three daughters, Mary, Katherine and Carolyn, and their dates to a buffet supper. Carolyn attends Katherine Branson School, Kathy goes to UC and Mary, UC at Davis. Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jeffries and their daughter, Susan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Boatner Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. V. Balfour James. Incidentally Mr. and Mrs. James entertained about 25 of their friends at their home last night.

WELCOMING the new year at a midnight supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Mitchell of Mill Valley will be Messrs. and Mesdames William Donaldson and Sidney Rhodes, Mrs. F. J. Connelly and her daughter, Carol, Mesdames de Witt Clark and Edwin C. Wood and Miss Erhman Morton.

SEEING the old year out and the new one in together at the Mill Valley home of Kent Seymours will be Messrs and Mesdames William Marcus, T. C. Wellman, William Hamilton, L. C. Beringer, Lucien Marsh and Mesdames E. M. Shelton and Delmar Clinton. Also present will be Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Franklin of New Jersey, who with the Seymour's daughter and her husband, the Frederick Franklins Jr. of Morristown, N. J. who have been spending the holidays in the Bay area.

THE EDWARD JOHNSONS of Mill Valley have invited as their guests for a New Year's Eve dinner Messrs. and Mesdames Robert Andresen, Clifford Worth, Timothy Hall, A. M. Donnan, John V. Buckley, Dr. and Mrs. Orville Grimes.

A DANCE and midnight supper will be hosted tonight by Bill Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, at the San Rafael home of his godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Chambers. He's invited 40 classmates at Sir Francis Drake High School to welcome the New Year with him.

GUESTS of Dr. and Mrs. James J. Daly at their home at Marin Golf and Country Club this week have been Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kuharick and their sons Larry and Billy. Mr. Kuharick is head football coach at Notre Dame University and is assistant coach for the East in the annual Shrine East West game being played today at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco. Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Kuharick with their sons will leave for Honolulu where Joe will coach at the Hula Bowl. Wednesday Dr. and Mrs. Daly and Mr. and Mrs. Kuharick attended the Notre Dame alumni dinner at Rickey's in Palo Alto. Joe spent most of the time autographing his just published book "Football for Boys." Dr. Daly is head of all athletics at University of San Francisco and he and Joe have been close friends ever since the latter was coach of the football team there.

FRIENDS of long standing as well as newer acquaintances attended the twentieth wedding anniversary party of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Mosden of Berkeley given Wednesday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Adolphus Graupner on Walnut Street in San Francisco.

A number of guests had also been present at the fashionable wedding of Eleanor Graupner and Frederick Mosden at Trinity Episcopal Church in San Francisco on Dec. 29, 1940.

For the anniversary party Mrs. Mosden wore black and white lace and Mrs. Graupner was gowned in a mauve and black organza with sequins. Mrs. Graupner's sister, Mrs. William Shea, widow of Adm. Shea, flew from Long Beach for the party and presided at the coffee urn.

In the family group were the Mosden's son, Kit, Eleanor's brother, Adolphus E. Graupner Jr., and his son, Karl E. (Ted) Graupner and his wife, Suzanne, who live in San Rafael.

Among Marin friends present were Miss Amy Edwards, over from Bolinas, the Frank Wilkins,, Allan Sprouls, Ned Griffiths, Robert Ingrams, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baumgartens, and the Robert Carys and also the John Ziels who spend much time at their ranch in Nicasio.

The Ziels are entertaining at a New Year's Eve party tonight at their San Francisco home.

EXCLUSIVELY entertained during their visit here were Mr. and Mrs. Alan Laidlaw, formerly of Marin, who left on Thursday morning for Washington, D.C., where Alan, who is connected with the State Department, will attend an International Cooperation Administration School for four months. He will then be assigned a new post, probably in Africa. He was just previously at a post in Formosa and has been at the University of Boston, Oxford, London, Brussels and Paris. Mrs. Laidlaw was in Palma, Mallorca building a house on the famous Son Vida Estates where Prince and Princess Rainier have also bought property. The Laidlaw house is now finished and furnished. Mrs. Laidlaw joined her husband in Paris and they flew to New York and from there to Washington where Alan's tour of duty ended. Unfortunately when they arrived in San Francisco, Mrs. Laidlaw was taken immediately to Franklin Hospital for surgery. However, she recovered soon and could enjoy the large cocktail and buffet dinner party her sister, Mrs. Donald C. Perry (Alice Gilogly) and her husband gave on Dec. 22. Several small dinners were given for the visitors. Mrs. Laidlaw, the former Marie Gilogly, was reared in San Rafael and attended Dominican. Alan is a member of the well known Sausalito family and went to Hitchcock Military Academy in San Rafael.

A BEAUTIFUL memory lingers of the Cotillion on Tuesday night at the Sheraton-Palace in San Francisco when 32 young women were introduced formally to Society. The Garden Court was transformed into a lovely Old World garden. The debs came through a French arbor to make their curtsies and were introduced by Percy King, and presented with mementos, golden calendar charms with the name of the deb engraved and rubies marking the date. The girls walked through the Rose Room and the Concert Room where they were introduced again by Thomas Carr Howe. The presentations over, the debs and their escorts assembled in the court for the cotillion figure.

Marin girls presented were Anne Macey, daughter of Mrs. Marion Bridgman Macey of Kentfield, Sara Malone, whose parents are the Adrian Malones of San Anselmo, and Anne Stine, daughter of the Oliver Stines of Ross. Also introduced was Evelyn Thacher Bossange of the pioneer Kent clan of Marin, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Bossange Jr. came from their home in Syosset Long Island for the cotillion and attendant festivities.

Donald Beers' Honeymoon In Hawaii

Following a honeymoon in Hawaii, Donald Beers and his bride, the former Geraldine Murray, are residing in Oakland. The wedding took place early in December at St. Agnes Church in San Francisco.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murray of Gary, Ind., who came to the wedding with another daughter, Pat Murray, chose Judith Kirk for her maid of honor. Pat served as bridesmaid.

Best man was Lawrence Anderson and Gerald Peterson and Thomas Burcham were ushers. A reception at Ing House followed the ceremony.

The bride, who was educated in Indiana, is a former X-Ray technician. The bridegroom is a graduate of Tamalpais High School, College of Marin and University of California where he also did post graduate work. He is employed at California Research at Standard Oil in Richmond.

WEDDING IS PLANNED IN INVERNESS

Wedding plans are being made by Winona Watkins and Theodore Ross Abrams. They will exchange nuptials vows at St. Columba's Church in Inverness on Feb. 12. The bride-elect, daughter of Mrs. Walter Kantala of Inverness, attended Tomales High School and is a graduate of Norte Del Rio High School in North Sacramento. She is employed by the First National Bank of San Rafael. She is the sister of Wilbur Watkins and Keith Kantala.

Parents of the future benedict are Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Abrams of Milliken, Colo. and he is the brother of Daniel, Albert, Sally and Susan Abrams of Milliken. He was educated in that city, served in the Coast Guard and now works for A. Paladini Inc. at Pt. Reyes.

WINONA WATKINS, who will be married to Theodore Ross Abrams at St. Columba's Church in Inverness on Feb. 12.

RED LETTERED INVITATIONS EXTENDED FOR SYMPHONY BALL

Red lettered invitations announcing the black tie dinner dance of the Symphony Guild of Marin are now in the mail according to invitations chairman, Mrs. George Stephens.

Always eagerly awaited by members and their friends, the winter season's most gala formal affair will be held on Jan. 28 at the Meadow Club.

Guild President Barry Boland and Mrs. Boland, Mr. Sandor Salgo, conductor and director of the Marin Symphony and Mrs. Salgo will greet guests when they arrive at 7 o'clock for the cocktail hour. Appetizers from caviar to crab as well as hot hors d'oeuvres from bright copper chaffing dishes will be served. A log fire will crackle in the oversized fireplace setting the mood for a gracious and happy evening.

Reservations chairman is Mrs. Mozart Kaufman; decorations, Mrs. William Pemberton; awards, Mrs. G. Edward French; music, Mrs. J. Benton Tully and dinner menu, Mrs. Edward Ruff.

Lagan Meeting Set

Lagan Institute, YLI, will hold its first meeting of the New Year on Tuesday night Jan. 3, at 8 o'clock at Painters Hall in San Rafael. The institute had its Christmas party recently at the San Rafael home of Mrs. Mary McCurdy. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served. The two fruit cakes made by Mrs. McCurdy to raise funds for the Institute were awarded to Mrs. James Hayes and Miss Marion Grady. Mrs. McCurdy makes cakes each year to aid the institute.

Weekend At Tahoe

Four Mill Valley couples are enjoying the holiday weekend at the John Zieglers' home at Lake Tahoe. In the group are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Marsh, John Savages, Jay Chiltons and Faye Snyders.

PROPOSING A TOAST at the reception which followed their recent marriage at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Mondrogon. The bride, the former Jill Catherine Cerwin, is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Steven S. Cerwin of Mill Valley. (Don Faulkner photo)

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Resignations Accepted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield and John Hay Whitney, U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain. Both resignations will take effect on Jan. 20, when the Eisenhower administration goes out of office.

Hospital Fire

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., (UPI) — Fire started in the maternity ward of Park Place Hospital today and destroyed almost half of the hospital, but not before nurses, firemen and police had rescued 63 patients, including eight newborn babies. The explosion of a sterilizer probably started the fire.

Discoverer Dies

BEDFORD (UPI) — The Discoverer XVII satellite, launched Nov. 12 at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., has burned up in the earth's atmosphere, according to the national space surveillance control center here.

Officials said yesterday the satellite was last observed early Thursday as it made a 719th revolution. It apparently disintegrated soon after, officials said.

There are still 34 man-made objects including 16 U.S. satellites and one Soviet satellite in orbit. The other objects are "space junk," rocket bodies and other items which went into orbit during lauchings.

Brown Escapes Briefs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown escaped injury in a minor auto accident in downtown Sacramento yesterday. A car driven by Aury Canson of Sacramento pulled out of an alley and hit Brown's limousine, driven by Highway Patrolman Louis Cotter.

Tent City Gunfire

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Armed Negroes guarding a tent village of displaced Negro sharecroppers said four shots were fired at the village from a passing automobile early today but that nobody was hurt.

The guards returned the fire.

It was the second shooting incident at the village since Thursday.

Shot By Dog

WEBSTER, Mass. (AP) — Neil Larini, 15, was shot by a dog yesterday.

The youth's 12-gauge shotgun was leaning against a tree. His hand was above the muzle. The dog's paw hit the trigger and the gun discharged.

Meg, Tony In Ireland

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI) — Princess Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, arrived by plane today for a visit with Tony's mother in Ireland. They were greeted by thousands of young Irishmen and women who defied police barriers at the airport.

It was the first visit to Ireland by a member of the British royal family in 32 years. Irish authorities, fearing protest demonstrations by anti-British Irish republicans, took strict security measures to protect the couple.

There was no official welcome for the princess and her husband, but they were greeted by crowds that had streamed to the airport since early morning by bicycle, bus and car.

Peru Breaks With Cuba

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Peru broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba in a move that diplomats say may trigger off a mass move by Latin American governments to isolate the Fidel Castro regime.

Growing anger among leaders of hemispheric neighbors was evident over the activities of Cuban agents charged with spreading revolutionary propaganda among the masses.

Uruguayan President Benito Marrone told an interviewer last night that his government may expel the Cuban ambassador in Montevideo and cut all ties with Havana.

Business Slump

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Although state experts agree that California—like the rest of the nation—is in a business recession, they don't agree on how deep it may go or how long it may last.

In interviews yesterday, officials evaluated the slump in terms ranging from "comparatively light" to "the second worst in 20 years."

But severe or slight, it's clear the recession will effect the legislature when it convenes Monday, faced with Gov. Brown's pledge to seek no new taxes, yet make the state live within its income.

Brown's top budget planner, Finance Director John Carr, predicted the slump will continue worsening for several months, but that the economy later will stage a fairly brisk recovery.

Platinum Theft

ASHTON, R.I. (UPI) — FBI agents today sought the informant believed to have set up an inside job theft of $200,000 worth of platinum from the Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. yesterday. Authorities said thieves who apparently knew just how to avoid a supposedly burglar-proof alarm system cut a hole in a roof to carry off 120 to 150 pounds of the precious metal.

Novato High Lists Honor Students

Katherine Debrecht and Carl Morse topped the honor roll at Novato High School with straight A averages for the second grading period.

Miss Debrecht is a freshman; Morse is a junior.

Jean Fagnani, Janice Liswood, David Pual, Dennelle Smith each had 25 points. Colleen Power, Karen Duncan, Jackie Holt, Susan Obee and Robert Paine garnered 24 points.

Ted Bloyd, Sylvia Cassil, Robert Debrecht, Linda McElroy, Roy Otis, Douglas Rosenberg, Alice Unrath and Richard Van Buskirk each had 23 points.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 31, the 366th day of the year with no more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1869, French painter Henri Matisse was born .

In 1880, General George Marshall—onetime United States chief of staff, secretary of state, and secretary of defense—was born.

In 1890, Ellis Island in New York Harbor became the receiving station for all immigrants entering the United States on the Atlantic Coast.

In 1923, Eddie Cantor opened in "Kid Boots"—a smash musical hit at the Earl Carroll theater in New York City.

In 1946, President Truman officially proclaimed the end of World War II.

A thought for today: American Gen. George Marshall said: "If man does find the solution for world peace it will be the most revolutionary reversal of his record we have ever known."

49ers Reload Shotgun With Signing Of UCLA's Kilmer

Rearming their "shotgun" offense for 1961, the San Francisco 49ers signed UCLA star Bill Kilmer, grabbing him before the Los Angeles Chargers did.

Kilmer put his name to a contract yesterday in the office of Coach Red Hickey who sized him up as a great potential gunner for the 49ers' new spread.

The UCLA tailback led the nation in total offense last fall with 1,889 yards. He was drafted by the 49ers as a first-round pick.

In the American Football League draft, he had been tapped by the Chargers.

Kilmer rushed for 803 yards and passed for 1,086 for the UCLAn's.

In the shotgun offense, the quarterback stands about 7 yards behind center and takes a direct snap. Then he can either pass, run or hand off to a fullback or halfback.

John Brodie, not noted as a runner, made the offense click as its quarterback in the final four 49ers games as San Francisco won three of them.

Kilmer was in the stands watching the finale when the 49ers beat Baltimore 34-10.

"I really liked that formation and was impressed by it," he commented.

He was also one of three players picked by the 49ers during the first round of this week's drafting at Philadelphia. The other two, UCLA's Jim Johnson and Bowling Green's Bernie Casey, also have signed with the Forty Niners.

San Francisco next announced it had signed its second round choice, Ronald Lakes. He is a 6-foot-4-inch Wichita center.

Also signed up yesterday by the prospectors were Bob McCreary, a 250-pound Wake Forest tackle, and Tom Jewell, a 245-pound Idaho State lineman. They were fifth and 17th round choices.

CHAMPS' LAST DAY ON THRONE

The stroke of midnight tonight will mark the end of these women's reign as 1960 champions of the Indian Valley Golf Club. But, they'll all be back in 1961 to try to duplicate their recent victories. Front row, left to right: Mrs. Velma Greene, winner of defeated Championship Flight; Mrs. Lynn Sumpter, runner-up in Championship Flight; Mrs. Charles Barr, winner of the Directors Flight; Mrs. William May, the club champion for the third straight year. Top row, from left, Mrs. Arthur Sears, winner of the defeated Directors Flight; Mrs. Luther Tate, winner of the defeated President's Flight; Mrs. Jerry Evans, consolation flight winner.

Schloredt Key Man In The Rose Bowl; Gophers Favored

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The uncertain role of 1959 All-America Bob Schloredt of Washington raised a tall question mark today over the Huskies' Rose Bowl struggle with Minnesota.

Unless Coach Jim Owens switches at the last minute, the quarterback in Washington's 44-8 conquest of Wisconsin last New Year's Day will be on the bench Monday when the Huskies start against the national champions.

But Schloredt, inactive since he broke his collarbone against UCLA two months ago, is certain to be in action soon thereafter.

"He's healed, but he hasn't hit the conditioning and timing he had in midseason," said Owens. "He'll play at least half the time, though."

Westerners who watched Schloredt transform Washington into a team of dash and daring last year are sure the 197-pound 6-footer will be in the thick of it.

Washington and Minnesota coaching staffs agree that the starter, Bob Hivner, is a quarterback of high ability. He demonstrated it by leading the Huskies through one tight scrape after another in the late season.

Yet, assuming Schloredt is in close to top form, this is a man with greater game-breaking potential.

GOOD PASSER

The one-eyed star is a hard-socking runner on rollout plays, a good passer with a habit of delivering in the tight spots and one of the better college kickers.

Minnesota remained a 6½-point favorite 48 hours before its first Rose Bowl appearance in history. Sunny skies, with temperatures in the 70s, are forecast for Monday.

Both teams scheduled final one-hour drills today. They walk through the Rose Bowl and get in a last limbering-up.

Washington made one shift in its starting lineup, promoting 6-foot-6, 240-pound end John Meyers to the first team in place of Jim Skaggs. Meyers, a starter in the bowl last season as a sophomore, is considered a better pass receiver, and he will give the Huskies more weight to counter the bulky Gopher line.

Minnesota will be in its best physical shape of the year.

WILDCATS COP CAGE VICTORY OVER ST. JOE

Marin Catholic was the only high school in the county to come home from yesterday's basketball hunt with a bird instead of buckshot.

The Wildcats smoothered over their St. Joseph's brothers, 41 to 35.

After a dead effort against low-rated Analy Thursday, the Cats again began to click and hit. The game did not start this way, but a 19 point third period splurge by the Marinites made the game end in their favor.

Coach Bernie Schneider's two front runners, captain Ed O'Connell scoring 17, and Jim Soden racking 11, lead the attack on St. Joseph's. Cat Chris Ahern harassed the opponents by ball stealing, and John Enos came off the bench to show himself skilled in defensive action.

Mariners Outshoot Santa Rosa, 71-70

College of Marin Tars outshot the Santa Rosa College Bear Cubs last night at Santa Rosa by closest possible margin—71-70—in a pre-season basketball contest.

The sharp-shooting of Ron Blum and two clutch free throws by Ernie Bray in the final minute of play enabled Marin to win its fifth game of the season against seven setbacks.

Blum, hitting 10 of 20 field goal attempts and 7 of 9 free throws, led the scoring with 27 points.

But it was the cool Bray, former Redwood High star, who iced the game with two foul shots with 35 seconds remaining. That put Marin five points ahead and rendered useless Santa Rosa's two quick buckets in the remaining time.

It was a see-saw battle in the first half that ended in a 38-38 stalemate. Marin led throughout the entire second half as the Tars clicked on 38 per cent of their floor shots for the night compared to Santa Rosa's 32 per cent.

Only five Tars figured in the scoring. Following Blum were Lyn Livie with 20, John Blomquist 11, Bray 10 and Mike Rawitser 3.

Marin rests for a week and then dives into its Golden Valley Conference schedule next Friday against Yuba College at Marysville and Saturday night against Shasta at Redding.

Vallejo Nips Tamites By 42-40 Count

Vallejo High School's Apaches rallied in the fourth quarter to nip the Tamalpais Indians 42-40 in a practice basketball game at Vallejo last night.

The see-saw duel saw Tam lead 8-5 at the end of the first quarter, Vallejo take a 17-15 halftime edge and Tam move out 28-27 at the end of the third stanza.

Norm Kreuter led Tam's shooters with 12 points while Pete Dornbach followed with 8. Dornbach also played a stellar game under the boards by hauling down 15 rebounds.

Vallejo's Class B team also outgunned the Little Injuns by a 35-25 measure.

Drake Walloped By Lincoln Five

Sir Francis Drake High basketballers felt the inner-city skids yesterday under the impact of highly rated Lincoln High in San Francisco.

The Pirates, who coach Carl Brown said played their worst game of the season, were heavily out-pointed in all but the first quarter. That period ended 8 to 6 for Lincoln and all of Marin's points were on free throws. The half-time score was dominated by the city dwellers, 27 to 10. The final score was a whopping 57-26.

Student body president Mike Bresnan was high point man with 10 digits; he scored three field goals and four free throws. Bresnan was followed by Bob Ingram, Sam Johnson and Dave Manuel with four points each.

The Drake B club also went under, 42-21.

Buck Shaw Feted By San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Coach Buck Shaw of the Philadelphia Eagles, once fired by the San Francisco 49ers, was honored by the city yesterday.

Mayor George Christopher presented Shaw with a pair of cuff links with the city's official seal engraved on them at a reception in City Hall.

Shaw, who resides in the San Francisco Bay Area, was honored for coaching the Eagles to the National Football League championship. The veteran coach announced his retirement following the game.

BOWL LINEUP

Big Weekend Under Way For TV Fans

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

College football's split bowl schedule (to go with all those splitting new year's headaches) began with seven games today and winds up with "The Big Four" on Monday.

An estimated 500,000 fans will see the action on the various scenes with many more spinning their dials to keep abreast of the doings. Three of today's games and all four of Monday's will be nationally televised.

Today's action was featured by the Gator Bowl meeting between Baylor and Florida at Jacksonville, the Blue-Gray Game and the East-West Game. In addition, Prairie View played Arkansas A.M.&N. in the Prairie View Bowl, Utah State faced New Mexico State in the Sun Bowl, Texas A&I met Arkansas Tech in the Great Southwest Bowl and the National All-Stars played the Southwest All-Stars in the Copper Bowl.

Missouri plays Navy in the Orange Bowl, Mississippi meets Rice in the Sugar Bowl, Arkansas opposes Duke in the Cotton Bowl and Minnesota takes on Washington in the Rose Bowl when the three-day weekend reaches a grand climax on Monday.

TV COVERAGE

NBC will televise the Sugar Bowl game between Mississippi and Rice at New Orleans (11 a.m., PST) and the Rose Bowl game between Minnesota and Washington at Pasadena (2 p.m., PST) while CBS will televise the Orange Bowl game between Missouri and Navy at Miami (10 a.m., PST) and the Cotton Bowl game between Arkansas and Duke at Dallas (12:30 p.m. PST).

Missouri, Minnesota and Arkansas are favored by seven points and Mississippi is a 10-point choice in Monday's games.

No bowl game will revolve around one man as much as the Orange Bowl where Missouri's powerful Big Eight squad wrestles with the problem of stopping all-everything Joe Bellino of Navy. This one was spiced during the week by a feud between the rival coaches, Wayne Hardin of Navy and Dan Devine of Missouri.

Minnesota will be out to reverse the licking which Wisconsin took at the hands of Washington last New Year's Day while Arkansas carries the honor of the Southwest Conference against rough, rugged Duke. Mississippi, burning to demonstrate that it should have been recognized as the national champion, appears to have just too many guns for Rice.

TITLE GAME ON TV

Chargers Underdogs In Playoff Tomorrow

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Los Angeles Chargers, losers in Houston's first American Football League game, worked out today with hopes of closing the season with an upset victory.

The Chargers and the Houston Oilers meet in the AFL's first championship game tomorrow before an expected 25,000 persons and a national television audience — ABC, 12:30 p.m., PST. Houston is a 6½-point favorite.

The Chargers lost to Houston, 38-28, in the Oilers' first league home game in September, and won, 24-21, on a muddy field in Los Angeles later.

The Chargers, with 10-4 record, won the league's Western Division. Houston, also 10-4, won the Eastern Division.

Sid Gillman, Los Angeles coach, brings the best-balanced team in the AFL into the game.

The Chargers weren't tops in any of the league's six-team statistical categories, but they never were worse than fourth in any department.

The Los Angeles hopes depend on the passing of Jack Kemp, the AFL's top passer, the running of Paul Lowe, Ben Agajanian's kicking, and defensive work of Ron Botchan, Emil Karas, Ronnie Loudd, Dick Harris and Jim Sears.

But Agajanian, as a kicker, may be the Chargers' best defensive weapon against Houston.

If Agajanian sails his kickoffs out of the end zone, he can single-handedly stop the threat of the league's top kickoff return specialist, Ken Hall of Houston who has a 31.8 average on 19 kickoff returns.

Bill Cannon, another Houston back, returned only eight kickoffs during the season, but he averaged 33.3 yards on each one.

Hall went 103 yards for a touchdown against New York, and Cannon returned a Boston kickoff 88 yards for a touchdown.

Kicking, in fact, could be the big factor in the game.

Agajanian, called out of retirement by Gillman, kicked 13 field goals and 46 extra points for the Chargers this season. George Blanda kicked 15 field goals and 42 extra points. Agajanian scored 85 points by kicking, Blanda 87.

Novato Bows To Vikings

Outside shooter Bill Tuel bombarded Montgomery of Santa Rosa with mortar lobs totaling 18 points yesterday in an effort to give Novato high a basketball victory.

But there were not enough Tuels on the Hornet club and Novato lost a 58 to 50 decision.

Novato opened up the second period with a new game (12-12), but the Santa Rosa clan dominated that period for a 10-point lead. Santa Rosa lost ground to hard-fighting Novato by halftime when the Marinites were behind by a 37-to-36 squeek.

During the second half Novato put a hard press on Montgomery and matched the Santa Rosa crew point for point.

The Hornets could not keep up the push, however, and fell back in the final minutes.

Tuel's companion in points was Jim Sewell with 13. But it took both these high point Marinites together to out-point Santa Rosa's John Watson's sizzling 29 ducats.

The Novato B team followed the varsity in defeat, 29 to 20. B player Doug Erickson was high was seven points for Novato.

Fights Last Night

HAVANA — Ultiminio Ramos, Cuba, knocked out Chato Gomez, Mexico, 9 (featherweight).

AGANA, Guam—John "Kid" San Nicolas, 127, Guam, outpointed Jet Bally, 128, Philippines, 10.

RAIDERS MOVE TO HAWAII? NO! SAYS SODA

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders are not likely to become the Honolulu Raiders, according to General Manager Chet Soda.

He emphatically denied yesterday that he had ever been contacted by Bill Pacheco of Honolulu about shifting the club. Pacheco had been quoted as saying he would "give a million dollars" to get an AFL franchise if he got control of Honolulu Stadium.

"I've never been contacted by this man," Soda said. "But if he is offering a million dollars for a franchise, give him my name and phone number, will you?"

Soda recalled that he had once talked to some people "some time back" about the possibility of moving the Raider franchise to the islands.

"But we never gave it a serious thought," he added.

Dons Capture WCAC Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The University of San Francisco's young and erratic basketball team reigned today as the new champions in the second annual West Coast Athletic Conference Tournament.

The Dons edged a determined St. Mary's quintet 51-48 in overtime last night. And for awhile it appeared that the favored Gaels would snatch the title in the final frantic moments.

Santa Clara held San Jose State 48-42 for third place in the other final. In afternoon consolation rounds, Loyola of Los Angeles whipped Pepperdine 71-62 for the fifth spot and College of the Pacific won seventh place with a 56-54 decision over Fordham.

In the see-saw overtime, the Dons iced the contest on two straight free throws by Henry Johnson and Ed Thomas.

Giants Lose Heartbreaker

Redwood High, as they had the day before with Mission of San Francisco, came close to cutting off Washington High's wind yesterday but again couldn't quite snuff out the city club.

The Giants loosened their grip in the last 20 seconds of play to lose 41 to 39. The Marin club led by Mike Kavanaugh had labored its way from a 25-to-17 half-time deficit to a 39-to-39 tie in the last minute of the game. The Giants missed three consecutive free throws during that crucial last minute and Washington scored one fat field goal to make the difference.

Kavanaugh tallied a team record for individual scoring with 18 points and did his share defensively with nine rebounds. Point runner-up for Marin was backcourt player John Whitney with seven. Rich Brear was held scoreless for the first time in his three years of varsity competition.

Redwood's B team, even though suffering a heavy 48-to-20 defeat, stood up well to Washington which lost its first game in 53 attempts on Thursday. The Marin man with the points was Grant Stephenson with six.

Iowa Upsets UCLA In L.A. Cage Finals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Iowa's Hawkeyes, boasting a big front line and two fast guards, stopped the high-scoring UCLA Bruins last night and won the Los Angeles Basketball Classic.

UCLA had averaged 96 points a game until it encountered Iowa, which fought an uphill battle and won 71-65.

Don Nelson, 6-6 forward, led the way for the Hawks with 26 points. John Berberich, the Bruins' 6-8 center, was closely guarded by Iowa and held to 10 points.

The Iowa victory snapped a seven-game UCLA winning streak.

A crowd of 14,589 saw last night's tournament, in which Southern California finished third by beating Indiana 90-71.

Writers covering the tournament named John Rudometkin, Southern California center, as the outstanding player. Iowa landed three players on the all-tournament team. Other members are Nelson of Iowa at forward; Bill McClintock, California, forward; John Green, UCLA, guard, and a tie between Ron Zagar and Dave Maher, both Iowa, as guards.

California beat Stanford 40-36 to capture fifth place, and Minnesota downed Michigan State 83-77 for seventh place.

Meadow Club Results

Following are results of the Meadow Club's women's golf tournament played this week, an 18-hole medal handicap event:

Class A—Mrs. C. W. Morill, 93-17—76; Mrs. E. M. Brown, 94-16—78; Mrs. Paul Spengler, 101-23—78.

Class B—Mrs. John Allen Jr., 101-24—77; Mrs. T. N. Brown, 104-25—79; Mrs. Paul Hartman Sr., 107-26—81.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

High Scoring Tamites Threat For MCAL Title

(This is second in a series on prospects of teams in the Marin County Athletic League's 1961 basketball schedule.)

In spite of a won-four, lost-six pre-league record, the Tamalpais High basketball team is predicted by some local experts to win its second straight MCAL title this season.

This is reasonable in light of the fact that Tam has only fallen to one county club—Marin Catholic High in the MCAL Christmas Basketball Tournament. The Indians were runners-up.

Indian Coach Ed Chavez commented during that tournament that his boys were going to have to run up higher scores than the 28 they tallied against Marin Catholic, if they wanted to keep the county title.

It looked as if they were on their way when, after losing to Sacred Heart, Jefferson and Galileo, the Indians routed Montgomery High of Santa Rosa, 59 to 31. And even though they lost to St. Mary's High at Berkeley Tuesday, the Indians kept that point total up. Score was 59 to 41.

While the Bay Area clubs have demonstrated that they can not only handle, but better, a high-point team, Marin clubs this season have not shown this. If Indian shooters Norm Kreuter, Connie Hoetger and Pete Dornbach keep zeroed in, Marin clubs will have a rough time outpointing Tam. Dornbach is the top rebounder and Charles Bullock is a classy ball handler. The Indians' league opener is with the San Rafael Bulldogs at Tam next Friday at 8:30 p.m.

The Indian's schedule of games after Tuesday is as follows:

Jan. 6, San Rafael, home, 8:30 p.m.; Jan. 10, Montgomery, away, 4 p.m.; Jan. 13, Marin Catholic, away, 8:30 p.m.; Jan. 20, Sir Francis Drake, away, 8:30 p.m.; Jan. 24, Redwood, home, 4 p.m.; Jan. 27, Novato, away, 8:30 p.m.; Jan. 31, George Washington, home, 4 p.m.; Feb. 3 San Rafael, away, 8:30 p.m.; Feb. 7, Palo Alto, away, 3:15 p.m.; Feb. 10, Marin Catholic, home, 8:30 p.m.; Feb. 14, San Francisco State JVs, away, 4 p.m.; Feb. 17, Sir Francis Drake, home, 8:30 p.m.; Feb. 21, Redwood, away, 4 p.m.; and Feb. 24, Novato, home, 8:30 p.m.

NEW CLERGYMAN AND WIFE—Rev. and Mrs. Richard D. Beaumont this year decided to become even more active than they were in Paso Robles as lay people in the Episcopalian Church. Rev. Beaumont entered the ministry and has been appointed vicar of the Church of St. Augustine, an Episcopal Mission in Fairfax. He also attends the Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley where the couple reside.

Versatile Man Pastors Mission In Fairfax

By PAUL MILLER

On a hot, humid day in February, 1942, a husky, dark-haired executive of a British banking firm stood at the rail of a crowded tanker as it steamed from the harbor of a terror-struck port city on an island off the Malayan coast.

Singapore had been invaded by the Japanese and Richard D. Beaumont who had been with the overseas banking firm for 14 years, serving in Thailand, China, India, Burma, Malay States, and finally in Singapore, was gratefully aboard one of these last few ships to escape the fallen city and head through the smoke-filled harbor to the clear, safe air over the South China Sea.

Today Rev. Beaumont is the vicar of the two-year-old St. Augustine's Episcopal Mission in Fairfax. He and his wife, Belinda Peters Beaumont, never dreamed they would be serving where and as they are today when they fell in love in Labore, India some 24 years ago. The lovely and charming visitor to India from Richmond, Va., and the British banker were married in Labore in 1937.

During the Singapore invasion, Mrs. Beaumont had been safely in Australia. Beaumont joined her there and the couple came immediately to San Francisco where Beaumont entered the U.S. Army. He was sent to the South Pacific Theater in counter intelligence for the duration of the war, and became a U.S. citizen in 1943.

After two hectic and hard-pressed decades, he and his wife settled in 1947 on a quiet ranch outside of Paso Robles. Born, reared, and educated in England, Beaumont took the knowledge he learned as a farm youth in Devonshire and together with advanced agricultural study maintained his cattle and barley ranch, as well as taught agriculture to veterans in a federal program through local secondary schools.

In addition to ranching he later established his own insurance agency, yet became more and more involved in service as a layman at the St. James' Episcopal Church in Paso Robles. Last Easter Sunday, Beaumont was ordained Deacon in the church by Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop of California.

With the "whole-hearted cooperation" of his wife, Beaumont decided so much of his time was being given the church that he might as well become a clergyman. This fall the couple moved to Berkeley where Beaumont enrolled at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific. The same month, September, Beaumont was appointed pastor of St. Augustine's in Fairfax.

Rev. Beaumont took over the pastorate of the Fairfax church from Rev. Charles Carroll who was dividing his time between the Marin congregation and the Episcopal Downtown Mission in San Francisco.

St. Augustine's was formed in the fall of 1958. Until this month when the Seventh Day Adventist offered the use of its sanctuary at 75 Park Road, the mission congregation worshiped at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Mrs. Fred West, member and director of public relations for the mission, reports 65 members are now enrolled at St. Augustine's, a 30 percent increase from the 1958 membership, she said.

"Missions (as contrasted to parishes) are churches which . . . receive financial help from the diocese in which they are located." The vicar, assisted by a bishop's committee of local laymen responsible for running the affairs of the mission, is the appointed pastor, Mrs. West explained.

All St. Augustine's services start at 11 a.m. with Holy Communion being celebrated every third Sunday. An adult discussion group for members and inquirers will be formed early next year, and a sanctuary will be bought or built "as soon as suitable premises can be found," she reported.

Rev. Beaumont looks at the mission as "a struggling infant that I hope will prove to be a healthy youngster, grow rapidly, and have a job to do in the community. And I hope it will do a good one."

Both Rev. and Mrs. Beaumont said they feel that the members of St. Augustine's and the people in Fairfax are among the most "gracious and wonderful" they have ever met.

"We are very happy in Marin," said the new Fairfax vicar, former banker, world-traveler, Britisher, teacher, insurance agent, rancher, teacher, and soldier.

Lutheran Merger Affects Three Marin Churches

Three Marin churches, along with certain Lutheran Churches throughout the nation in worship services tomorrow will recognize New Year's Day, 1961, as the day of official merger of three Lutheran churches into one.

At the Good Shepherd Church in Novato, Christ the Victor Church in Fairfax, and Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera, congregations tomorrow will officially become members of The American Lutheran Church.

For the past decade the Evangelical Lutheran Church, the American Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church have been working to accomplish tomorrow's official action.

DELEGATE PASTORS

Most of the details of the merger were ironed out at a constituting convention of the three Lutheran bodies last April in Minneapolis, Minn. The conference was attended by delegate pastors Ole Winter of Good Shepherd in Novato; George O. Loftness of Marin Lutheran in Corte Madera and John Rotto of Christ the Victor in Fairfax. Layman Oliver Berven of Christ the Victor also attending the meeting.

Good Shepherd Lutheran will hold a special "watch-nite" service at 11:30 p.m. tonight to bring in the new year and celebrate the birth of a new church, said Pastor Winter.

The merge will bring 3,520,010 members, four seminaries, 10 colleges, two junior colleges, and four academies into one church.

Pastor Winter said that on a local congregational level he felt the merger would have little affect as far as any changes were concerned.

BIBLICAL TRADITION

"We still hold the traditional evangelical creeds and confessions as an interpretation of the Bible. Each congregation still remains the basic unit in the synod and is independent in handling of congregational affairs," said the pastor.

Rev. Winter explained that on the national and international level the merger would mean a stronger witness for evangelical Lutheranism.

"The only thing that had kept these church bodies apart were the language and tradition barriers of the first few years of migration. These barriers are now largely gone and we could see no reason for not joining to make a more effective witness to the Lord of the Church," said Rev. Winter.

CHURCH BACKGROUND

The Evangelical Lutheran Church began as the Norwegian Synod in 1853; (the) American Lutheran Church with members from Germany began as the Ohio Synod in 1818; and the United Evangelical Lutherand Church is related to Denmark began as the Blair Church in 1884.

Many members hope that by 1962 all Lutheran churches will be members of one of three bodies: The American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America, and the Synodical Conference. Except for the ALC, the names of the unified bodies are only proposals, said Rev. Winter.

Faith Lutheran Church in Mill Valley in the proposed 1962 merger would become a member of the Lutheran Church in America. The Mill Valley church is now in the United Lutheran Church of America which would merge as the LCA. The other four Lutheran Churches in Marin are in the Missouri Synod.

Grace Evangelical Lutheran in Novato; Peace Lutheran in Mill Valley; Resurrection Lutheran in Terra Linda and Trinity Lutheran in San Rafael would become members of the Synodical Conference if recent proposals are accepted.

Professor To Preach To Marin Baptists

Dr. Robert B. Hannan, Professor of Christian Theology at the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School, will be guest preacher tomorrow at the First Baptist Church of Corte Madera.

Dr. Hannan will speak at the 11 a.m. service. At 7:30 p.m. a service sponsored by the Baptist Jubilee Advance committee will be held. Mrs. Warren Holmes and Charles Lytle will be the leaders in the service to "launch a program of evangelism for the new year," announced Pastor Gerald S. Moyer.

New Year's Eve

A midnight service of Holy Communion will be celebrated tonight at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street, San Rafael.

The New Year's Eve service will begin at 11:30 p.m., announced Rev. John Riley, rector.

Guest Preacher

The First Missionary Baptist Church of Marin City will have as guest speaker for the New Year's weekend, Rev. M. L. Louis, recently arrived from Alaska. Evangelist Louis will speak at 11 a.m. tomorrow and serve Holy Communion at a 7:30 p.m. service.

Schedule Change

The Sausalito Presbyterian Church announced it will start at 10 a.m. with Sunday school for younger pupils to begin at 10:30 a.m.

Sermon Title

Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael will tomorrow at 9:30 and 11 a.m. services preach a sermon "Who Dealt This Mess?"

Alcohol Study Set

NEW YORK (AP) —A church-wide study on the problem of alcoholism is scheduled for the coming year by the Methodist Church. The textbook for it is a new book, "Stumbling Block: A Study of Alcohol and Christian Responsibility," by Dr. Douglas Jackson, a professor of sociology at Perkins Theological School, Dallas, Tex.

NO HOLIDAY FOR DEATH

This is the way the New York News is warning its readers of the danger of death on the highways this New Year's weekend. The picture, published on page one of the News yesterday, was taken on the Long Island Expressway, a heavily traveled suburban highway. (AP Wirephoto)

BELGIAN RIOTING CONTINUES

As mounted troopers brandish sabers against demonstrating strikers in Brussels, Premier Gaston Eyskens warned that the country's national life is threatened by the unrest. He said he would never bow to violence. In addition to rioting, hundreds of strikers marched in the streets today in "mourning" for the first casualty in the two-week protest against a government austerity program over loss of revenues from the Congo. (AP Wirephoto)

S.F. Woman 200th Victim Of Gate Span

The Golden Gate Bridge, a favorite of suicide leapers since it was finished more than 20 years ago, has claimed its 200th known victim.

A woman identified as Iva Mazurek, about 40, jumped from the span yesterday as two teen-age boys watched.

The boys, Richard Stephens, 14, and John Pau, 13, both of San Francisco.

"We didn't know what she was doing," Richard said. "All of a sudden she let loose and went over backwards."

Her body dropped 225 feet into San Francisco Bay and disappeared in the wash of a passing ship.

Housewife Asks $25,000; Auto, Cattle Collided

A Petaluma housewife, whose car met stampeding cattle head-on on Highway 101 north of Novato last February, is suing for $25,000 damages for injuries suffered in the collision with the runaway cattle.

Mrs. Aloyse Ann Hibbs, 37, filed the suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court against the owner of the cattle, Lester E. Corda of Petaluma.

Two other motorists, in addition to Mrs. Hibbs, were involved in the smashup on the early morning of Feb. 5, when cattle broke out of a corral near the Sonoma-Marin line and over-ran the highway southbound. The havoc left three cars wrecked, at least two motorists hurt, and a half dozen cows killed or injured.

Flames Damage Home In Bolinas

An oil stove in the home of M. A. Dowdall on Wharf Road, Bolinas, set fire to the kitchen at 11:30 a.m. yesterday and burned through a wall into the adjacent bedroom.

Damage was estimated by firemen at $1,800, mainly in the bedroom.

A brush fire in a eucalyptus grove behind the Bolinas school Thursday burned over an acre and a half, with no property damage.

Vacaville Aide's Hearing Planned

The Department of Corrections will hear the appeal of a Tiburon man who was fired as clinical psychologist at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville about a month ago.

Leon Tabory, 35, of 2441 Paradise Drive, will present his case to the board at 10 a.m. at Vacaville. Hhe was transferred to Vacaville from San Quentin in July.

'Candlelight' Concert Draws High Praise

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Successful beyond the highest hopes of the sponsoring Homestead Valley Improvement Club was last night's first of the series of "Candlelight Concerts" at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley.

Fifteen minutes before the chamber group began its all-Mozart program, the 150 seats at candlelighted tables and 50 along the sidelines were filled, and Mrs. Kurt Schlesinger, club president, regretfully announced many persons were turned away.

Significance of the large turnout was that the Homestead Valley people were right in believing that there is a large potential audience in Marin for high-quality music performed in a relaxed, informal atmosphere.

Presenting the first program in a series of three were five of the 15 musicians making up the "Bach to Mozart" group.

They were oboist Raymond Duste, violinist Everett O'Bannon, violist Mary James, cellist Ellen Dessler, fultist Raymond Fabrizio and his wife Margaret, harpsichordist.

Both from the standpoint of ensemble playing and featured instrument, high point of the program was the quartet for oboe and strings, with Duste's playing of the oboe notable for mellow tone and dexterous technique.

Especially interesting because of its novelty was the last number, the Adagio and Rondo for the Glass Harmonica. The only authentic glass harmonica—glasses filled with water and struck with leather mallets—is in Vienna, so it was not possible to determine whether the harpsichord approximated the intended sound. But there was no question that it was musically effective, accomplished performance by Mrs. Fabrizio.

Thoroughly deserved was the applause received by Mary James and Everett O'Bannon for the G Major duo for violin and viola, which demonstrated technical facility and musical intelligence.

Adding much to the enjoyment were the simple but tasteful decorations in a Japanese theme, and refreshments available before and after the program and during intermission.

The next two concerts will be Jan. 27 and Feb. 24.

CARD OF THANKS

TO ALL MY DEAR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS—may I take this means of expressing to you my heartfelt gratitude for all the kind, wonderful, deeds, messages of sympathy and spiritual help extended to me in my darkest hour. May God bless each and everyone of you.

Sincerely,
ANNA SELMA NABERS

Young Convicts Found In Manhole

Two young convicts trying to escape from San Quentin Prison wound up in a cell far less comfortable than the ones they were trying to flee.

Joseph Stenaker and David Harold Robinson, both 21 and from Los Angeles, were found yesterday in a damp, cramped manhole behind the prison laundry.

Guards said the prisoners apparently didn't know the manhole is one of the first places checked in event of an attempted break.

Belvedere Case Reaches Court

Belvedere's running battle with Belvedere Land Co. for possession of 500 feet on the cove side of Beach Road has reached the courts in the form of condemnation proceedings.

The suit was filed in Marin Superior Court Thursday by attorney William H. MacKay. The city wants to acquire the undeveloped beach front land, a little more than an acre, for public recreational use. The land company, which owns the property, wants to put in apartments.

The suit asks the court to condemn the property for public use and to set an equitable price for the property.

The first woman ever elected to the U. S. Senate was Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway of Jonesboro, Ark., in 1932.

28 YEARS IN SERVICE

San Rafael Colonel Retires From Army

John R. Stickle of 42 Oakmont Avenue, San Rafael, was retired from the Army today with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

An Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service was awarded to him yesterday by the Army Air Defense Sixth Region deputy commander, Col. M. M. Irvine, in ceremonies at Fort Baker.

Prior to his retirement Stickle had served with the Sixth Region Air Defense Command liaison staff in the directorate of plans and programs of headquarters, 28th NORAD Region, Hamilton Air Force Base.

His retirement is after 20 years of active duty and 28 years of association with the army as a reserve officer.

Ten of Stickle's 20 years of active duty were spent overseas, with 44 months in the South Pacific during World War II, three years in Hawaii, and three years in Japan and Korea. He participated in campaigns in the Netherlands East Indies, New Guinea, Luzon, and the southern Philippines during the war, and in Korea during 1952-53.

His awards and decorations include the Purple Heart, the Bronze Star with oak leaf cluster and campaign medals and ribbons for the Asiatic-Pacific campaign, American defense service, Asia campaign, Korean service, United Nations service and Philippine defense and a presidential unit citation.

Belvedere Architect Is Sued For Divorce

Belvedere architect Mario F. Corbett was sued for divorce yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

His fourth wife, Mary Gloria Corbett of 316 Golden Gate Avenue, charges extreme cruelty. Married in 1951, they have one son, aged 4. She says he had agreed to pay $400 per month alimony and child support.

Fairfax Planners Complete Work On Zoning Law

The Fairfax Planning Commission Thursday night completed recommendations on the city's comprehensive zoning ordinance and sent it to the city council for final approval.

According to Chairman D. N. Miller, several changes were made in the original ordinance. "Some of our recommendations were made to correct errors of our own in drawing up the original ordinance," Miller said. "Other changes were recommended on the strength of petitions from residents."

The council sent the ordinance to the planners for recommended changes about three months ago, Miller said. He estimated it would be at least three months before the council approved it for public hearings.

Trustees To Hear Report On Parleys

A report on the recent conventions of the California Assn. of School Board Members and the California Assn. of School Administrators will be given the Lagunitas School District board at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Lagunitas School.

Reporting on the convention, which were held in Long Beach during the first week of December, will be Georgette H. Vilas, clerk of the board.

Also under discussion by the trustees will be a report by the curriculum committee and a progress report on the district building program.

250,000TH I-J CLASSIFIED AD

Cary A. Barford Jr. of Fairfax, who yesterday bought the 250,000th Independent-Journal classified advertisement placed in 1960, is being shown the special proof of his prize-winning ad by Mary Muzinich, classified ad clerk. Barford, who is advertising for a job as chauffeur, was given a check for $50 and a dinner (for him and his wife) at Ondine's Restaurant in Sausalito as an award for being No. 250,000. The sale of the ad marks the first time in the history of the paper that classified ads have hit the quarter-million mark. Last year's classified ads totaled 228,679.

Four Pastors To Ready Merger Declaration

Tomorrow four San Rafael pastors will read from their pulpits a joint declaration formulated by them affirming the recent proposal at the assembly of the National Council of Churches in San Francisco that the Episcopalian, Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian Churches merge.

The four ministers and their churches are Rev. Donald H. Baldwin of the First Methodist Church; Rev. John D. Riley of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; Rev. Wesley C. Baker of the First Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Paul C. R. Peterson of the First Congregational Church.

A first draft of the declaration was read from the pulpit of the Methodist Church by Rev. Baldwin Dec. 18, but a jointly approved and final draft was not released to the Independent-Journal until yesterday.

The joint declaration is as follows:

"As the pastors of four of San Rafael's traditional Protestant parishes, we have met to acknowledge the recent widely-publicized suggestions concerning merger of our four denominations. We feel that although there may be only a small possibility this union can be effected within the next decade, much good can be brought about by conversations among us in this community. We agree with Bishop James Pike in his stand that now is the time for real acts of cooperation to begin on the local level. Since the church-wide denominational negotiations are largely out of our hands, we prefer to focus the attention of our people on the possibilities of a more united spirit in our own town.

"Therefore, we affirm the principle that Christ's disciples are One Body. We believe in the Holy Catholic Church. Our separated sects are 'families' of the Church, incomplete fragments that need, humbly, to remember the whole. We may quite possibly serve certain values and make necessary unique contributions, as denominations, but our total witness is inadequate without each other.

"We commend the high spirit of cooperation and constructive work already seen in the Marin Council of Churches. We propose more vital communications among the churches of San Rafael, mutual support and concern, unity of action on our common problems, respect and honor for our different customs and politics. We invite our parishioners to join us in prayer and work for a relevant Christian service. We want to offer our community a church that proclaims 'One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all'."

Here's Why Children Are Taught To Print Before They Can Write

S.R. "You said children learned to write in the first grade. My girl is in the second grade. All she can do is print. She won't use real handwriting for another year. Why the printing?"

Reply. One reason is that the letters are easier to form. Fine muscle coordination is not needed. The other reason is that the letters in printing are like the letters the children see in books. They don't have to learn two sets of symbols. Cursive writing usually is taught in the second or the third grade. Children make the transition easily.

J.S.N. "We had a program of sex instruction in the sixth grade of our school. Last spring the teacher made several mistakes. She was new and young. She gave some very bad advice to the children. Now school has withdrawn the program How can we get it reinstated?"

Reply. The best place for sex instruction is at home. Schools should undertake the job only when a majority of parents shirk their duty. The instruction should be entrusted solely to experienced, responsible, especially trained teachers. It was wrong to have a new teacher do it. Were the boys and girls separated for the teaching? They should have been. I suggest you form a committee of responsible community leaders. Have the members talk with the school board. Propose that the old program be studied and something better devised.

R.J.M. "Is it true that girls average out as being brighter than boys?"

Reply. No. By our present tests they average out as equal. We have more male than female geniuses. But also there are more males who are mentally retarded. Girls often make superior students because they are better fitted for school temperamentally than boys. But on the average they are no brighter.

Span Director Asks Action On Lateral

Marin Golden Gate Bridge Director Leland S. Murphy urged yesterday that the bridge's building and operating committee "act in the very near future" on a proposal by the Sausalito City Council that an access road be built from the Sausalito lateral to Vista Point.

The city council requested that the Division of Highways make immediate study of such a project and sent a copy of the letter to the bridge board.

Murphy said the bridge board's consideration of such a plan should be done now when plans are being drawn for widening the Marin end of the span.

In other actions yesterday, the bridge directors:

1. Received a letter from the Division of Highways rejecting a bridge request that the state provide sanitary facilities on the Vista Point.

2. Instructed the auditor to make a long-range study of funds which the bridge will need to reinvest. The bridge attorney will report to the board on how 20 million dollars in existing reserves can be preserved for exclusive use on Golden Gate Bridge matters, even if the bridge district were absorbed by an authority or some other state agency.

3. Awarded a contract for 500 gallons of "international orange" top coat paint to De Soto Chemical Coatings Co. of San Francisco, at $2.29 per gallon, three cents less than the preceding purchase two months ago.

Ruling On Culverts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk has ruled that a county is responsible for maintaining bridges or culverts over a canal that crosses a county road, even though the canal may be owned by somebody else. His opinion came in answer to a question from John G. Hauck, district attorney of Sutter County.

Racquet Estates Preview Due

A New Year's preview party will be held on Monday at Rafael Racquet Club Estates in San Rafael, it was announced by Hal Wagner, club director.

Brunch will be served from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. with television provided for football fans. A program of informal tennis will follow

A formal opening of a display home is scheduled for Jan. 8.

'New Board' Will Organize On Monday

First 1961 meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors will be one day ahead of usual schedule, but brief and without agenda—a noon gathering of the "new board" to organize Monday.

Two new members will be sworn in, J. Walter Blair of Mill Valley and George Ludy of Inverness. They replace Mrs. Vera Schultz and James Marshall and will represent South and West Marin respectively.

Election of a new chairman is expected to follow. Probabilities favor replacement of Walter R. Castro of San Rafael, who has held the position for the past six years, by William D. Fusselman of San Anselmo. Fusselman has been on the board since the fall of 1942 and served as chairman in 1953 and 1954.

A routine agenda has been prepared for the regular weekly Tuesday sessions at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. with correspondence occupying much of the morning portion except that unexpected matters have a habit of bobbing up when the chairman invites the public to be heard.

One of the letters to be read is from U. S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel to County Clerk George R. Jones, advising that the General Services Administration has decided to make a total of 299 acres of Marin County fort property available to the state to relieve a situation of "badly-needed additional recreation and park facilities in the vicinity of the Golden Gate."

Kuchel says that the release affects 138 acres at Fort Baker and 161 acres at Fort Cronkhite for 50 per cent of a fair value of $615,000.

Continued matters will occupy much of the afternoon including consideration of the Planning Commission's project for creating planned residential 1 and 2 categories.

NOVATO GOOD SAMARITAN

Mrs. D. M. Brownlee of Novato drove by yesterday to find Samuel Teller, 62, lying on Highway 101 at DeLong Avenue in Novato. She stopped her car, threw her coat over him and comforted him until ambulances arrived. Teller was riding his motorcycle north on Highway 101 about 3 p.m. when it hit the rear of a car. He suffered a fractured left leg and was taken to San Rafael General Hospital. Driver of the car was Michael A. Grahams, of the 78th Air Police, Hamilton Air Force Base.

Transient Loses His Probation

Leo Joseph Johnson, 56-year-old transient who was arrested for drunkenness on the day after Christmas, lost his probation for failing to support his family and was sentenced to serve a month in the county jail by a Marin Municipal court judge yesterday.

Judge Harold J. Haley revoked Johnson's probation which had been in effect since he was convicted for failure to provide in 1956. He had already served five months in jail.

Johnson pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was sentenced to five days in jail to run concurrently with the other sentence.

Corte Madera Council To Meet On Land Sale

The state Division of Highways will sell a parcel of "excess" vacant land at the Corte Madera interchange at auction at 11 a.m. Jan. 26 on the property.

Corte Madera Council will receive notification of the upcoming sale on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The property—slightly more than one acre in size—is in the southeast quadrant of the interchange, between Paradise Drive and the highway.

The state indicated it will start the bidding at $12,500.

The property was the center of a dispute last spring when the state fenced it, preventing commuters from parking there before boarding buses for San Francisco.

The town expressd interest in buying the land, but changed its mind after the state put a $28,000 price tag on it.

The town zoned the property as a low density one family residential district.

Other items on the agenda for the council session: recommendations for an ordinance regulating traffic north of the free standing curb on Tamalpais Drive; report on sanitary facilities in the park sanitary building; resignations of the superintendent of public works, Robert Bartram, and park and recreation commissioner Mort Simon.

Also, public hearing at 8 p.m. on rezoning of a lot in Fifer Industrial Park from industrial to highway commercial (the planning commission recommended denial); report on the Mariners Cove playground project; bids on the new police car.

Car License Fee Is Due, Payable

Your automobile's 1961 license fee is due and payable from Tuesday through Feb. 4.

And it would be a fine idea to pay on time, said manager Olin Hughes of the Marin County office of the Department of Motor Vehicles. If you've not paid by Feb. 4 you will be delinquent and subject to a penalty of up to 100 per cent of the renewal fee.

There will be three places for payment in Marin County, Hughes said. Ofefering all services will be the San Rafael office at 1926 Fourth Street, open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

A special window there will be open most of each day for fast servicing of pre-punched cards renewing last year's registrations.

This office will also deal with transfers, out-of-state registration changes and other situation where the applicant doesn't have a pre-punched card such as that he had one but lost it.

Winter Playground Program Opens In San Rafael Tuesday

The San Rafael Recreation Department will open its winter playground program Tuesday with intermural basketball and a special yo-yo tournament.

Playgrounds will be supervised from 3 to 5 p.m. on the following schedule: Monday—Coleman, Sun Valley; Tuesday—Hartzell, Short; Wednesday—McPhail, E Street School; Thursday—West End, San Pedro and Friday — McPhail and Laurel Dell. Albert Park will be supervised during the week from 4 to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Preliminary yo-yo competition will begin during the second week in January. Tournament winners will compete in regional championships.

Saturday physical fitness program featuring trampoline and tumbling for boys and modern dance for girls will be held at San Rafael High School from 9 a.m. to noon. Meeting times will be 9 a.m., 11 and 12 year olds; 10 a.m., nine and 10 year olds, and 11 a.m., seven and eight year olds.

Basketball leagues of boys between 12 and 18 years old will start competition Jan. 9 at the Davidson School gymnasium. A program of basketball practice for teen-age boys will begin Jan. 7 from 1 to 4 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

Three adult basketball leagues including an open league for teams from outside the county will play on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

A program of badminton for adults will be held Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Davidson School gymnasium.

Tiburon Pilot Freed Of Charge

A Tiburon bar pilot, accused of hitting his woman companion in the jaw last Monday night in Tiburon, was freed Thursday in Marin Municipal court without a formal charge.

Judge Harold J. Haley freed Capt. Willis Jennings Fowler, 60, of 2125 Paradise Drive on the recommendation of the district attorney.

Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarino said the woman, Mrs. Betty Lois Nichols, 31, who arrested him on a citizen's warrant that night, does not want to sign a formal complaint.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Farewell To Old, Welcome To Two New Supervisors

Monday at noon, two old supervisors will step down from posts they have held for years. And two new ones will be sworn in, along with "the old pro" himself, Bill Fusselman.

Being a county supervisor is no easy task. Even those of us who closely follow the activities of the board, don't really appreciate the constant service, continual demands, and regular abuse to which a supervisor is subjected.

It is our observation that being a supervisor is the most difficult of all political positions. You are making decisions of countywide importance and you are right on hand to take the brunt of any displeasure in John Public. You meet him on the street or in the restaurant; he's waiting for you outside the supervisor's chambers or lurking on your telephone. There is no escape to a quiet office in Washington or Sacramento. There is no hiding behind the fact you are only one of 40 state senators, 80 state assemblymen or 437 congressmen. You are one of five supervisors and your voice and influence have great influence in the county and practically every decision makes someone unhappy.

Mrs. Vera Schultz and James Marshall, who step out of their jobs Monday, have faithfully and conscientiously carried out their duties as supervisors. They have devoted unlimited time and effort to the task, far beyond that which would normally be expected.

We have not always agreed with them nor they with us. But we believe they have honestly and thoughtfully voted their convictions based on their understanding of the good of the people of Marin. They have our hearty thanks for their hard and dedicated work.

And to our two new supervisors, J. Walter Blair and George Ludy, we offer a warm welcome and our full cooperation. We do not always expect to agree with them either. And we are certain they will not always agree with us.

But if we can understand that each in his own way wants only the best for Marin County and its residents, we're sure that we all can work together to that end.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the Old Year, which brought us neither war nor want, And BOUQUETS to the New Year, which we pray will bring peace and happiness.

BOUQUETS to two Mill Valley men who are stepping out of public life after devoting many months and years to their city: Robert W. Graver, traffic expert of the planning commission, responsible for the North Miller Avenue and many other useful studies, and Charles Guichard of the parks and recreation commission, called the "father" of the pending Mill Valley small crafts harbor.

BRICKBATS to parents who have children with new bb-guns and who have not taught the children how to use them or, more important, how not to use them. Broken street lights, car windows, and other shattering objects suffer the most.

A BOUQUET to Joel Y. Rickman, able publicity director of the Redwood Empire Assn. since 1954, who retires from the job tonight.

A BOUQUET, too, for Albert Carpenter of Terra Linda, whose quick thinking and action efficiently removed a Kent Woodlands girl from the shattered windshield of her car.

And a BOUQUET to Santa Claus—he did good.

A BOUQUET to honest Gerald Drew of San Rafael who found $482.32 on the street and took it into the police station for return to its rightful owner, bar operator Wayne Brooks.

A BOUQUET to KTIM radioman Ollie Freeman for his successful campaign to raise $3,000—he got $4,300—to furnish proper medical care for a 3-year-old girl with a serious internal malfunction.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

NO TIME TO SPARE

"Do not squander time, for that is the stuff of which life is made," is an old saying of Benjamin Franklin that deserves to be placarded on every billboard in the country.

Persons who look for ways to "kill time" are seldom found among the alert, the forward-looking or the happy. Those who are busy fulfilling the responsibilities of their homes, jobs, classwork, organizations and of public affairs experience the true joy of living.

You live only once. God gives you only one appearance on the stage of life to prove that you love Him and others as yourself. Make every minute and hour count therefore, and pack as much good as you can into the short span alloted you before eternity.

Reflect often on those lines, "I shall pass through this life but once. And good, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now. Let me not defer it nor neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

"All things have their season, and in their times all things pass under heaven."
(Ecclesiastes 3:1)

Grant me the vision and wisdom, O Holy Spirit, to use all my time in a way that will count for all eternity.

SLOW IN SOUTH

School Integration Edges Upward In '60

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Public school integration in 17 Southern states and the District of Columbia edged upward in the fall of 1960, but the gains were mostly in border states rather than the "deep South."

Statistics published this month by the non-partisan Southern School News showed that of 3,097,534 Negro school children enrolled in originally all-segregated school districts, 195,625, or 6.3 per cent, were attending classes with white children when the fall term opened in 1960.

The previous school year ended with a total Negro enrollment of 3,020,727, with 181,020 or 6 per cent, in integrated classes.

ACCORDING TO the survey, 191,349, or nearly all, of the integrated Negro students are concentrated in the District of Columbia and six border states. The District of Columbia has the highest rate of integration, with all schools desegregated and 84.1 per cent of the Negro pupils actually attending classes with white pupils.

Others are West Virginia, with 66.6 per cent of the Negro students attending racially mixed classes; Delaware, 44.7 per cent; Missouri, 41.7 per cent; Kentucky, 38.9 per cent; Oklahoma, 24 per cent; and Maryland, 20.9 per cent.

However, these states account for only 14 per cent of the total Southern Negro enrollment.

IN THE REMAINING Southern states, integration remains non-existent or mainly token.

Texas, with 3,500, or 1.2 per cent of its Negro students attending desegregated classes, leads the group. Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina, with 36 per cent of the Southern Negro enrollment, as yet have integrated none of their schools. Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia together have 776 Negroes attending integrated classes out of a total Negro enrollment of 2,663,520.

Following are some recent developments in states affected by the school desegregation question:

ARKANSAS — Voters Nov. 8 turned down by a three-to-one vote a state constitutional amendment, supported by Gov. Orval E. Faubus (D), which would have allowed schools to be closed to avoid integration.

DELAWARE — The Third Circuit Court of Appeals Aug. 29 struck down the state's "grade - a - year" integration plan as not meeting the requirement of "all deliberate speed" laid down by the Supreme Court in its historic 1954 desegregation decision. An appeal of the Aug. 29 action was pending before the Supreme Court.

FLORIDA — The number of Negroes in "desegregated" classes dropped from 512 in the 1959-60 school year to 27 this year when the lone white student dropped out of the Orchard Villa School, Miami. This left the state with only one desegregated school, also in Miami.

GEORGIA—A U.S. District Court has ordered Atlanta's schools integrated by May 1, 1961, but state authorities were doubtful the necessary administrative actions would be completed before September.

MISSISSIPPI—Voters Nov. 8 ratified a constitutional amendment making it discretionary rather than mandatory for the state legislature to provide free public schools.

LOUISIANA—In the first desegregation of schools in the deep South, four Negro girls are attending two New Orleans elementary schools in the face of mob violence, a white boycott and efforts by the state legislature to block the integration program. The Negro pupils entered the classes Nov. 14 as the first step in a "grade-a-year" program.

TENNESSEE—The Chattanooga Board of Education was ordered by a U. S. District Court to produce a desegregation plan by Dec. 20. Tennessee now has 342 of its 19,644 Negro students attending integrated classes.

Two Men Move To Capital For 6 Months

By CHAPIN A. DAY

CHIP DAY

This weekend we lose two prominent Marin County residents for six months —lose them, that is, except on weekends.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman-elect William T. Bagley move to Sacramento for the 1961 session of the State Legislature.

On Monday, a legal holiday, they will be sworn in, McCarthy for four more years, Bagley for two. The Senate and the Assembly will organize for the year and then report to the governor that they are ready to do the business of the state.

RIGHT HERE THEY run into trouble. Big question is, will Gov. Edmund G. Brown be on hand to be so notified. He must be in Los Angeles that morning to open the Rose Festival. We'd bet a wet soda cracker he'd rather remain in Los Angeles to see the Rose Bowl game than to fly back to Sacramento to receive the committees which will tell him the legislature is organized.

One thing is sure, he won't give his opening day address to the legislature until Tuesday. After all, the legislators would like to watch the game on television if they can't be there. And it is expected there will be a number of legislative seats vacant opening day, especially from the Southern California solons.

THIS DILEMMA doesn't face many governors. It only happens every 22 years; last in 1939, next in 1983. The legislature, by constitutional law, must open on the first Monday after the first Sunday in January in the odd numbered years. In the even numbered years, only a budget session is held, opening in February.

California law provides the different types of sessions because not too many years ago California operated on a two-year state budget and the legislature had to meet only once every two years.

Now, since 1948, the state has operated on a one-year budget, forcing the legislature to meet annually to pass it. However, in a budget session, in even numbered years, no other matters but budgetary matters can be considered.

THIS REGULATION has been by-passed slightly by calling special sessions to run concurrently with the budget session. This year there were two such specials at the same time as the budget session. In special sessions only topics put on the special cali by the governor can be considered.

But in general sessions, such as now face the solons, the sky is the limit; anything can be considered. In its second year, 1957, the lawmakers introduced more than 7,000 measures, although less than half of them were passed. Last year 4,805 measures were introduced in the two houses of the legislature and Governor Brown signed 2,195 of them into new law.

BAGLEY, TAKING over a seat occupied for 20 years by Richard H. McCollister, now a lobbyist, will have to wait and see what committee assignments he draws. He's asked for six and hopes to be appointed to three or four of them.

McCarthy, Republican leader in the Senate, seems reassured of reappointment to the powerful, five-man Senate Rules committee, of which he is now vice chairman, and to most of the same committees on which he served last year, Business and Professions, Finance, Governmental Efficiency, Natural Resources and Transportation.

Both of them are going to be mighty busy boys for the next few months.

ONE THING the people of Stinson Beach should watch closely is the new five-year plan of the State Division of Beaches and Parks. The division, which for years has opposed beach camping of any kind, and has time and again indicated Stinson Beach sho indicated Stinson Beach should have no such camping, apparently is changing its mind.

We're told the new plan especially stresses beach camping and that the division will urge placement of camping facilities on upland areas of beach parks.

This should be ideal for Stinson Beach-Tamalpais State Park, which now are connected along the coast and up Steep Ravine.

10 YEARS AGO

H. A. Summers, advance planning engineeer for the State Division of Highways, said that by present financing arrangements it would take 15 to 17 years to complete a six-lane Highway 101 freeway from San Rafael to the Golden Gate Bridge as Marin's share of gas tax money has been amounting to about $800,000 a year and the work will take 14 to 15 million dollars.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

I-J Should Stick To Gardening News

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have just read your Dec. 28 editorial urging that lay people be placed on state boards in the State Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, and I am fully convinced that you have not bothered to think the matter through or were just trying to fill up paper space on a tiresome day following holiday activities.

Your argument that the public is stuck with what a state board, such as the pharmacy board, decides is totally void since these boards do not have the power to pass laws. They may make recommendations, but only the legislature can change these recommendations into law; and even you must concede that the legislature is chosen by the people.

Secondly, if you will inquire into the functions of these boards, you will find the principal function of these boards is to examine and pass on the qualifications of the men and women serving in the professions. Do you honestly believe a lay person would be qualified to give a surgeon an examination on—for example—the proper method of suturing a heart valve, or question a lawyer on interpretation of contract law, or query a pharmacist on organic medicinal chemistry? Would you have our teachers examined by our trash collectors?

'Twould be better to fill your editorial space with level headed gardening news such as when to plant a calla lily in Marin—you're less apt to go astray there.

(NOTE: Such boards do not pass laws, but they pass rules and regulations and codes which have the effect of law.)

Special Election Wasting Money

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

As a resident of Terra Linda, and, more particularly, as a taxpayer of Marin County, I am writing to protest the proposed special election to be held on the issue of recreation.

The proponents of recreation have advised that the bonding attorneys have stated that recreation bonds are unsaleable as long as annexation proceedings are pending. To hold a special election in view of this situation would be an unjustiified waste of taxpayers' money.

As more fully appeared in the Dec. 17 edition of the Journal, San Rafael has already scheduled a comprehensive recreation program for Terra Linda which would appear to refute the "dire necessity" for immediate recreation so vehemently urged by recreation's proponents.

The records of the proceedings of the City Council of San Rafael clearly show that a substantial number of Terra Linda residents indicated a desire to be annexed some time ago. It now appears that the efforts of a "dedicated" few have been directed to the sole end of depriving these people of exercising their right of franchise.

If thisis not correct, then why are the proponents of recreation afraid to put the matter to a vote?

Let the people, not the "boys in the back room" decide!

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

Holidays Make Even A Columnist Mellow, Joyous, Full Of Good Cheer

This is the season of the year which makes men mellow, joyous and full of good cheer.

Even me.

It is the time of year during which we forget our pet hates and peeves. Such as book burners.

Strangely, I feel myself becoming so mellow I might even cast my lot with those who would rid the worlds' selves of objectionable books. That is, if they will promise to concentrate their torches on such nothing "literature" as Reader's Digest condensed versions of the classics. And Joyce Kilmer's "Trees."

I even find a warm spot in my heart for American car dealers, new and used. My feeling was especially toasty the other night during our foggy cold snap, when a friend suggested we ride to the city in his car instead of my somewhat draughty MG. I was, in fact, downright happy to ride in his over-sized, over-stuffed, over-powered, over-automatic, over-heated, over-priced station wagon.

My forgiveness even reaches to the predatory department stores, many of which were kind enough to extend me E-Z terms to help me over the Yule hurdle.

I forgive them their part, along with the help of the Madison Avenue brains, in making it immoral not to go in hock for the coming 12 months. After all, it was fun.

City councilmen and planning commissioners, often targets of my spleen, appear as fine fellows indeed during this season of good cheer.

I promise all of them that during the coming year I will feel no bitterness toward their sometimes idiotic sign ordinances—if they will only join me in my private campaign to rid the county of those gruesome phonetic-type signs which read: Kozy Kumfort Korp., etc. Not to mention that cryptic phrase stenciled in large white letters along the highways which say: "XING PED."

Nor can I work up any animosity toward those schoolteachers who still cling to that medieval form of discipline which leads them to force their misbehaving pupils to write, 1,000 times, "I will henceforth play in my own play area." I am sure the youngsters will learn in spite of them.

There even must be some good in those property owners and real estate dealers who would limit their property to white, Aryan, blue-eyed Anglo-Saxons.

From where I sit, it looks like a good new year, and to all of you I say, as Pogo might (see I-J comics): May your halls be decked with Boston Charlie from now until 1962 —and thenceforth.

And, in the words of the National Safety Council, have a happy, safe, sane New Year's Eve.

Personally, I intend to stay home and curl up with an objectionable book.

TRY AND STOP ME

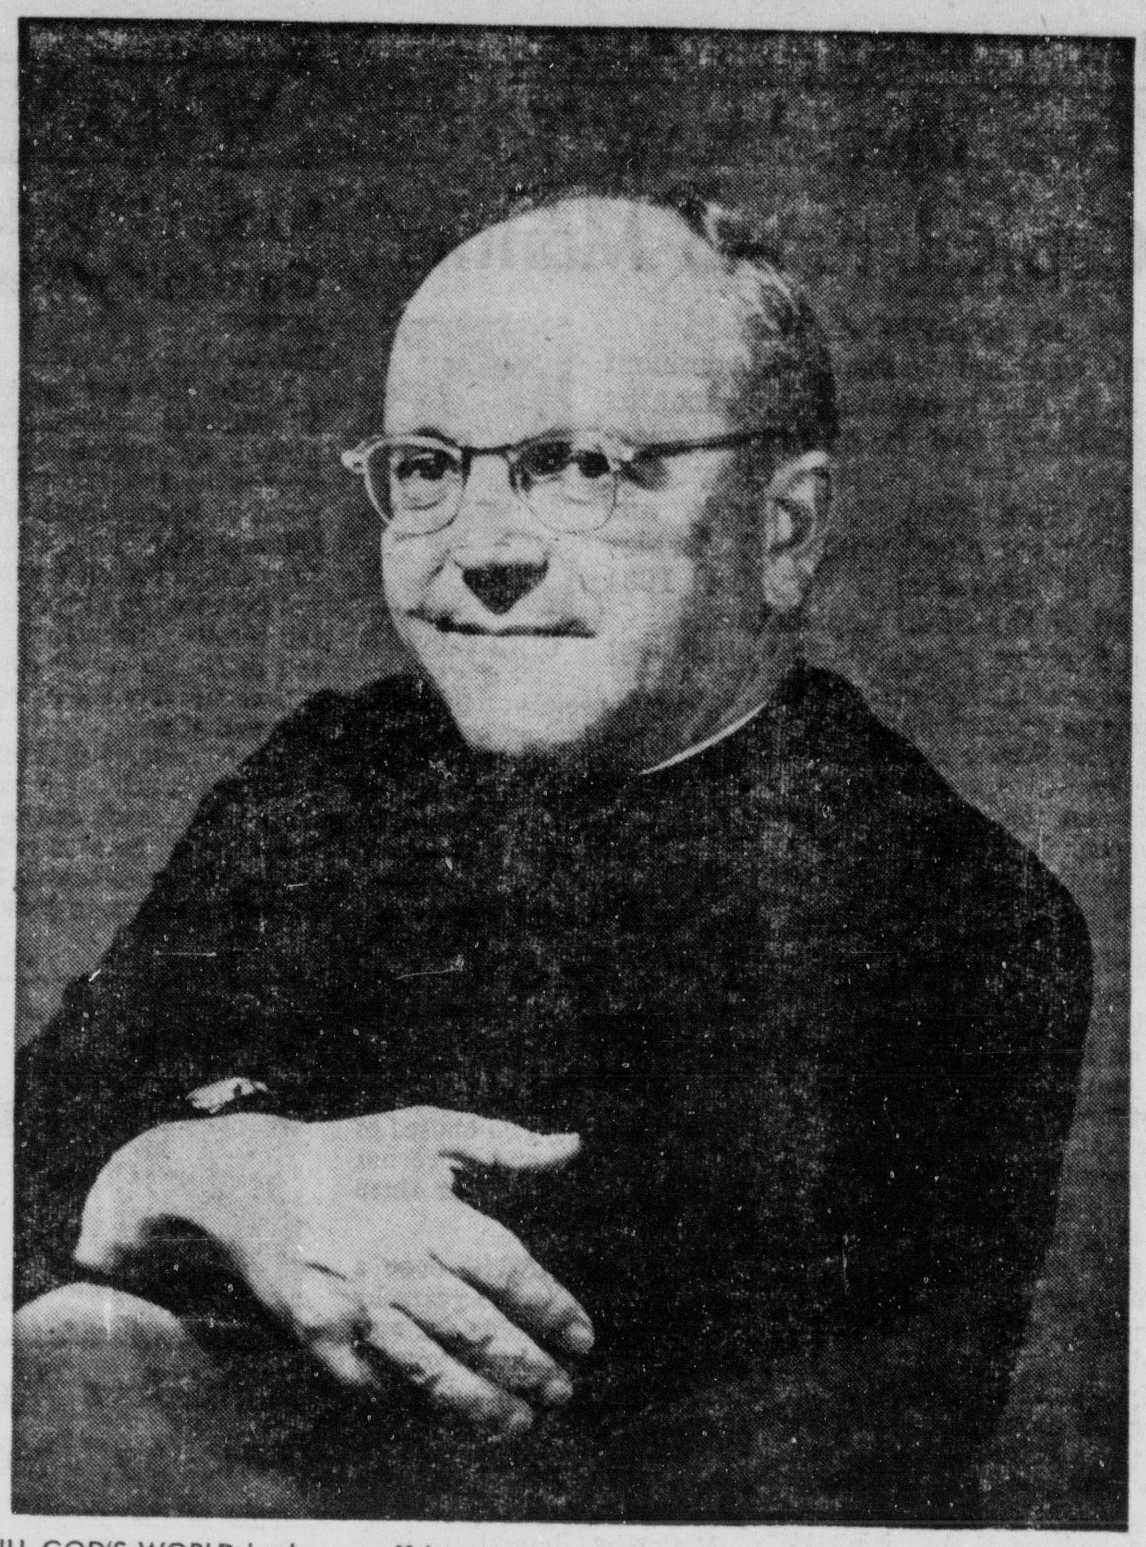
BENNETT CERF

If Swingin' Sam Snead ever loses his superb golfing touch, he can always make a good living out of telling stories on TV a la George Burns or Herb Shriner.

Snead swears he was matched against a gorilla one day. The gorilla wore plus fours, a fancy golf shirt and cap, and watched calmly while Snead boomed a drive 260 yards down the first fairway, approached, then took two putts for a regulation par. The gorilla's 380-yard drive, however, left him right on the apron of the green. He studied the lay of the green carefully, moistened finger to test the wind, then thoughtfully pulled a putter out of his bag.

"You know what that gorilla did then?" avers Snead. "He took a nice, smooth swing with that putter — and smacked his putt another 380 yards!"

New Year's Eve Message To The People Of Marin



"WILL GOD'S WORLD be better off because of our lives in 1961?" That is the question which the Very Rev. Edward H. Donze, S. M., S. T. D., S. S. L., superior of the San Francisco Vice-Province of the Society of Mary, poses to the people of Marin County in his New Year's Eve message written from his office at the Marist Fathers' St. Peter Chanel Seminary in San Rafael. It is, Father Donze tells us on this page, the responsibility of each and every one of us during 1961 to see that the answer to his question is "Yes."

Marinites, like others will greet its arrival in many ways.

Some will be comfortably in their beds asleep when the old year checks out. Others will be taking part in gala celebrations in nightclubs, theaters or private homes. Still others will attend more sedate but no less joyous watch parties in the churches of their choice. And many will be seated in the warmth of the fireplace of their own homes when 1961 arrives.

But Father Edward H. Donze tells us in the message appearing on this page, written for you at the request of the Marin Magazine, that no matter where or how we greet the arrival of the new year, there is one thing we can all do in common:

We can each and everyone of us vow to dedicate ourselves for 1961 to making this world a better, richer place in which to live for ourselves, our children, our fellow mankind, and for generations yet to come.

By the VERY REV. EDWARD H. DONZE
Superior of the San Francisco Vice-Province of the Society of Mary

Is God giving us another year to live in His world? We cannot be sure, but most of us are probably taking this more or less for granted. This is an opportunity and a responsibility.

Will His world be better off because of our life in 1961? The whole world in some measure is affected by our daily living.

Atomic bombs are tested in desert regions or in some small island far off in the ocean. The effect for miles around is tremendous. It could start a tidal wave that would roll up on shores thousands of miles away. There might be a fallout that would reach millions of people who were never aware of the explosion.

In a smaller way every time I move my hand, every time I breathe I affect physically the whole universe. My movements disturb the air around me. This affects the areas contiguous to it. Since the universe is physically bound together, there is set up an endless chain of action and reaction. This would be infinitesimal even at a short distance, but it is real.

IN THE REALM of the spirit we cannot isolate ourselves. Of necessity our living is going to affect those who are now in the world and those who will come hereafter. In society we are all dependent upon one another. Our living in some way affects the whole society of men.

A man's life jostles those of countless other men and women in the course of his living, and with concrete results for good or for evil. No man comes to the end of his days devoid of influence on the lives of others; in this sense no man lives alone, no life is a purely private affair. The number of those we have pushed toward heaven or turned towards hell is known only to God; a secret whose very existence is for our caution and our comfort for it leaves us with never an excuse either for presumption or discouragement. The results in others are indirect effects from our lives; echoes of our living ring down the valleys of the lives of others like the voices of distant bells, quietly, impartially, implacably reaching out to the most secluded, almost forgotten hamlets of men.

Our lives sweep through the lives of other men and women like wind over the waters of the sea, whipping up waves that lash their ways to distant shores. Our kindness, a sympathetic word from our lips are seen and heard, imitated, and in turn are fresh breezes dissipating the selfishness in other lives. Our sins are seen, heard of, suffered; then spread like a corrupting plague.

All this is no small part in the fate of the human world. For all its indirectness, it is by no means ineffective. By it holy men have renewed whole cities, and the vicious have corrupted whole communities; of the two, the victims of vice have won more numerous imitators, for the roads they travel are so much easier in their beginnings.

THERE IS AN enticement, quite aside from mere example, that beckons from one life with a depth and extent of appeal beyond the realization of the man who so draws others to goodness. The perfume of a holy life, the wholesome happiness of innocence, the strong serenity carved in the face of the man who has dared to be good, the quiet happiness of an unselfish woman—all these are a parade of goodness, lovableness, of happiness before hearts hungry for just such things. Their allure awakens at least a nostalgia in the most hardened men, and often enough lights a roaring fire in the greenest wood.

Even secret thoughts of humility or hidden feelings of envy help form, for good or bad, the character that will be reflected in human relations.

The world of 1961 will be different because we have lived in it. May God be pleased with the difference.

Meet Marin's Mr. District Attorney

He's Champion Of Justice, And Of The Forty-Niners

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin's Dist. Atty. Roger Patrick Garety, 40, is known as a deliberate and thoroughly prepared prosecutor when he walks into court as the people's representative against crime.

In the courthouse, men look up to him as the champion of justice.

But outside court, he is perhaps just as well known as a man devoted to his family and church and genuinely interested in the welfare of neighbors, friends and the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Here is a typical American citizen, devoted to the important job he holds, who just as thoroughly enjoys mingling with the crowd to "oh" and "ah" the fortunes of his favorite team or boo the referee.

IN SHORT, here is a D.A. who is completely human, who feels he is no better and no worse than the man next door. He carries the people's case to the jury solemnly and with dignity. And on a weekend, he is not too proud to slip on a sport shirt, munch on a hotdog and yell himself hoarse at the stadium.

For Garety, mingling with the crowd is no effort. Born south of Market in San Francisco, he played football with the kids, rubbed elbows with stevedores and postal workers, fought in Europe and the Philippines with GI buddies, and met his girl while working as soda jerk at Camp Curry in Yosemite.

He can't begin to trace his ancestry back to the Mayflower, and even if he could, he is the type who would not try. He is not the big official who condescends to ingratiate himself with the masses. As soon as Garety steps out of his role as D.A., he is there among the masses. No handshaking and no backslapping is needed for that transition from prosecutor to the man-next-door.

Sure, he happens to know Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown personally. But this came quite by accident. Just out of law school, Garety was pounding the pavements of San Francisco looking for a job when a friend introduced him to a lawyer, a complete stranger, who in turn recommended him to Governor Brown, the then district attorney.

Garety has other friends too. One of them sends him a Christmas card every year—from behind the walls of Folsom Prison where Garety sent him. He is James Silva, a convict from Los Angeles who was prosecuted in Marin for stabbing a fellow inmate several years ago.

GARETY, THEN deputy D.A., teamed up with former Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich to convict Silva and send him to Condemned Row. But when the governor commuted the death sentence of another man, Garety and Weissich went to Sacramento and convinced the governor that Silva was even more entitled to clemency.

Silva now lives behind walls without possibility of parole, but he still remembers the men who fought hard to convict him, then fought just as hard to save him from the gas chamber.

Most of Garety's ancestors came from Ireland, and one from Australia. Both his mother and father were native San Franciscans. His father, Leo J. Garety, passed away a year ago, after working for 30 years in the purchasing department and commissary at Lagunda Honda Home in San Francisco.

Roger Garety attended St. Ignatius High where he played football and served as student body president. His first football game, by coincidence, was played against a Marin team at San Rafael.

"The coach put me in at center," he recalls. "The first ball I centered sailed over the head of the receiver."

"The coach then decided to put me in where I wouldn't have to handle the ball as often," he chuckles. Thereafter, he played guard for three years.

At University of Santa Clara, Garety did some boxing, but he did even better academically. He graduated as valedictorian of his class in 1942.

It was during his college years that he jerked sodas at Camp Curry. Working next door at the curio shop was a University of California coed, Bonnie J. Smith of Oakland.

In August of 1942 he married Bonnie.

THEY NOW have three children: Denise Elizabeth, 12; Roger Leo, 10; and Richard Patrick, 2½. They live at 24 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael.

Shortly after his marriage and while waiting for the Army to grab him, Garety went to work on the docks, pushing freight. He joined the Army as private in 1942 and came out a captain after serving in Europe and the Philippines.

He won his law degree from University of San Francisco in 1948. Then came his first big break when he joined the district attorney's staff under Pat Brown in San Francisco, followed by private practice.

The Marin D.A. in 1951 was Richard M. Sims, now judge of Marin Superior Court. Sims had been one of Garety's instructors at USF. Sims asked Garety if he wanted a job in Marin as a deputy D.A. That was in January of 1951, and the Garetys have adopted Marin as their home ever since.

In 10 years, Garety has piled up a long list of accomplishments, both as lawyer and as layman. He is the one who prosecuted and convicted four auto salesmen in 1957 for fraud and misrepresentation in the county's longest trial ever. Never before, and never since, has a Marin County jury been locked up overnight. That jury was locked for two nights during deliberations.

In 1956, Garety was elected president of the California Junior Bar Assn., and this year the Marin County Bar Assn. named him president for 1961.

In 1959, Garety, a Democrat, was prominently mentioned as a candidate for municipal court judge. But he withdrew his name from contention in favor of succeeding Weissich as district attorney. This he did last Aug. 1.

WHY DID HE give up what appeared to be a good chance for judgeship? "Having served in the district attorney's office for such a long time, it was a challenge to find out if I could take over the top job," Garety explains.

At the moment, Garety has no political ambitions. "My present aim is to do a good job as district attorney, and what the future would hold otherwise, I wouldn't attempt to predict."

Outside the courthouse, his other interests are wide and varied, and the list too long to mention in detail.

In church circles, he is known as a layman leader in such activities as the St. Raphael's Fund Drive, Catholic Youth Organization, and the Serra Club.

He was Easter Seal Campaign chairman for 1960, has been active in the American Red Cross and United Crusade, and is on the board of directors of the Hanna Center for Boys.

He belongs to the Marin County Peace Officers Assn., Kiwanis Club, and is one of the enthusiastic group which turns out en masse as the loudest, if not the best organized, cheering group for the Firty-Niners.

Garety goes in for water skiing, but his wife is the snow ski enthusiast of the family.

Their youngest son Richard arrived during the heydey of 49er backfield star Dicky Moegle. Before the baby's arrival, close friends would kiddingly ask Bonnie how Dicky was doing. And when the stork did arrive, the nurse asked Bonnie what she would name the boy.

THERE WAS NO hesitation as Bonnie replied: "Why Dicky of course." And the name stuck.

A tragedy in the lives of the Garetys was the sudden loss of their eldest daughter, Sheila Katherine. In 1958, at the age of 14, Sheila succumbed to brain tumor.

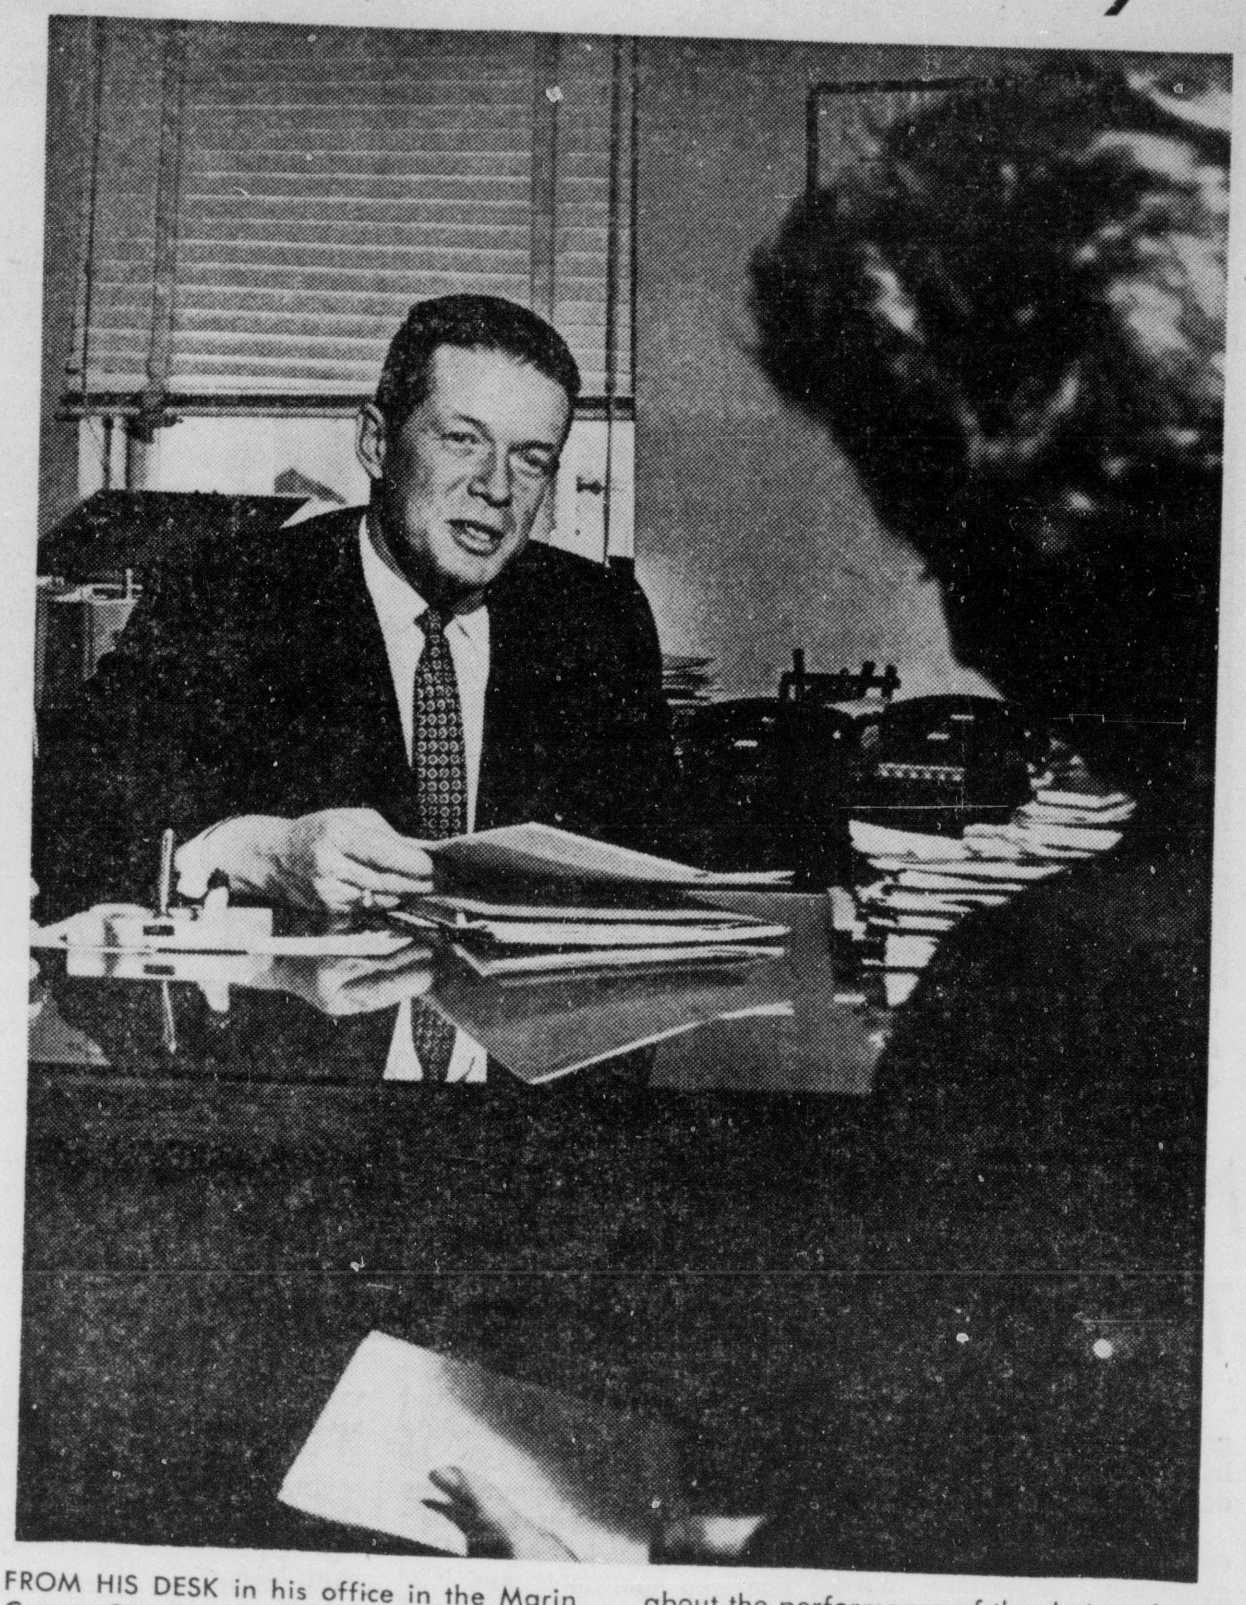
Otherwise, life in their adopted county has been a pleasant one for the Garetys.

In almost every jury trial, several jurors excuse themselves because they know Roger as a friend, neighbor, or through association in civic or fraternal groups.

In the courtroom, Garety is always a gentleman, who argues with a warmth of feeling. When his temper flares, as it sometimes does, you see no display of histronics, but a man of strong conviction boiling in righteous anger.

When the battle is over, win, lose or draw, the defendant knows he has felt the wrath of an earnest man who is out to do justice to both him and to society.

Both he and society respond to the warmth of the man. In courthourse corridors, streets, and from behind the walls of Folsom, they wish "Roger" and his family a happy new year.



FROM HIS DESK in his office in the Marin County Courthouse, Dist. Atty. Roger Patrick Garety dictates to a secretary as he goes about the performance of the duties of one of Marin's most important public offices. Garety has been the Marin D. A. since last Aug. 1. (Independent-Journal photo)

Now There's Even A Machine That Will Pack Your Dishes

Add one more task to the growing list of once arduous hand jobs which can now be done by machine.

You—or rather, your mover—can now pack your dishes, glassware, silverware and bric-a-brac by machine.

It's all done with a portable machine, about the size and weight of an apartment-sized refrigerator, which can be brought right into your home and which will operate on any 110 or 120 volt circuit. One man can operate it, and it is mobile enough to be moved from room to room.

It employs heat and vacuum to enclose the dishes or other articles in a thermoplastic film.

The tight-fitting and tough plastic skin will protect even the most delicate items after they are then sealed to a corrugated backing board and placed in the packing box.

Advantages include the elimination of the paper mess associated with packing and unpacking, cleanliness for the articles shipped, elimination of silverware tarnish, and a saving in space and cost for the shipper since more items can be packed in a given-sized container.

Packaged items remain visible to the housewife.

And, it is claimed, there is less possibility of breakage, or of loss of small items.

Crockett Van and Storage Inc. of San Rafael was the first to introduce the new machine and service to Marin. Since then, at least one other moving firm has also acquired such a machine. And the time may not be too distant when most or all movers will be performing what was once a time-consuming, laborious hand task faster and more efficiently by machine.

A PLAYFUL Beasley teases Mrs. Endicott a bit with the prospect that her dishware might be smashed. But the pieces are held securely by the tough transparent covering and in no danger of falling to the floor.

"Can Christmas Bubble Light Stains Be Removed?"

You are in for disappointment if you have fluid from a bubble-light on a fabric, especially if that fabric contains acetate. Occasionally these ornaments will break and stain upholstery, a dress, a rug or other fabric. They contain methylene chloride which is colored with an oil-soluble type of dye. It is a very volatile solvent for acetate. Consequently, when this liquid contacts any fabric containing acetate, it damages the fabric and removes the dyestuff. No matter how much of a miracle-man your drycleaner may be, there is nothing he can do about such damage.

Your best action is prevention. Be careful that these gay lights are not broken. If they do break, make every effort to contain the fluid in a receptacle or cloth which you will throw away.

Another stain impossible to remove from acetate fabrics is liquid lipstick. This type of lipstick appears like finger-nail polish stains and is most difficult to remove from any fabric and impossible from acetates.

Look out for children's plastic ballons, too. When a gaily-colored balloon of plastic bursts, and they do, a gummy mass results. Your cleaner must use oleic acid and benzol to remove this stain. Ordinary solvents won't do. Christmas is a gay and exciting season, but it can result in heartbreak when the festivities soil a prized garment. Take the soiled fabric to your professional drycleaner at once. Tell him what happened. He'll do his best to save it for you.

IN NEXT WEEK'S MAGAZINE—

CERTAINLY ONE of the best known craft to frequent the waters of the Bay is the Blue Spirit. Legally, she is the property of the Russ Lewis family of Sausalito. But actually every person, including hundreds of Marinites, who have made a "voyage" aboard the trim excursion boat feels a sense of ownership. The Blue Spirit is the boat which carries them when they wish to show visiting guests the bridges and other sights of the Bay. Or which takes them on weekend outings to Angel Island. Your Marin Magazine will tell you about the Blue Spirit—and the Russ Lewises—next week.

Looking Back Upon Past Year As Editor Of Your Marin Magazine

THIS ISSUE marks the completion of our first full year as editor of your Independent-Journal Marin Magazine. And, if you will pardon us for getting a bit personal, it's been one of the most pleasant, most rewarding, and busiest years of our life.

We've been a general reporter, a police reporter, a makeup editor, a wire editor, a sports editor, a courthouse reporter, a city editor, a copy editor, and a small daily managing editor. And we've always enjoyed newspaper work of any kind.

But editing a weekend newspaper supplement such as your Marin Magazine is easily the most interesting assignment we have yet undertaken.

Probably it is the diversity of activities that makes it so.

There are, of course, the feature stories covering a wide assortment and variety of activities, people and things in Marin. Some we write ourselves. Others come in from a number of sources for copy editing. But in every case, before the story reaches print, we have developed a feeling of kinship with the subjects. And so every week we grow more and more a Marinite, proud of our county and its people, interested in acquiring more and more information about it and passing it on to you.

Then there are our auxiliary duties: The reading and reviewing of books. Our contacts with the people who are responsible for Marin's vigorous cultural life — the little theater groups, the concert series programs, etc.

We are privileged to visit and bring to you in pictures some of Marin's finest gardens and homes.

We compile the Marin Datebook, which we hope will be used more and more by you in selecting your entertainment. We hope the wide variety of activities it lists will at least drive home the point that you do not have to drive across the bridge to attend a play or hear music or folk or square dance. Marin itself is home base for some very fine entertainment.

We've been faced with the necessity of editing a number of special editions on subjects upon which we were not always even a little bit informed. But in so doing, we have gained an insight and appreciation of those fields, and next time around we will be in a better position to do them justice.

But best of all, our job has brought us into contact with scores of other Marin residents, many of them now personal friends. Some we've met in the course of putting together stories for the magazine. Others have been kind enough to call personally or by telephone to offer constructive criticism of or commendation for the Marin Magazine and the course it has taken during the past year. That interest is most appreciated.

The Marin Magazine has grown in size during the past year. We hope it has also improved in quality. That is as it should be, for Marin deserves a better and better product.

Certainly it is our pledge to you that in 1961 we will strive to give you a more interesting, more entertaining, more enlightening magazine.

To do that, of course, we will need the continued assistance of those who have helped us so much in 1960. Writers like Dorothy Slattery and Elizabeth Johnston who spend their own off-work hours putting together feature stories simply because they like to write. And photographers like I-J staffers Dick Steinheimer and Bob Hax, free-lancer Jim Kean and commercial photog Ken Molino whose imaginative pictures often tell more than pages of type.

We thank all those who have been so helpful in 1960. We wish them and you a happy New Year. And we hope that during 1961 we will be meeting with and talking to a great many more readers.

The Bosses Teach, And Tam Students Earn As They Learn

Work Experience Program Part Of Education Of Some 50 Pupils

By ED NEUMEIER

Just for fun, and because cute initial names are back in vogue, they call it WEEP.

But most of the kids in the Tamalpais Union High School District Work Experience Education Program jump for joy. Well, not literally. But they like it.

The happy part about it is that employers seem to like it too. Not only are they glad to get good help and to participate in a worthwhile program, but they like their experience as teachers. For under the work experience program, the employers or their supervisors are, literally, teachers.

WORK EXPERIENCE, as part of a student's high school education is not new. It's not new in the Tam district either, but it has been re-instituted. After the program was in operation for five years under Philo W. McCulley, work experience was dropped during an austerity period in the Tam district.

Now, under coordinator Robert J. Maher of San Anselmo, former Drake High teacher and counselor, the program is again full blown. Maher has almost 50 students working in a variety of part-time jobs. Before long he expects the total to reach 75.

These students are learning and earning in a variety of ways. They're in banks, bakeries, professional offices, retail stores, hospitals, schools, governmental offices—they're pumping gas, working on cars and other equipment, learning trades, exploring vocations; most of all, they're learning responsibility, work habits, how to get along with people, how to take orders, and other real life lessons.

Students may work as many as 28 hours a week and may receive as much as an employer will pay, but they cannot be paid less than the state minimum wage. Most of them average 20 hours per week on the job, Maher says, except the teachers in elementary classes who work 7½ hours plus time for class preparation.

These, incidentally are an interesting facet of the many sided program. At present there are six of them assisting the Isabel Cook School in San Anselmo. Their work is carried on through the Drake High future teachers club.

ALL OF THESE on-the-job students are on the job only partially. They must still take all school requirements. For their supervised work experience, they receive up to 10 semester credits per semester, five for each hour of work per day. They can earn a maximum of 40 high school credits in their high school career. The program is open only to juniors and seniors.

The students, Maher said, take their work experience time from what would be a study hall or an elective course.

"In fact," he pointed out, "work experience is simply another elective offered to some students."

Students who apply for the program are screened by guidance personnel. Their motives, especially, are screened. Students with heavy academic loads are usually counseled out of the program.

"Naturally," Maher says, "some of these students are interested in supplementing their incomes. These cases are legitimate. But in all cases, it's the general overall educational development of the individual that is foremost in selection."

It is this screening and this selection which especially appeals to employers. Mrs. Lyle Meyers of the Top Drawer clothing store in Sausalito stressed this aspect.

"We've long hired students from Tam High and have been extremely pleased," she said. "Now under this program we are given further guarantee that they're the right ones. We get a good caliber of help.

"Besides," she added with a twinkle, "I get a kick out of helping them with problems like personal grooming and how to meet people."

Another enthusiastic employer is August Kientz of the Kientz Bakery in San Anselmo. "We've been hiring high school students for 20 years. We're a pioneer in this. Sometimes we keep them all through high school and into college. Occasionally one will stay in the business.

"Sure, they're all good kids from Drake, the ones we get. And we get to be teachers too."

AT THE FIRST National Bank of San Rafael, cashier and secretary Henry F. Luehring expressed similar reactions. At the moment he has three students under the program—a messenger boy who doubles in brass on the addressograph, a girl in the new business department, and another girl in the bookkeeping department. They're all Redwood High students.

And he wants more. Students, he said, are put through the bank's normal training program to learn the different aspects of the operation. After two weeks, department heads "take them under their wings" and then they are assigned to work with a specific employee. After that, they move at their own pace.

"There's important mutual benefit in this program," Luehring said, "for the bank, for the school, and for the students. These students often plug the gaps in our staff. They keep the supervisors on their toes because training others is one of the best ways to do that. And the possibilities of keeping them as permanent, trained personnel are increased."

There are presently six student employees from the Tam district in county offices. One is in the district attorney's office, two in the county assessor's, and one each with the auditor, personnel, and the county administrator.

It was former County Administrator D. A. Jensen who presented the program to the board of supervisors, Maher said. Both the county and the school district are pleased with the arrangement.

In all, Maher lists 23 separate occupations in which his students are presently placed.

The box boy, the mechanic's assistant, the dental assistant, the janitor, the dishwasher, the machinist helper, the receptionist, the photographer's assistant, the lampmaker's assistant, the delivery or messenger boy—you name it.

They're jumping for joy, figuratively, that they have an opportunity with WEEP—an opportunity to learn and to earn.

From Tibet's Monasteries To Marin

The Lhasa Apso Has Won The Esteem Of Dog Breeders Of The Western World

By DON KEOWN

Mrs. Doris Solmonson of 1616 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, is a woman who has always been interested in travel — the kind, she says, that calls upon me for fresh judgments unrelated to anything in my past experience."

Because of that she has been an admirer of world traveler Lowell Thomas and an avid reader and viewer of his books and television programs.

And because of that, she is Marin's leading breeder of and enthusiast for what is one of the rarest among breeds of dogs found in this country—the Lhasa Apsos from Tibet.

TO FILL IN the details of that chain of interests:

A few years back Mrs. Solmonson had no interest whatsoever in dogs.

"I was fond of cats and birds," she recalls. "But I had never been interested in dogs."

Then she read the Lowell Thomas book, "Out of This World."

She says of Thomas: "He has always represented my concept of true manhood with his many activities of really useful service to his country and to mankind."

His appraisal of Tibet, where he had been received by the little country's religious leader, the Dalai Lama, as a representative of the Western world, fascinated Mrs. Solmonson.

And among the passages which particularly interested her was Thomas' account of how the Dalai Lama had given him, as a farewell gift, a pair of the charming little Lhasa Apso dogs which he brought back with him to this country.

Five years ago she saw those dogs in a television program based on Thomas' travels. And she fell in love with them.

It was then that she determined that she, too, would own some of the rare dogs. But finding them was another matter.

Then in the magazine, "Dog World," she finally came upon the information as to where she could obtain pure Lhasa Apsos. She learned that there were but three such kennels in the entire United States, one of them in California. And from Mrs. Albertram McFadden of Palo Alto she got her first pair of Lhasas, three generations out of Tibet.

SAYS MRS. SOLMONSON of the dogs, borrowing from the title of the Lowell Thomas book which first turned her interest in their direction:

"As friends, companions and ambassadors of love and dignity, they are truly 'Out of This World'."

The Lhasas Apsos are one of four breeds of dogs native to Tibet. There are also the Tibetan Terrier, a dog of true terrier type raised more or less all over the country; the Tibetan Spaniel, a toy dog; and the fierce and powerful Tibetan Mastiff.

Common characteristics of all these dogs are a heavy coat of hair, to provide protection against the rigors of the climate, and the carrying of the tail up over the back.

The huge mastiff is often chained by its owner to a post outside the front door as a guard to prevent intruders from entering. And he performs that job well.

Inside the Lhasa Apsos performs much the same sentry duty. Intelligent, with acute hearing and finely developed instincts to pick between intimates and strangers, the dog shows the result of long years of training in this work.

In Tibet itself these dogs are often called the Abso Keng Kye or "bark sentinel lion dog."

The breed can be traced back as far as eight centuries in Tibet. The name Apsos comes from a certain valley in that mountainous country. And this has led to the belief among many that the dogs hail from that area. But actually, they are natives of Tibet's fabled capital city of Lhasa where they were found almost exclusively in the monasteries and in homes of the mighty —so much so that early travelers to Tibet seldom saw them. The name Apsos is the result of the resemblance of its long hair to that of the coat of a goat which was to be found in the Apsos Valley.

There have been suggestions that the dogs have a place in the religion of Tibet. The experts say, however, that evidence to support this belief appears to be lacking.

There, is however, ample evidence of the high esteem the Tibetans have long held for the dogs.

THE LHASA APSO was known in England for many years before it was introduced into this country. An English explorer in 1904 sent home to England from Tibet a Lhasa Apso to a Mrs. Frank Wormal. She showed her dog at the Crystal Palace in 1909 and it won first prize in the foreign dog class.

Shortly thereafter the Kennel Club of England honored the Lhasa Apso with challenge certificates.

Lhasa Apsos first came to the United States in 1931 when Charles Sydam Cutting, who had visited Tibet, brought back with him what was the original stock for the breed in this country. He continued

a friendship with the Dalai Lama by correspondence, and by additional trips to Tibet, and as a result additional breeding stock was sent to him from time to time at his Hamilton Farm in New Jersey.

The Lhasa Apso is a controversial dog in this country.

Purists, including Mrs. Solmonson, insist that the true purebred Lhasa Apso in this country must trace its lineage back to Hamilton Farm stock as can her dogs. And they are concerned with the practice in this country of lumping together with the Lhasa Apso another dog, the Shih Tzu from China, as a single breed.

These experts agree that very likely the two breeds did have a common ancestor once. But they insist that they are now two distinct and separate breeds, and decry the failure of American dog shows to make the distinction that is made in England.

Mrs. Solmonson says the "mixup" all came about this way:

WHEREAS IN England the Lhasa Apsos and the Shih Tzus were both recognized and registered as separate breeds, in this country only the Lhasa Apsos were recognized. And then the first Shih Tzus were brought to this country. The owners of these dogs faced a problem in registering their animals with the American Kennel Club, since the organization did not at the time recognize the Shih Tzu breed. The owners solved their problem, according to Mrs. Solmonson, by representing their dogs as Lhasa Apsos and registering them as such with the AKC.

"The error made at that time has never been corrected," she adds.

The result is that the same dog is sometimes registered in this country as a Lhasa Apso and in England as a Shih Tzu.

The situation was further complicated when the Shih Tzus brought to this country were bred with other Shih Tzus and with Lhasas, and the get registered as Lhasas and sold on that basis.

A cancellation of registrations to clear up the matter, AKC officials have maintained, would be unfair to the people who have acquired these registered dogs in good faith.

The Lhasa Apso and the Shih Tzu have similar long coats. But the Lhasa Apso is narrower of skull and longer of nose than the flatter-faced Shih Tzu, and on the whole has a more terrier-like appearance.

The Lhasa Apso enthusiasts are still battling for separate designation and judging of the two dogs.

The Chinese, incidentally, call the Shih Tzu the "Tibetan Lion Dog" and often clipped them to look like a lion. They were bred in the Imperial Palace at Peking along with the Pekingese or true Chinese Lion Dog.

Lhasa Apso bitches also differ from the Shih Tzu in that they have smaller litters, these experts say. Mrs. Solmonson's Gozel—Tibetan for "Loveliest"—has had two litters, the first a single puppy, the second three lively youngsters. Two of the new pups were sold to proud new out-of-county owners.

CHRISTMAS DAY the third puppy left the Solmonson home, purchased by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barry Jr. of Kent Woodlands as a pet for their three children, leaving Mrs. Solmonson with only Gozel and her male dog, Yak-Son, for the present.

Mrs. Solmonson estimates that there are "less than 10" of the "true Lhasa Apsos" in all of Marin County.

They remain one of the most difficult dogs to obtain. But Mrs. Solmonson is convinced that they are well worth the effort.

"They have made of me not only an admirer of the breed, but also a lover of and worker for all animals," she says. She is active in the work of the Marin County Humane Society, and it is at her Grand Avenue home that the society will hold its 1961 spring fund-raising event — a silent auction.

Mrs. Solmonson says the dogs are "very clean" and quick to show appreciation when petted.

"To get the most from these dogs one must make a lot of them, and they will respond well," she says. "To anyone they trust, they are most obedient. And their beautiful dark eyes look so appealing as they wait for some show of thanks for their efforts."

The crude manner by which the dogs are bred by the Tibetans is probably responsible for the fact that colors are not fixed. Thus, if a black and white dog is bred with a honey colored bitch, the result may be a brown or a brown and white pup.

The two original dogs brought to this country by Cutting were a black and white male, Taikoo, and a female "the color of raw silk," Dinkie. Both were beautiful specimens of the breed. And from them have come offspring in these colors: black and white, grizzle and white, honey colored, golden, and brown and white.

Experts say that under the influence of more scientific western breeding, the colors will become more certain.

THE DOGS, however, have not lost their special abilities as watch dogs, nor their hardy natures.

Owners, Mrs. Solmonson says, are wise if they continue to develop these points of special merit in their pets.

Mrs. Solmonson's husband, Julian K., an executive who recently sold his business in San Francisco, is an admirer of the Lhasa Apso. But the dogs are the property and the responsibility of his wife. And, she says, it is a most pleasant responsibility.

"They have such personalities that they seem almost like people," she explains. "They have every attribute you would want and expect in a good friend."

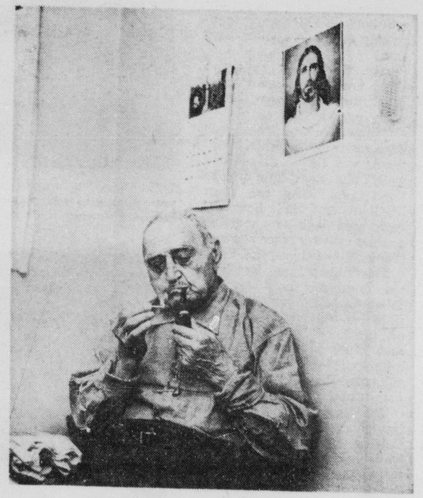
The Lhasa Apso may not be sacred in their native Tibet. But at 1616 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, they are regarded as something pretty special.

THE LAST OF a litter of three puppies, this youngster was still making his home with his parents and their mistress, Mrs. Doris Solmonson, when this photo was taken. But Christmas Day he moved to a new setting, and a happy life as a children's pet.

AND HERE THE puppy is in his new home with his new owners—the children of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barry Jr. of Kent Woodlands. The Barrys purchased the puppy as a Christmas gift for their three daughters, left to right, Jennifer, 8, Elizabeth, 12, and Victoria, 5. The children, disregarding the custom of giving Lhasa Apsos Far Eastern names, promptly named their new pet Buttons.

THE PITTING OF MAN against the fury of a raging, out-of-control fire was caught in this Independent-Journal photograph by Dick Steinheimer. The silhouetting of the toiling men against the background of flames and smoky skyline makes the picture an especially effective one.

THE OWNERS of this English bulldog assured photographer Steinheimer that despite her pet's grumpy looks, he really was a friendly fellow. Regardless of his nature, he made an ideal subject for a close-up photo.



CHARACTER CAN be shown by a good picture, as is illustrated in this photo taken by Steinheimer of an elderly San Quentin prisoner content in his hospital room at the prison and disinterested in returning to the outside.

THIS TIME EXPOSURE picture by Dick Steinheimer was taken while a night search was under way off Point San Quentin for a missing airplane. The white streaks are the result of the whirling blades of a helicopter that was taking part in the hunt.

THIS APPEALING little raccoon and his young master were perfect subjects for a human interest photo. But Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax capitalized on the possibilities to the fullest by catching them in this fetching pose. The picture ran as a cover for your Marin Magazine.

I-J Photogs Pick Their Best

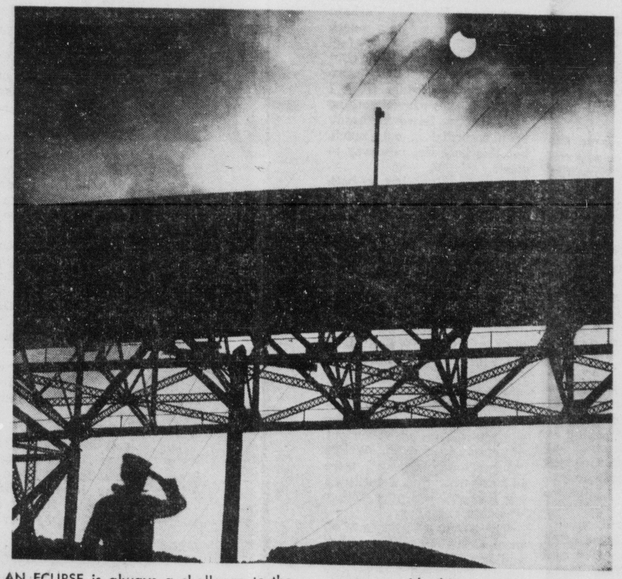
The reporter's copy is only one of the methods by which the daily newspaper keeps its readers informed on the events which are taking place in the world around them.

Equally important in relaying and in explaining this news is the picture taken by the photographer.

Independent-Journal readers are fortunate in that they are served day in and day out by two experienced and talented news photographers—Dick Steinheimer and Bob Hax.

During 1960 their photographs have served to make the news more vivid, more understandable to subscribers of the I-J.

We have asked the two photographers to select some of their favorite I-J photos of 1960 for reprinting on these pages. The ones shown here are among those they chose and serve to illustrate the importance of the camera and an imaginative photographer in modern journalism.



AN ECLIPSE is always a challenge to the photographers, both amateur and professional. This year the I-J's Dick Steinheimer came up with this excellent study, using the Golden Gate Bridge, the Marin coastline and a silhouetted serviceman as props.

ANGRY WAVES were punishing the shoreline at Belvedere when Bob Hax took this picture last May of a man in the water attempting to make more secure his threatened boat.

THIS PASTORAL SCENE with striking cloud effects overhead and a picturesque fence in the foreground was taken by photographer Hax two miles west of Nicasio along the Nicasio road.

A GIMMICK SHOT always challenges the imagination of the newspaper photographer. The I-J's Bob Hax set this one up this past summer to illustrate a heat wave in which the county was sweltering at the time.

OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD testified before the Senate Military Affairs Committee in opposition to compulsory military education in 1940—just one of the many such causes in which he was interested. Photo is from the Syracuse University Press book, "Oswald Garrison Villard, Liberal of the 1920s."

BOOK REVIEWS

Story Of A Fighting Liberal During Period Of Conformity

OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD, LIBERAL OF THE 1920S by Joy Hume, Syracuse University Press, 276 pages, $4.50. Reviews by Don Keown.

Oswald Garrison Villard was one of our true giants of journalism, a man dedicated to principles and to public service.

A descendant of the famed abolitionist editor William Lloyd Garrison, he was equally articulate and just as uncompromising in his espousal of latter day causes of liberalism. Indeed it was a mere handful of men and women of Villard's courageous ilk that was responsible for keeping dissent alive in this country in the 1920s, a period when non-conformity was under even stronger assault than it is today.

Villard is best identified in the public mind as the editor for a number of years of that lively and outspoken liberal journal, The Nation.

He was also at one time the publisher of the New York Evening Post. And both in his publications and in his private life he threw himself wholeheartedly into causes in which he believed.

He hated war and was strongly anti-militaristic. He fought what he regarded to be social injustices whether they be the oppression of racial and religious minorities, or abuses of labor by its bosses. He was a vigorous exponent of liberty and independence for all peoples around the world.

Not even his fellow liberals saw eye to eye with Villard on all issues. Many, for instance, deplored his opposition to the League of Nations. But these liberals, and most conservatives as well, admired his courage and respected his foresight. And, though a member of a hard-pressed political minority, he was nevertheless an influential figure of his time.

D. Joy Hume, an assistant professor of history and government at Wells College, tells her story well. And the result is a most interesting, most enlightening book.

It is part of Syracuse University's "Men and Movements" series which also includes books on Henry A. Wallace, Gifford Pinchot and Norman Thomas. All led minority movements which were rejected in their day. But they also must be credited with causing major changes in the American political and social course. As such, they are deserving of the scholarly yet sympathetic treatment they are being accorded by the authors of these books.

NAVAL BATTLES AND HEROES by Wilbur Cross, American Heritage Publishing Co., 152 pages, $3.50.

In the tradition of its five predecessors, here is another beautifully done book in the American Heritage Junior Library series.

It covers the history of our Navy from the tiny fleet sent out by the Continental Congress in 1775 to the great Pacific fleets of World War II—and then takes a forward peek at the nuclear ships we will see in the 1960s. And it does its job well, with a lively, interesting and historically authentic text, and with marvelous color illustrations.

It is aimed at the child 10 and older. And we can think of no better way of stimulating an interest in American history among our youngsters than placing these Heritage series books in their hands.

THE UNCONSCIOUS by J. P. Chaplin, Ballantine Books, 194 pages, 50 cents.

This is an utterly fascinating little paperback by J. P. Chaplin, chairman of the department of psychology at the University of Vermont. In its probe into the irrational motivations in human behavior and into man's hidden fears and desires, it employs the scientific method and manner, but utilizes language easily understood by the layman.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

RESOLUTIONS

My resolutions are but few;
I trust they are sincere.
I realize not one is new,
Yet I will list them here:
To always do to others
As I would they do to me;
To never say an unkind word
Of friend, or enemy;
To each day say a little prayer
That I may better grow;
To do my best at any task
In every way I know;
To freely give of charity,
Yet not my friends forsake.
—To try each day to keep these vows
I took the time to make!

Self-Taught Painter Shows At De Young

A current exhibition of primitive oils at the M. H. De Young Museum in San Francisco represents but one facet of versatile Peggy Tolk-Watkins of Sausalito.

Until quite recently her painting was only one of several hobbies that were sandwiched in between busy careers as a social worker, a teacher, a writer of children's books, a business woman, and a housewife.

But in recent years she has become more and more identified in California as a painter.

And the current show, which will continue at De Young through Jan. 29, her first public exhibition, is indicative of her steady gain in prestige in art circles.

HER PROGRESS has been all the more remarkable in that she is that rarity—a completely self-taught artist.

She was born and brought up in New York City where she studied photography with Arnold Eagle under a National Youth Administration project, winning a third prize for a health poster that was subsequently used by the City of New York.

Though she had no formal art training, she began working with underprivileged children as an arts and crafts supervisor, primarily in New York's Lower East Side settlement houses. There she directed the children in the construction of stage sets, various craft projects and painting. During World War II she taught children in all eight war housing projects in Richmond under the supervision of Hazel Salmi, former director of the Richmond Art Center.

At the end of the war she received a year's work scholarship from Black Mountain College in North Carolina where she studied not art but literature, though she conducted painting classes for faculty members' children and organized a children's class at the Negro Baptist Church in Asheville, N. C.

In 1948 she returned to the Bay Area and opened The Tin Angel on Sausalito's waterfront. It soon became a gathering place for well-known jazz musicians and folk singers. She sold The Tin Angel in 1952 and spent a year traveling in Europe with her young son. In 1953 she returned to San Francisco and opened her second Tin Angel on the Embarcadero, and a year later The Fallen Angel. Both were successful nightclubs.

IN HER PAINTINGS she depicts animals and flowers—all highly imaginative. One entitled "Elephant and Orange Moon Walking" was reproduced as a cover of a record album of Paul Desmond, saxophonist with Dave Brubeck for Fantasy Records. The cover was described on the back as "representing the first serious attempt to fuse primitive art with modern jazz."

Since the sale of her third business undertaking, the Embarcadero Tin Angel to another Marinite, Kid Ory, who had often performed there, she has devoted her entire time to painting.

STEREO NOTES

Two Les McCann Albums In The Soul Music Trend

By JOHN SUNIER

LES McCANN PLAYS THE TRUTH—Pacific Jazz Stereo-2—The biggest trend in jazz today is toward a feeling called "soul." If you've got Soul, man you're in. One record company advertises, "We got more Soul Music than anybody else."

Basically, Soul is a renewed interest in the blues and gospel-music roots of jazz. The groups achieving the most pronounced gospel feeling might be dubbed "Saved Souls."

But enough preliminaries. Les McCann seems to be following in the footsteps of Bobby Timmons, another young Soul pianist, who, although good in small doses, hasn't enough just yet to adequately fill an entire album. The McCann blues and stomp keyboard soon get a little boring, although it must be said it really swings. One suspects all the swinging is not solely McCann's work, but the creation of that fine bassist, Leroy Vinnegar. Ron Jefferson on drums completes the group.

The "inspirational music" tenor of the album is reflected in "A Little ¾ for God and Co," and "Fish This Week But Next Week Chitlings."

On IT'S ABOUT TIME—Pacific Jazz Stereo 6—Les, Leroy and Ron are joined by the thoroughly experienced tenor man Teddy Edwards. Perhaps if I'd heard this disc a month after the first, I wouldn't feel bored by the whole thing. But frankly, "Blues Conjumations" was the only track I liked, and that proved nothing new. Teddy Edwards hasn't been recorded in solo much, but this isn't the best way to start.

Stereo engineering on both albums is excellent, with the performers remaining in the same places through all tracks, not switching positions with different numbers, as in some earlier stereo jazz.

ELLA IN BERLIN—MG VS-64041—Verve Records—

The Ella Fitzgerald disc is the LP from which the "Mack the Knife" single was taken. It's a subject of disagreement whether Ella really didn't know the lyrics and thus substituted her own, or whether she felt the lyrics, taken out of context from Weill's "Three-Penny Opera," were in poor taste and substituted her own satirical ones. Either way, it's a gasser.

The German audience of almost 12,000 loved Ella, as her audiences always do, and their reaction spurred her to new heights, as witness the fantastic scatting on "How High the Moon."

The People Who Bring Good Theater To Children Of Marin

By NANCY WISE

Fifteen years ago professional theater was introduced to the children of Marin County.

It was the outgrowth of an afternoon teatime conversation at the Kentfield home of Mrs. Robert Hobart which had led to the organization of the "Children's Little Theater Group of Marin County."

A month later "Hansel and Gretel," produced by the San Francisco Opera Company, was presented for 3,500 children at Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael. This demonstration of interest encouraged a large and active group of women to continue the development of children's theater in Marin. Not only did Children's Theater, as the organization was then known, bring professional drama to the young people of the county, but it also organized workshops that served as many as a thousand youngsters at one time.

TWO HUNDRED volunteer women worked in the establishment of the workshop program.

When teen-agers showed an interest in joining, the name of the program was changed from Children's Theater to Junior Theater of Marin County. Today there are four units of Junior Theater—Ross-Kentfield-Greenbrae, Fairfax, Sleepy Hollow and Belvedere-Tiburon.

County-wide Junior Theater, whose president is Mrs. James Heynemann of Belvedere, sponsors the Ballet Aquacade, a June affair which raises funds to finance the summer workshops for the four units.

The winter program is also coordinated through the county-wide Junior Theater, with the individual units distributing season tickets through the schools.

This year's winter series opens next Saturday with "Cinderella," to be followed by "Magic" on Feb. 11, "Gretchen and the Lonely Goblin" on April 1, "Puss and Boots" on April 15, and "Pinocchio" on May 13.

The "Cinderella" productiton is by Mrs. Martha Bigelow Eliot's San Francisco Players Guild. A witty version of the fairy tale by Alice Duer Miller has been selected. Sets and costumes were suggested by Constantin Alajalov's illustrations of Mrs. Miller's poem.

The cast for next Saturday's performances will include Nancy DeFoe as Cinderella, Jacques Denbeaux as Prince Fortune and as the coachman, Alice Perry as the stepmother, Sally Sherman and Abby Wasserman as the step-sisters, John Brebner as the Duke of Belgrade, and Charmion St. John as the fairy godmother.

BREBNER IS the technical director, Sybil Siegel the scene designer. Ann Brebner planned the lighting and Beatrix Perry designed the costumes.

As are all the Junior Theater winter plays, "Cinderella" will be presented in the San Rafael High School auditorium. There will be two performances—the first at 10:30 a.m., the second at 2 p.m.

Junior Theater officers for 1960-61 in addition to Mrs. Heynemann are Mrs. Wallace C. Painter, vice-president; Mrs. Donald F. Berg, treasurer; Mrs. C. Van Vliet, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Walter Noll, recording secretary.

THE STEPMOTHER and the villainous step-sisters are all dressed up for the ball, but their finery doesn't seem to have helped them much. Left to right are Sally Sherman Taylor, Alice Perry and Abby Wasserman. There will be two presentations of "Cinderella" starting at 10:30 a.m. and at 2 p.m. (Du Charme Studio photos)

In a few hours the year 1960 will be part of history and we will be ushering in the New Year. During 1960 many of you have given us the privilege of adding a fine music system to your home. We, at Catania Sound, wish our Old Friends and our New Friends a year full of musical pleasure.

Progress in 1961 will continue to add to our listening pleasure. Possibly by spring or early summer, stereophonic broadcasts by FM multiplexing techniques will be an everyday reality. Undoubtedly the surfaces of records will be improved to lessen the surface noise and wear. Stereophonic records will approach more exactly the concert hall realism.

New stereophonic recording techniques may make loudspeaker placement in our homes less critical. And, of course, 1961 will bring its crop of Broadway musicals, new symphonies, and new vocalists and orchestras to increase our libraries of good music.

May all of your problems in the coming year be whisked away by music.

Caulking Can Cut Heat Cost

Caulking compounds are used to prevent rain and wind from entering your home through gaps that occur chiefly where two dissimilar materials meet.

Typical places were water seepage may be prevented by caulking are around doors and windows, roof joints between masonry blocks whether the building be frame, brick, or masonry. Other points where caulking should be used are floor-wall junctions and wood column-floor junctions.

A properly caulked home in winter will conserve heat by keeping out cold air thus helping to hold the heating bill down. Some points to check in insulating a home properly are gaps between rough attic floors and chimneys; around electric conduits passing through floor and walls; and around outlet boxes.

Caulking compound is a uniform blend of pigments, oils and thinners which result in a semisolid that remains plastic to the touch. They should not be thinned.

PROPER SURFACE preparation and application are essential to a good caulking job. Surfaces should be clean, dry, free of dust, moisture, grease and with sufficient space provided so that adequate caulking can be installed.

Caulking should not be applied when the temeprature is below 40 degrees. Joints deeper than five-eighths inch should be filled with oakum prior to caulking. While caulking does not need to be painted, paint industry research proves that its useful life can be extended by a normal painting maintenance program similar to that given the exteriors of an average building.

There are three types of caulking compound depending on use: Gun grade, Knife grade, Rope form. Gun grade, as its name implies, is designed for application by a "gun." Caulking of the gun type is packaged in cans and in cartridges or plastic bags which fit a caulking gun.

In estimating the quantity of compound needed for a job, a rough approximation would be 10 to 15 linear feet per cartridge (one-tenth gallon). The most common colors are white, natural, off white and grey.

In applying gun caulk, hold the gun at about a 45 degree angle to the surface. Also, hold the gun in the same plane as the crevice you are filling—not at right angles. All joints or beads of caulking should be at least three-eighths inch deep. A generous bead of caulking will last longer than a small bead.

TWO TYPES OF guns are available. In one type the cylinder is loaded with the bulk compound from its container. The second type which has more appeal to the occasional user, accepts a cartridge packed by the manufacturer. You just drop the cartridge in the gun and squeeze the trigger. Soiling and cleaning up are avoided.

Rope caulking, which is available in several dimensions, is best used for temporary or permanent protection against drafts, moisture and dust around windows, screens, louvres and miscellaneous points in the home; also around hatches, windshields, cabins and masts on a boat.

Rope caulking is ideal as a temporary seal because it can be easily removed. No tools are needed for its application. You take the caulking rope and press it firmly into the crack with the fingers.

The knife grade is applied by a putty knife or spatula. It is particularly adaptable to medium-sized cracks or crevices.

If you are using caulking for small boats, be sure to ask for Marine Caulking Compound.

These Helpful Hints Simplify Task Of Hanging Wallpaper

Hanging wallpaper is not difficult, and here are a few tips to make it even easier.

1. Be sure to apply a coat of primer-sealer to plasterboard walls before papering. Or you can use cut shellac to which you add an equal part of alcohol. This coating makes it possible to remove the paper in the future without damaging the plasterboard. After the primer-sealer or shellac a coat of glue size should be applied.

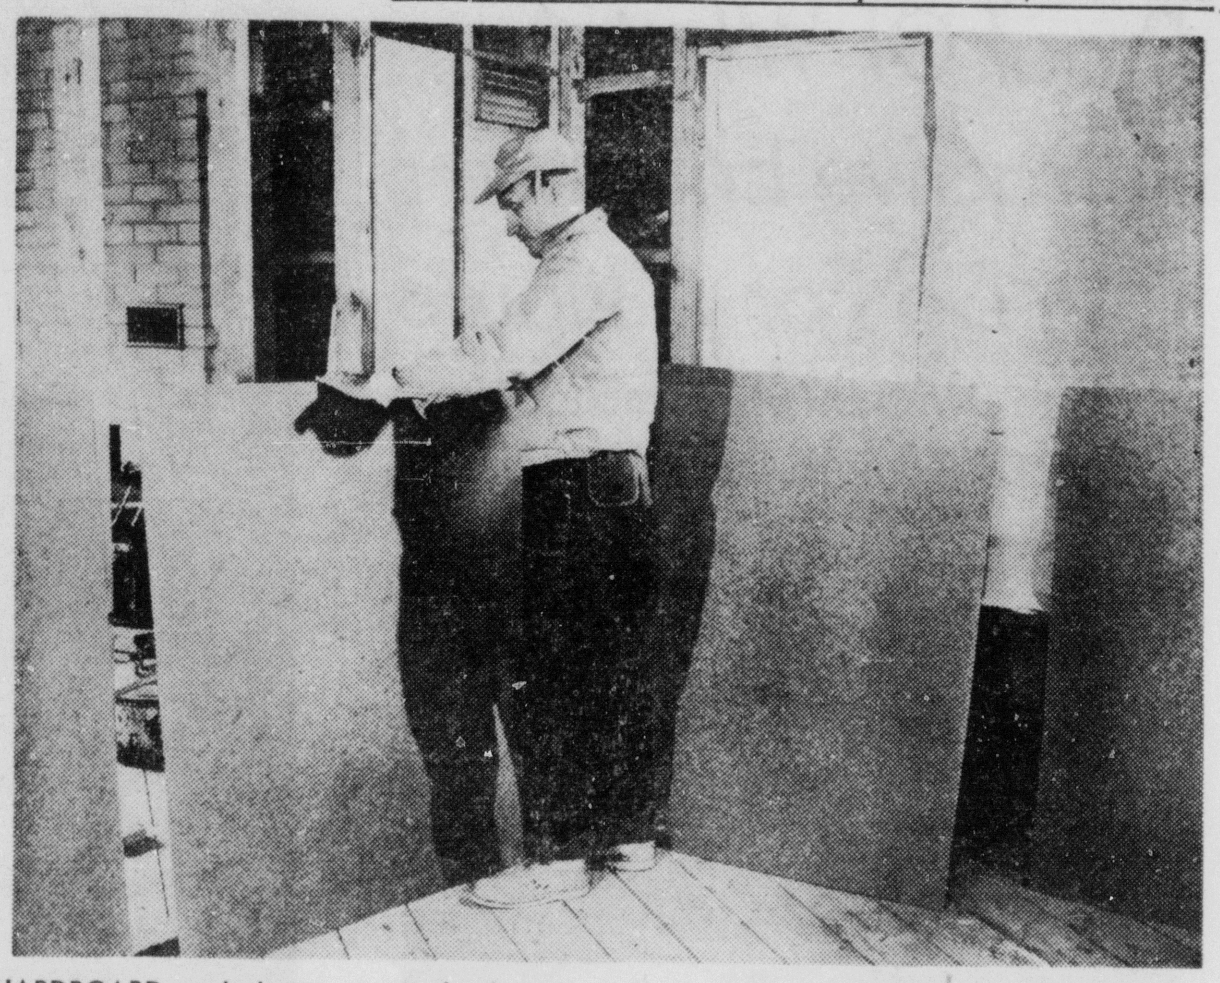
2. In papering over wall cloth, wash with a solution of either strong soap or ammonia and water in order to cut the gloss finish. Then apply glue size and allow to dry for an hour or two before hanging.

3. In papering over existing wallpaper, be sure that the old wallpaper is tight to the wall. If it is loose in spots, remove the old paper. It is also best to remove old wallpaper where the seams have been lapped since the old seams will show under the new wallpaper.

4. Most wallpapers sold today have had the selvage trimmed off at the factory. If not, the dealer will trim the papers for you at a nominal charge, thus eliminating the need for a cutting table and straightedge. A kitchen table or two card tables, covered with wrapping paper, will work well for matching and pasting strips.

5. Do not worry about getting paste on the pattern side when you buy trimmed wallpaper since it can be washed off after hanging.

BEFORE applying hardboard underlay panels to a floor, make sure that floor is clean. The panels will bridge small gaps and irregularities in the sub-floor. If there are irregularities over large areas, high spots should be sanded and sunken spots should be filled to provide a solid base. Be certain all nails holding sub-floors are driven flush.



HARDBOARD underlayment panels should be "conditioned" before application. If atmospheric conditions are close to normal, stand panels separately and on edge around the room for at least 24 hours before application. This permits panels to stabilize. If room is abnormally damp due to wet plaster, wet concrete, or some other temporary condition, wait for room to dry out before applying the panels.

INSTALLATION of the underlayment starts at one corner of the room. Nail from the center of panel out to edges with nails not more than six inches apart. Nailheads should be flush with the floor surface.

AVAILABLE in conveniently-sized four-by-eight-foot panels, hardboard is easy to work with. The do-it-yourselfer needs only hammer, saw and a plane to do the job quickly and efficiently. Once up, hardboard is simple to maintain. A whisk of damp cloth wipes off dirt and smudges. Many hardboard panels are prefinished, needing no additional work once they are applied to the wall surface. Others require a coat of clear sealer, lacquer or wax to maintain a beautiful finish for years.

IN THE GARAGE

Hardboard Can Work Magic

The average suburban garage has an extremely cluttered appearance.

The biggest problem is where to park the family automobile once the lawn mower, seed spreader, rakes, hoes, shovels and other garden tools have used up garage storage space.

Actually, there is a solution to this perplexing problem: Panels of perforated hardboard. Easy to apply to any garage wall, the panels are strong enough to support even the heaviest of summer tools.

Hooks, which can be purchased at any hardware store or lumber dealer, are inserted into the perforations in the hardboard, thus getting the garden tools off the garage floor and out-of-the-way of the family car. Another advantage of perforated hardboard is that tools can be placed on the wall to adjust for the needs of the six foot man-of-the-house and his five-foot wife moving the holding hooks up or down a hole or two.

Perforated hardboard is available in a variety of thicknesses and surface finishes, including the new, luxurious-looking wood grains. To add a touch of color to an otherwise drab-looking area, economical hardboard can be purchased in its regular brownish color and painted in bright, colorful hues.

By using hardboard as decorative paneling along the walls in addition to its more useful purposes, home owners by simply opening the garage doors can stage all-weather, indoor-outdoor parties. Add a few decorative touches to set off the bright perforated hardboard panels and, like magic, a garage can be transformed into an exterior recreation room.

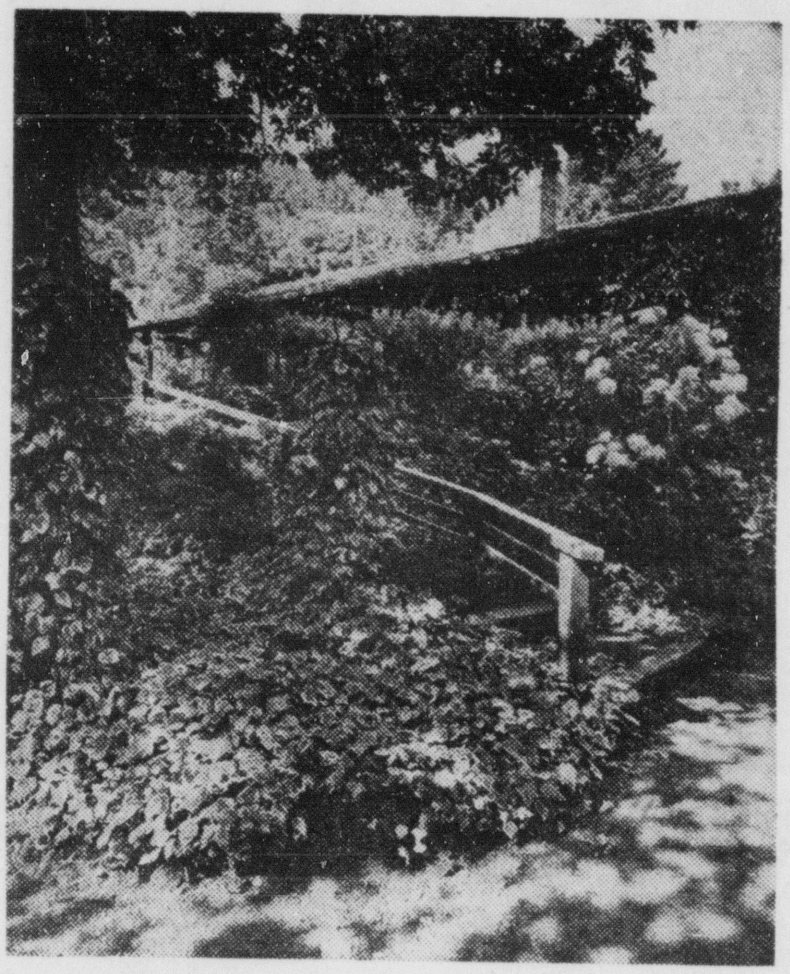
Proof Of What An Attractive Entrance Can Do For A Home

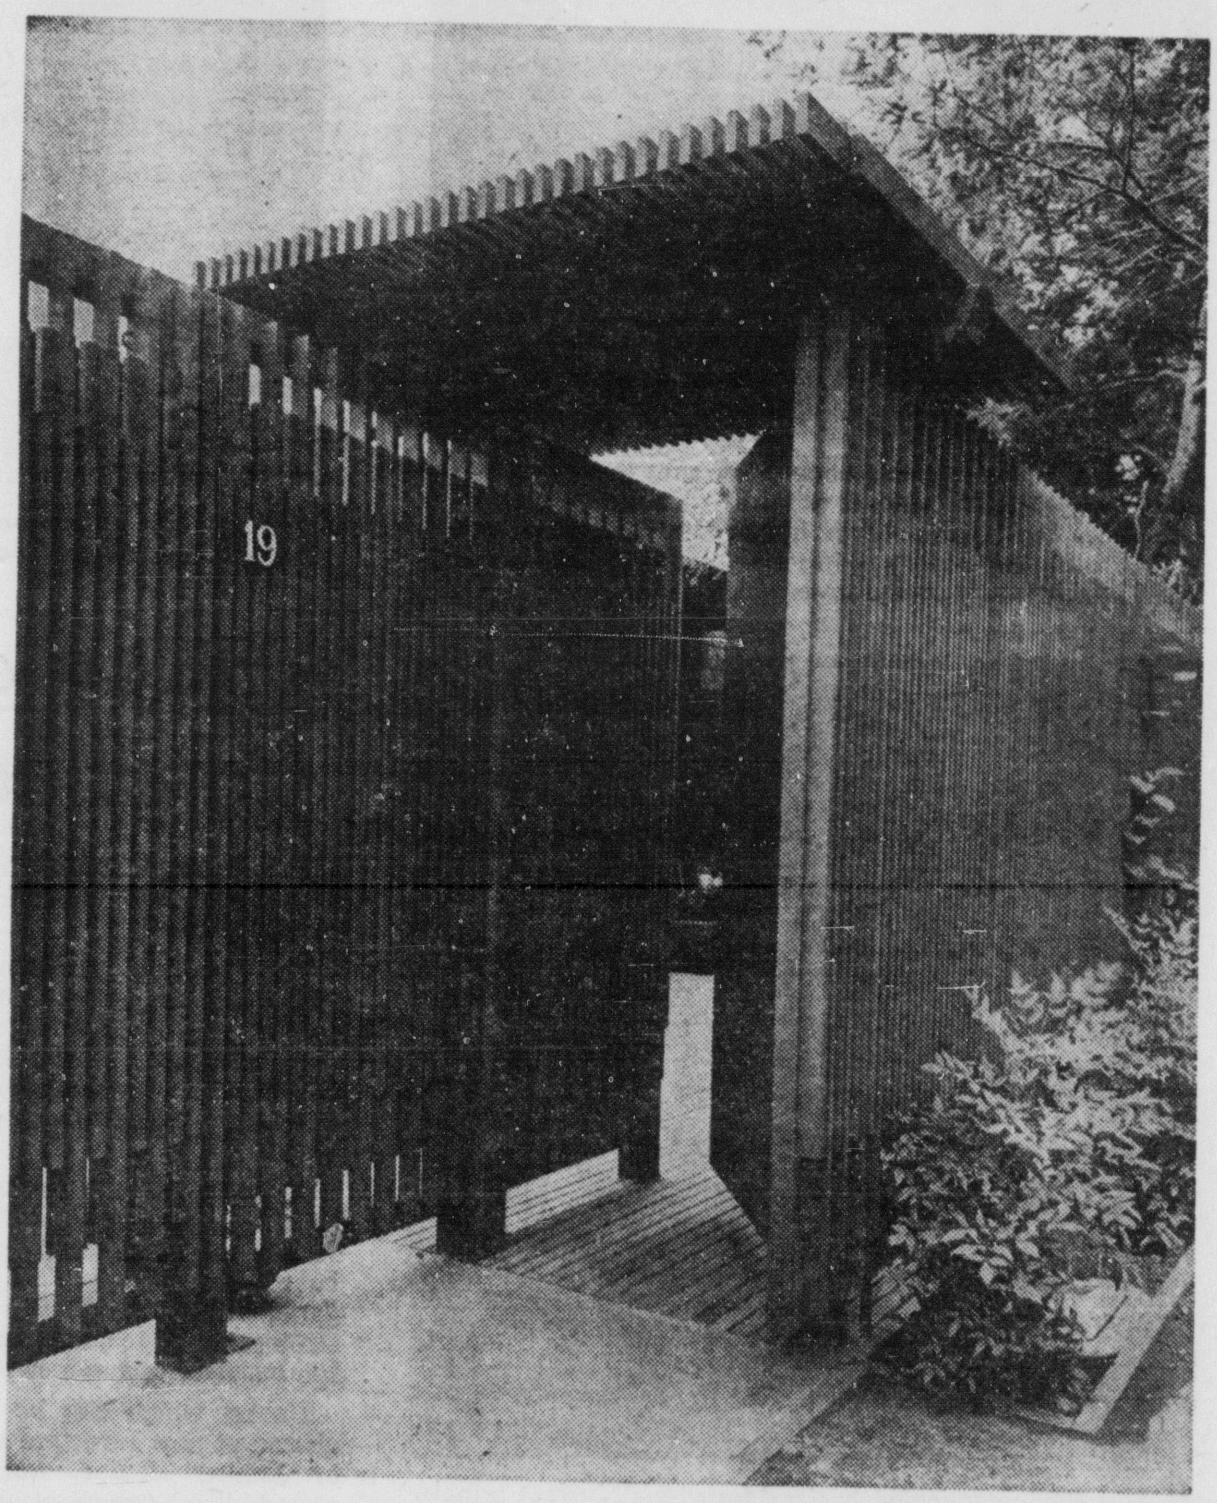
Three Different Approaches To This Challenge Are Shown Here

ANOTHER VIEW of the John Berryman home in the Reedlands shows how the garden, the walk, and the screening fence all serve to complement the house itself.



THE RUSTIC FRONT entrance to the Ralph Alden home in Ross features railroad tie steps and retaining walls. A profusion of Algerian Ivy, Juniper and Hydrangeas add to the charm.

THE ENTRANCE GARDEN to the John Berryman home in the Reedlands, Mill Valley, has been given an attractive oriental feeling by landscape architect Robert Graves and the contractors, Cagwin and Dorward. And the fence screens the entire area from the street to provide privacy.



THE WILLIAM TSUCHIDA home in Belvedere, built on a steep lot but placed at the same level and very close to the street, dictated a complete screening from the street. Landscape architects Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes and landscape contractors Cagwin and Dorward solved the problem with this screen which is not only highly effective, but also a thing of beauty. Now's The Time For Gardeners To Vow To Do Better In 1961

If for no other reason, we should welcome the end of a calendar year as a point in time from which to start anew. And this holds just as true for the gardener as for any other sinner.

While chalking up your year-end list of regrets and proposed resolutions, think back through your garden year and let your conscience be your guide. We bet there isn't one gardener in 10 who feels he couldn't have improved on things.

Let's look at our lawns, for instance:

Do they reflect the loving care of a head greenskeeper, or do they look more like the rough beyond a fairway? Make a note to indicate just what you think went wrong and resolve to do something about it in 1961.

Did your roses look as fresh and full in fall as they did in spring? Or did they reflect a certain neglect? Perhaps you forgot to follow your planned spray schedule or failed to feed them or mulch around them. Be objective and list your shortcomings as a rose gardener.

And that front parkway—did weeds get out of hand because you put off planting a ground cover that might have choked them out? Did the parking strip detract from an otherwise pleasant approach to your house?

One of the most important things you can do at year's end is to take your checklist in hand and sally forth into the garden. There, in the zealous spirit of reform, write down all you see that could be improved in 1961. This will include uprooting worn out or overgrown plant material, rearranging plant beds, moving shrubs and planning new plantings.

You may not accomplish half of what you firmly resolve to do. But you are at least setting yourself a goal, and gardening will be more exciting because of it.

The Many Camellia Varieties Keep Their Growers Happy

Barring roses, there's no garden favorite you can name that offers more faces to the public than a Camellia.

There are well over a thousand different varieties in the world. You can find them in every size and shape.

With such a selection, it's inevitable that the cult of Camellia fanciers is large. And it's further inevitable that new varieties are ever being introduced to keep the cultists happy. The result, of course, is a wonderful world of plenty for the home gardener.

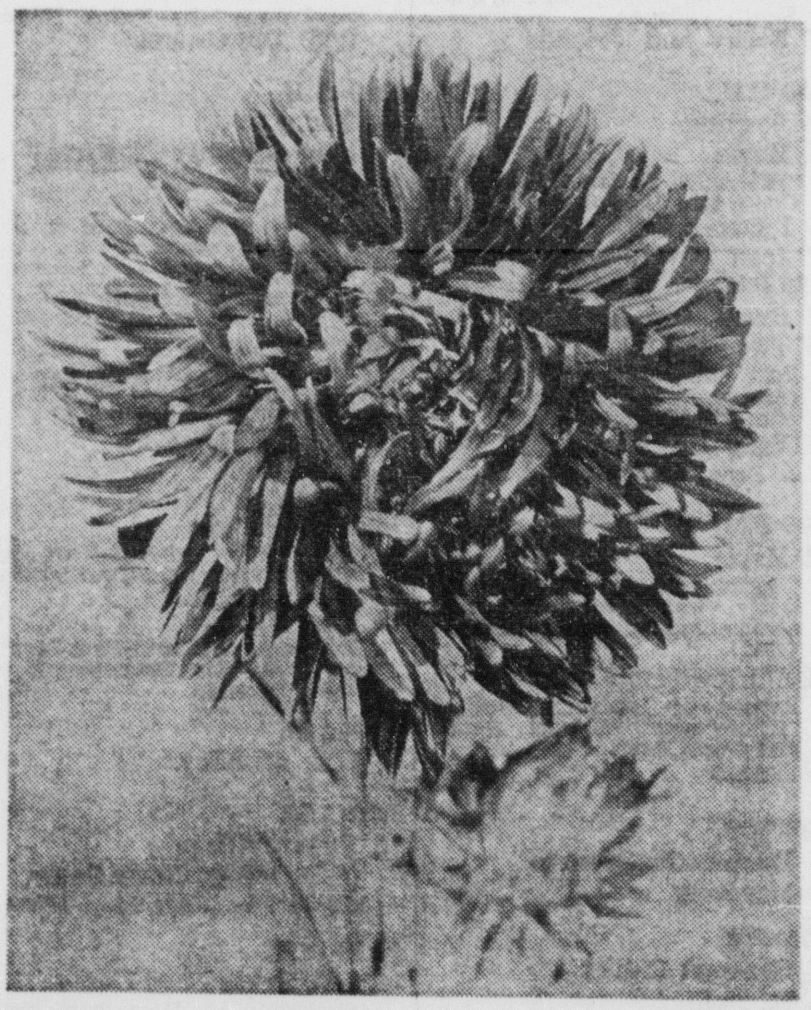
In recent years, the seekers of Camellia perfection have established the All-America Camellia selections. And if you are looking for a favorite variety you would do well to start with them. California nurserymen are now offering two new All-America Camelias —King's Ransom and Bonnie Marie.

King's Ransom is a luscious big pink Camellia of the japonica class. Bonnie Marie is a silvery-pink new hybrid.

Looking backwards at other All-America selections, we find some good ones—Sparkling Burgundy, that effervescent wine-colored sasanqua with the japonica-sized blooms; Sweetheart, a lovely formal japonica in rich pink: Buddha, a rose-pink reticulata with all the size and grandeur of that species; and Cinderella, a large rosy-pink japonica with white shadings.

The gardener should not assume, however, that only All-America Camellias are worth growing. The list of other beautiful Camellias is longer than your arm.

The thing to do is to keep an eye on your nursery's selection during the coming few months. As the blooming season unfolds, one good Camellia after another will lure you. And while you can't grow them all, you'll want to, we guarantee.



SCARLET BEAUTY is a new W. Atlee Burpee Co. Aster with a new color—a sparkling cerise-scarlet. It's a large, American-beauty type, and is ideal for borders and for cutting.

ROSES

There's No Mystery To Planting

Ask six rosarians how to prune a rose and you might get half a dozen different answers. But ask them how to plant one and you'll find little disagreement.

Rose planting is an all-important step; but there is nothing mysterious about it, nothing at all.

The first and foremost thing to remember is that roses like a sunny spot and a good workable soil, rich in nutrients and properly drained. Where these are present when the rose is planted, it will thrive during its life. And where they are lacking, no amount of future care will ever make up for it.

IT BEHOOVES the gardener, therefore, to supply these ingredients in his proposed rose garden. The soil should be worked deeply — mixed with humus, steer manure and/or one of the planting mixes you find in a nurseryman's showroom. Deep cultivation can't be over-emphasized, and even a good garden soil should be turned deeply before planting a rose in it.

Addition of bonemeal will supply nutrients.

This done, you are ready to select bareroot stock from the local nursery. Here your effort should be directed toward moving a rose from nursery to permanent planting site without delay. The less time it is exposed to the air, the happier it will be.

INSPECT EACH rose shrub as you plant it. If one of the roots is broken, use a sharp pair of shears and snip it off above the break. Next, assuming you have already dug your planting hole, mound a pyramid of loam in the bottom and set the rose on top of it. The pyramid should be tall enough to hold the rose's bud union (that swelling from which the canes grow) at least an inch above the final soil level.

Holding the bush steady, fill in around the roots with soil, water and add more soil, then firm it with your heel. A basin to hold water should be fashioned and filled to settle everything and after that you sit back, await results. You'll get them.

But remember — roses are heavy feeders and should be fed with a good rose fertilizer after growth begins in spring and regularly during the growing season.

HERE'S THE KIND of root system a home gardener should expect when buying rose plants. Note balance between size of root system and size of plant. Such a balance provides the plant with a "head start" toward a long life. The demonstrator is John A. Armstrong Jr. of Armstrong Nurseries Inc., Ontario.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Plant deciduous fruit trees in January. Also grapes, cane berries and strawberries.
- Plant flowering quince for some delightful early color. A hedge of quince makes a thorny and impassable boundary.
- Roses that are not planted the day they are purchased should have their roots covered with moist soil.
- Beware of collecting your own leaf mold. You may be collecting a sackful of trouble from oak root fungus at the same time.
- If you haven't already, prune roses in January. At the same time strip off any remaining leaves that have not fallen of their own accord. Clean up fallen leaves around roses.

Camellias Thrive Cramped In Tub

Camellias, like few flowering shrubs, will live happily for years with their roots cramped into a tub. They seem, if anything, happier for this discomfiture than not.

Therefore, it is wise for the gardener to choose a durable container when planting a camellia this way, figuring that he won't have to move it up to a size larger for a long time. There are reports of 100-year-old camellias still thriving in two-foot square planter boxes.

Prune Geraniums

Geraniums grow like weeds in California, but that doesn't mean the gardener should treat them as such. Leave them unpruned year after year and they will soon look like weeds. Prune them back drastically to two or three buds above the ground level. They will put forth lush new growth and look better than ever by summer.

An Event Which Cries For Color: The Tournament Of Roses Parade

EASTMAN KODAK reports that more color film is processed on the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade than on any other single event.

This is hardly surprising, since the parade is the kind of spectacle which is tailor-made for color—including the television coverage.

NBC-TV will oblige for the seventh straight year with a colorcast of Monday's parade beginning at 8:45 a. m. on KRON-TV (Channel 4). If your set forces you to settle for black and white, you may prefer the ABC-TV coverage which will also get under way at 8:45 over KGO-TV (Channel 7).

Both networks will carry parade previews beginning 15 minutes earlier.

Handling the commentary for the ABC will be the team of Bob Cummings and Bess Myerson. Betty White and Roy Neal will do the honors for NBC.

Regardless of whether you are able to take advantage of the NBC color coverage, it should be a spectacle well worth the viewing. Sixty flowered floats, 20 smart marching bands, 200 thoroughbred horses, more than 1,200 colorfully clad participants including a host of Hollywood celebrities, and, of course, the beautiful queen and her court will be included in the passing pageantry.

And climbing out of bed to watch the parade should be less of an ordeal this year. You'll have all of Sunday to recuperate from seeing the New Year in.

JUST AS closely associated with the New Year's holiday as the big parade are the bowl football games. This year all four of the big ones will be played on Monday.

CBS-TV will lead off with the Orange Bowl game from Miami (Missouri vs. Navy) beginning at 9:45 a. m. on KPIX-TV (Channel 5), and follow that with the Cotton Bowl tilt from Dallas which pits Arkansas against Duke.

NBC will cover the Sugar Bowl game from New Orleans (Mississippi vs. Rice) starting at 10:45 a. m. on KRON. And then at 1:45 p. m. the same network and the same station will bring you the biggest of them all — the Rose Bowl classic from Pasadena, Washington vs. Minnesota.

The weekend is going to be a tremendous one for sports filberts. Already today television has brought them three big football contests—the San Francisco East-West Shrine Game, the Blue-Gray Game, and the Gator Bowl game.

Tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. KGO will carry the American Football League pro championship game between the Houston Oilers and the Los Angeles Chargers from Houston.

Tonight at 7, in place of the usual Saturday night fights, KGO will be showing the second half of the title game in the annual Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament from Madison Square Garden.

And for a real change of pace, KPIX will feature boat racing including the Sid Street Memorial for 266-cubic-inch hydroplanes and the Grand Prix open for all limited racing hydroplanes when it brings you CBS's coverage of the Orange Bowl Regatta from Miami's Biscayne Bay tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Nor is the end in sight. There is yet another heavy schedule of sports coming up next weekend including two Saturday football games — a pro clash between the two National Football League divisional runners-up, Cleveland and Detroit, on KPIX, and the Senior Bowl game from Mobile on KRON; and, on KGO, the first of a series of Saturday afternoon college basketball games, this one between Kentucky and Georgia Tech.

AS FOR New Year's Eve on television, video isn't planning much in the way of special programming tonight. NBC is covering the always roaring welcome to the New Year from New York's Times Square, but KRON isn't going to carry the show.

So the only programs qualifying as New Year's Eve specials are:

A dance party for teenagers to be hosted by San Rafael's Dick Stewart on KPIX starting at 11:15 p. m. Originally it was planned to feature Stewart's band and vocalist Bobbie Norris, but the signals have been changed and the music will now be restricted to recordings. The "bash" will last until 1:15 a. m.

And an ABC network show to be seen on KGO at 10:30 p.m. entitled "Music for a New Year's Eve" and featuring Kitty Carlisle and a number of other singers and dancers.

ALSO WORTHY of your attention during the coming week:

Sunday: An hour-long March of Dimes campaign kickoff show entitled "What About Linda" and featuring a host of top entertainment names which will be seen during the day on all four Bay Area stations; the world premiere of a new American Opera, "Deseret," by Leonard Kastle on KRON at 3 p. m.; an "Omnibus" show previewing the new Lincoln Center of Performing Arts in New York on KRON at 5 p. m.; and "The Will to Victory," an hour-long documentary based on Winston Churchill's memoirs, at 9:30 p. m. on KGO.

Tuesday: A repeat showing on the "Project 20" documentary, "The Twisted Cross," at 10 p. m. on KRON. It tells of Adolph Hitler's rise and fall.

Wednesday: The Morton Wishengrad drama, "The Rope Dancers" as the "Play of the Week" on KTVU-TV (Channel 2) at 8 p. m., and a probe of the black market baby racket on "Armstrong Circle Theater, KPIX, 10 p. m.

Thursday: An analysis of the electoral college system on KPIX at 10 p. m.

Friday: KQED-TV (Channel 9) will show a BBC version of Henrik Ibsen's "The Master Builder" as its "Drama Festival" offering at 8:30 p. m.; KRON will begin a new situation comedy series starring Nanette Fabray at 8:30; and Jose Iturbi, Renata Tebaldi and Shirley Jones will be the headliners in a "Bell Telephone Hour" musical on KRON at 9 p. m.
